TRIBAL HEALTH

New alternative therapies being offered at SUHC

Sound Therapy and Neurodynamic Breathwork offered

By Nenette McNamara, FNP-C

Science is evolving and finding that there are several alternative therapies that help with physical health and mental health disorders. Two of these therapies are now being offered at the Southern Ute Health Center. These new offerings are Sound Therapy and Neurodynamic Breathwork. Nenette McNamara, FNP-C offers these therapies and has certifications and extensive training in both of these modalities.

Certified Family Nurse Practitioner, Nenette McNamara, practices Sound Therapy using Tibetan singing bowls on Tuesday, Aug. 9 at the Southern Ute Health Center. Sound Therapy and Neurodynamic Breathwork therapies are now offered at the Southern Ute Health Center. Sound Therapy uses various instruments to improve physical and emotional health and well-being by using vibration and sound to balance the nervous system.

Sound Therapy uses various instruments to improve physical and emotional health and well-being by using vibration and sound and balancing the nervous system. The instruments used include tuning forks, Tibetan singing bowls and drumming. The use of music, vibration, and sound has been studied extensively by researchers as a means of inducing positive emotions and subsequent relaxation and promoting a sense of wellbeing. The Earth and Universe have a vibration, when we are in tune, or aligned with this vibration, we have better physical and mental health. Everyday interference, that includes stress and worry, all affect how our nervous system functions. This dysfunction in our nervous system can show up in other areas of our physical body such as constant stomach aches, feeling nervous, anxious, or depressed in addition to many other physical symptoms. There is ongoing research on how sound and music can help with processing trauma-based emotions. Stress, caused by the pandemic, job loss, and everyday difficulties can cause anxiety or depression which can lead to physical symptoms. Perhaps you have experienced abuse, whether it be physical or emotional, in your past history. This abuse can lead to many physical and mental health difficulties. Often medication and counseling or therapy is used to help alleviate this stress and address the underlying causes. Sound therapy can help with this process and provides added benefits that include better sleep, helping to calm the mind of constant thoughts and obtaining a sense of wellness. Sound therapy can be used in conjunction with counseling and medications and does not have harmful side effects. Sessions are often 60-75 minutes in length.

Breathwork is the use of breath and music to help with one's journey in inner exploration; we have our own 'inner guiding intelligence' that we can access. Our society and way of life today has dampened our access to this inner guid-

Archery has long played an important role in the Southern Ute community, from competitive shoots to recreational events tailored for all ages. Youth teams sign up each spring and fall for archery events, hosted in conjunction with the Southern Ute Tribal Fair or athletic events like the Tri-Ute Games. Avid hunters and archery enthusiasts while away the time on weekends and afternoons practicing their marksmanship. SunUte Recreation uses archery as a means of empowering youth, while teaching them social skills and safety protocols on the shooting range.

While the location of the Tribe's archery range was centrally located near SunUte Park, the proximity to the Bear Trail has been a point of concern. SunUte

TRIBAL PLANNING

Roads repaved in Cedar Point neighborhoods

Tribal Planning leads construction project

By Fabian Martinez
 THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

Since early July, residents of the Cedar Point Subdivision have noticed significant changes to their daily commutes as heavy roadwork has taken place throughout the entirety of the neighborhood. The Cedar Point Housing Road Improvement Project is being led by the Tribal Planning Department and Project Coordinator, Mary Evening Star Eagle of the Southern Ute Tribe. The construction work is being completed by WCA Construction, LLC, an enterprise of the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe, based in Towaoc, Colo. This is the first full road improvement project to occur since the subdivision was established in the early 2000's with the only other additional work being the installation of speed tables in the mid-2010s.

The Cedar Point Housing Road Improvement Project aims to remove and replace sections in the roads in the subdivision that were surveyed as problem areas. The project was initially in the planning stages starting in 2016 with a design completed in 2017 by Russell Engineering & Planning of Durango, Colo., which has now merged with SEH Design Build.

The project was fully funded by 2020, when work was projected to take place, but the impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic halted progress on construction. In 2021, the project resumed and was reevaluated and redesigned by SEH with a new survey conducted to find areas in the roadways that needed to be fixed or entirely replaced.

"We found several differences [in the roads] from what the engineers found in 2017," Tribal Planner Douglas McDonald said. "The roads had deteriorated even more, so the design needed to be upgraded." With the newly enhanced design, an estimated budget of about 2.5 million dollars was allocated for the project which will feature four types of repairs to the roads, while also addressing other issues to the roads and sidewalks.

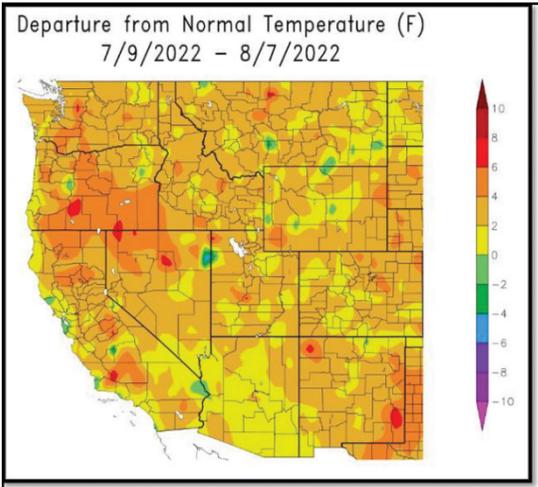

The largest repair includes a Full Depth Reconstruction that will occur in about five to six areas in the subdivision. These areas were deemed as having an insufficient base, poor soils, or erosion from water

WATER RESOURCES DIVISION

Tribe focused on drought resiliency planning

RESOURCES DIVISION

The 30-day departure from normal temperature throughout the western U.S.

The Southern Ute Water Resources Division (WRD) has a Drought Management Plan (DMP) that was developed in May of 2019 as part of Drought Resiliency Planning for current and future droughts. The DMP describes actions that Water Resources Division and a Drought Task Force must take when certain drought triggers are met. The only current action is to update the Drought Task Force periodically about local drought conditions. Historically, WRD has sent updates about every two months. WRD decided to publish this drought update to keep everyone up to date on current drought conditions in our area.

Monsoon rains have been intense since the last drought update in June and the moisture has helped significantly improve local drought conditions. This update describes precipitation and temperature, changes in local drought conditions, and local forecast outlooks for this fall.

PRECIPITATION

Over the last two months, the rain gauge outside the Southern Ute Water Resources Division office has collected 6.25 inches of rain. Southwest Colorado has received above average precipitation over the last month. However, we've also had a month of slightly above average temperatures. This summer has been wetter and warmer than normal, but the rains have helped our region greatly.

Regional data shows current reservoir capacities in our watershed. Vallecito Reservoir is currently 56% full and still receiving substantial inflows from monsoon rains. The Pine River will more than likely have a full irrigation season. However, Lemon Reservoir is currently 39% full. At the beginning of the irrigation season, Florida irrigators were told they would have a 50% supply and the season would end mid-July. But with the recent monsoonal rains, Florida irrigators have a 60% supply, and the season will likely end the week of August 15 unless the Florida Water Conservancy District (FWCD) determines they can extend the season longer. Florida irrigators may have a longer season but only time will tell.

DROUGHT CHANGES

The monsoon season has helped local drought conditions since the last drought update. Southwest Colorado drought conditions were slightly alleviated with the onset of monsoons. We're still in a drought, but the rains have helped a lot. And looking at the Southern Ute reservation specifically, drought has been alleviated since the last update, especially where most of the irrigation takes place in the central part of the reservation. Drought conditions are much better this year compared to last year, so this year's monsoons have been extremely helpful and much needed.

FORECASTS AND OUTLOOKS

As you may have noticed, the first week of August was very wet and the rest of the month is forecasted to have above average precipitation. Daily trends show August through October having slightly below average precipitation, but our area is on the edge of that forecast, so anything could happen.

The 1-month temperature outlook shows August having below average temperatures for our area, with September and October being warm. Regardless, expect August to be wetter and cooler than average, and expect the fall to be slightly drier and warmer than average.

However, even with our region forecasted to have a drier and warmer fall, the drought outlook shows our area improving in drought conditions. This just goes to show things can change even when outlooks don't look promising.

To sum up this drought update, this summer has had above average precipitation and temperatures which has improved local drought conditions, especially compared to last year. The Pine River will likely have a full irrigation season and the Florida will likely have the irrigation season ending in the next week or so. This fall will likely be slightly drier and warmer than usual, but drought conditions are forecasted to improve.

Dancing Spirit Community Arts Center is dedicated to providing the community with programs that enhance creativity and fellowship; promoting education, appreciation, and enjoyment of the arts. Dancing Spirit offers ongoing art classes for children, adults, and families; they serve the community with programs that bring everyone together and lift everyone up. The Dancing Spirit Art Corner, on Goddard Ave. and Empire St., has recently been updated with eight canvases with the help of Janice Riley, Ashlynn Dickson, and Southern Ute tribal member Issac Suina.

The Art Corner originated in 2010, but did not hold art up until April of 2021. Art began to fill up the corner in response to the COVID-19 pandemic as a way for community members to express themselves after a year in lockdown. Kasey Corria, member of the Dancing Spirit

Board of Directors, helped to update the corner in May of this year. "Fear was in the air, so it came to me one day at my loss and feeling mourned, let's do this art corner and they [community members] can do art installation on their own," Corria said. "It gave them a way to communicate things that were going on and it was really awesome, the art that went in there."

With the talents of artists Riley, Dickson, and Suina the art corner has since been adorned with eight canvases depicting nature and young children.

The Art Corner is sponsored by Dancing Spirit Community Arts Center, and the community is more than welcome to share their artwork to be displayed, and they currently have another set of eight blank canvases ready to be painted. Dancing Spirit has an abundance of art materials needed to complete the canvases if anyone is interested. Artists can reach out to Kasey Corria to share any design ideas or to volunteer to complete the artwork.

"They can reach out to me if they have any ideas for the art corner, it is open to all," Corria said. "I challenge the youth to step up - this public art is an awesome opportunity for you to be able to make people think and make us scratch our heads."

Dancing Spirit also has an art co-op currently located at 695 Goddard Ave. in downtown Ignacio, Colo., the co-op is looking to represent the community with art from Native American and community artists. The co-op is operational every Thursday through Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., artists can rent a space for $25 a month and work two-to-four-hour shifts at the co-op to avoid paying commissions that can be in the upwards of 60% after they create their art pieces. For more information on how to have your art displayed at either the Art Corner or the Dancing Spirit Co-Op please contact Dancing Spirit at 970-563-4600 or visit their website at dancingspiritgallery.org.

Summer Pasta Salad

- 12 oz whole wheat pasta (bowties, penne, rotini, etc.)
- 2 tomatoes (Roma or from your garden!), diced
- 1 yellow squash, cut bite-sized pieces
- 1 zucchini, cut bite sized pieces
- 1 broccoli crown, cut bite sized pieces
- ½ red onion, diced
- 15 oz can garbanzo beans (chickpeas) rinsed and drained
- 4 oz mozzarella pearls (quartered slices work well, too)
- ½ cup fresh parsley, chopped

Dressing

1. ½ cup olive oil
2. 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
3. 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
4. 1 teaspoon basil
5. 1 teaspoon oregano
6. 1 clove garlic, minced
7. ¾ teaspoon salt
8. ¼ teaspoon pepper

Directions

1. Cook pasta according to package directions.
2. Cut all vegetables as directed above.
3. Rinse and drain garbanzo beans.
4. In a large bowl, combine the vegetables (except parsley) and beans.
5. When pasta is done, rinse under cold water and place in refrigerator for 10 minutes.
6. Place all dressing ingredients in a jar with a tight-fitting lid and shake vigorously.
7. Combine cooled pasta with vegetable mixture, add mozzarella pearls and parsley.
8. Pour dressing over mixture, stir well to coat.
9. Serve or place in refrigerator for up to five days.

COVID-19 vaccines for young children

BACK TO SCHOOL

Though the temperature certainly still feels like summer, the shocking reality exists that school restarts later this month. Hopefully your summer has had some relaxation and ease and less of the school year’s busyness. While we should all make the most of summer’s goodness for as long as we can, making some gentle adjustments to prepare for school restarting can get the school year started in a good way for your child and family.

So many of the youth I saw this summer in the clinic told me they are staying up most nights until 2am, 3am, even 5am! Summer means late bedtimes for many of us as we enjoy the magic of warm summer nights, but when school starts, early nights are the key to your child getting enough sleep. For most people, switching their sleep schedule takes some time. Starting weeks before the first day of school, begin moving your child’s bedtime back a little each night so by the time that first day arrives, they will be able to fall asleep early enough to get the sleep their bodies and brains need to be their best at school.

The start of the new school year is a great time to set up schedules so that not only sleep, but all the things that matter in your family have their scheduled time during the day. Help your child figure out what schedule works best for them and with your family when it comes to homework, rest, snacks, meals, exercise, etc. Setting it up from the beginning of the year can create routines so that your child creates healthy habits and hopefully complains a little less about doing their homework.

Speaking of homework, a new school year is a good time for us as parents and caregivers to check in with ourselves about our expectations for our kids around academics. One of the recommendations I hear often from experts is to focus on the process and the learning and less on the outcomes. It is so easy to just focus on grades, but the long-term goal is to help our kids be motivated from within to try their hardest and strive for their goals – not because of outside validation. We can help them develop this by talking less about A’s and B’s and more about how they are learning to think and trying their hardest.

Lastly, the start of the school year is a time to help our kids with their mental health when at school. Talk about bullying and who to talk to if it occurs. Talk about resilience in the ups and downs of friendship relationships. Encourage them to identify at least one positive coping method for when things are stressful and a trusted adult they can go to when they need help.

I hope you and your family can fully enjoy these last beautiful days of summer and start out the new school year in a good way.

You can make an appointment for your child to be seen at the Southern Ute Health Clinic for back-to-school questions or anything else by calling 970-563-4581.

Aging gracefully

ing intelligence, but we can all access it for self-healing and guidance. This is a great way to help with the processing of grief, trauma, and addiction. Trauma, regardless of the severity, can lead to not only physical symptoms but also addictions and stress on our mental health. By accessing our inner guidance intelligence, we can help process trauma, be in touch with our inner self and develop more clarity on our purpose in life.

There are some instances where we cannot do breathwork such as with certain physical illnesses. Conditions such as glaucoma, retinal disorder of the eye, schizophrenia or uncontrolled blood pressure are a couple of conditions where we would need to assess prior to undergoing the breathwork session. Controlled blood pressure is not a problem nor is diabetes a condition that would keep you from participating. In the jungles of Peru, the medicine men use ayahuasca to help one access their inner guiding intelligence, with breathwork you can do this without drugs. You will only process what you can handle. This means that whatever comes up in a session is what you can process and accept or handle at this time. Your inner guiding intelligence will not give you an emotion that you cannot handle. Unlike drugs, you can stop the breathwork process anytime you want pointments will be forthcoming. We will be sure to keep you informed as we roll out this service. Second bat tests positive for rabies in La Plata County

Staff report

SAN JUAN BASIN PUBLIC HEALTH

A bat found northeast of Durango, Colo. earlier this week has tested positive for rabies. There was a human interaction with the bat, and this individual is receiving post-exposure prophylaxis to protect from developing rabies.

In Colorado, rabies occurs mainly in skunks and bats. Other mammals can be infected with rabies from bats and skunks. Domestic animals such as dogs, cats, cattle, and horses can become infected by being bitten by a rabid animal. Interaction between humans and wild animals, particularly bats, skunks, foxes, and raccoons, increases the risk of rabies exposure to pets and people. If you see wildlife that is acting unusual, call La Plata County Animal Protection at 970-385-2900 or SJBPH at 970-247-5702 immediately.

San Juan Basin Public Health (SJBPH) urges residents to stay away from stray and wild animals, check pets' vaccination status, and take other precautions to avoid rabies. The vaccine can prevent companion animals from getting rabies from wildlife and possibly exposing your whole family to the disease.

Rabies is spread primarily through the bite of rabid animals. It is almost always fatal in humans once symptoms appear. People who have been bitten or scratched by an unfamiliar animal should contact their health care provider immediately to reduce the risk of rabies.

To avoid rabies

- Never touch or feed wild or stray animals. Don't leave pet food outdoors. If you see a sick or orphaned animal, do not touch it; instead contact La Plata County Animal Protection.
- Vaccinate your pets. Use a licensed veterinarian, and make sure you keep up with pets' booster shots.
- Leash your dog. Protect dogs and wildlife by keeping your pet on a leash while walking or hiking.
- Keep cats and other pets inside at night. Keep dogs within your sight (in a fenced yard or on leash) during the day while outside.
- Call your veterinarian promptly if you believe your pet has been exposed to a wild animal.
- Vaccinate pastured animals annually. Have a licensed veterinarian administer an approved large-animal rabies vaccine.
- Avoid all contact with bats, especially bats found on the ground. If you find a bat on the ground, don't touch it.
- Bat-proof your home. Information is available at www.cdc.gov/rabies/bats/management.

- If a bat has been present in a room in which people have been sleeping, it is important that the bat is safely trapped and tested for rabies. If a bat cannot be tested or there are multiple bats in the home, post-exposure treatment of anyone living in the home is recommended. Please contact SJBPH for guidance on safe capture, testing of bats, and follow-up.

Recognize sick wildlife

- Many healthy wild animals are normally afraid of humans; sick animals often do not run away when spotted by people.
- Wildlife with rabies may act aggressively or will violently approach people or pets.
- Some rabid animals are overly quiet and passive and want to hide. Don't bother them.
- Rabid wildlife might have trouble walking, flying, eating, or drinking.

San Juan Basin Public Health is a local public health agency, governed by a seven-member local Board of Health, serving all residents of La Plata and Archuleta counties. For over 70 years, San Juan Basin Public Health has improved the health and environment of the Southwest Colorado community.

PUBLIC HEALTH

La Plata County resident diagnosed, treated for monkeypox

Staff report
SAN JUAN BASIN PUBLIC HEALTH

A La Plata County resident has been diagnosed with and treated for monkeypox, according to the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment (CDPHE). Public health is investigating the case and completing contact tracing. Prior to the confirmation, San Juan Basin Public Health (SJBPH) has been working to coordinate local resources for testing, treatment and vaccination to address the national public health emergency.

SJBPH has secured limited Jynneos vaccine from the national strategic reserve, allowing for timely distribution of the vaccine to individuals who have had close contact with someone who has a confirmed case of monkeypox. Due to shortages in national vaccine supply, SJBPH is not able to provide pre-exposure vaccination to high-risk individuals, though production has increased following the emergency declaration and additional supply is expected in the coming weeks.

To sign up to receive notifications from SJBPH about future vaccine availability, fill out this form: <https://tinyurl.com/mr4cskdz>

Monkeypox began spreading this spring in parts of the United States, Canada, Europe, and Australia. It is endemic in central and West Africa. It is spread between people through close contact with an infected person's sores, bumps or lesions or through prolonged face-to-face contact with someone who is sick. It can also spread through contact with the bed linens or clothing of someone who is sick.

Epidemiological data on recent cases suggest there is a heightened risk for men who have sex with other men, in particular those with new or multiple partners. Anyone can contract monkeypox regardless of age, gender, sexual orientation, or other factors. The CDC has determined that the risk to the general public is low.

Early symptoms of monkeypox can include fever, headache, muscle aches, swollen lymph nodes, and exhaustion. Most people get a rash or skin bumps one to three days after they first start feeling sick. This rash usually starts on the face and then spreads to the arms and legs. Sometimes, the rash may start in the genital area. Some people don't feel any symptoms before they get a rash. Some people experience a rash that does not appear externally but can be very painful. Monkeypox can look like syphilis, herpes, blisters, or acne.

If you believe you may have been exposed or are experiencing symptoms, contact your health care provider for a medical evaluation and inquire about testing. Monkeypox is rarely fatal, but can make a person very sick, but most people recover fully within two to four weeks. In most cases, monkeypox will resolve on its own though there is effective treatment available. Contact your health care provider to learn about treatment options.

Individuals can help prevent the spread of monkeypox by avoiding close physical contact with individuals who have acquired monkeypox, wearing a high-quality mask if they will be spending time in close contact with someone experiencing symptoms of monkeypox, and contacting a health care provider as soon as possible if they experience symptoms.

For more information, please visit <https://sjbpublichealth.org/monkeypox/>.

Update

Tribal Health is closely monitoring the high, local COVID cases. Due to an increase of COVID-19 cases on and around the Reservation, staff will begin testing patients prior to their appointment. To avoid a scheduling conflict which may occur, please schedule your dental and eye appointments now by calling the front desk at (970) 563.4719.

This process will remain while the COVID Community Levels are listed as "Medium" and "High".

Tuition-Free College in High School

What is Concurrent Enrollment?
Colorado's concurrent enrollment program enables students to take college courses while they are still in high school. Classes may take place on the college campus or be taught by college-certified teachers at the high school.

Tuition is paid for by a student's school district, saving families thousands of dollars in education costs. In the 2018-19 school year, concurrent enrollment students on PCC's campuses saved an estimated $2.3 million in tuition.

Most concurrent enrollment credits earned at PCC are guaranteed to transfer to any four-year public institution in Colorado. This means if a student completes enough credits to earn an associate degree while still in high school, they need only two additional years, not four, to complete a bachelor's degree.

Eligibility Criteria

- Must be a high school student
- Must meet the eligibility requirements of your school district
- Must apply to PCC (complete your application at puebloc.edu)
- Must have completed Concurrent Enrollment registration paperwork with PCC (online at bit.ly/ECPC)
- Student must apply for and access their College Opportunity Fund (COF) for all PCC classes

School Board hosts Council

photos Sunshine Whyte/SU Council Affairs

The Ignacio School District School Board hosted Tribal Council Tuesday, Aug. 2 for a quarterly meeting to discuss academic achievement of tribal students in the district. Also, on the agenda included summer collaboration and enrichment, Strategic Plan update, and Superintendent's Report on the four-day school week and activity Fridays.

Tribal Council is working on a tribal truancy code for the upcoming school year. This aligns with the district's attendance policy change. At the meeting, school administration asked for support of this policy; as attendance in school is key to academic success!

IGNACIO SCHOOL DISTRICT

Bobcat Bulletin: Upcoming news and events

By Christopher W. deKay
IGNACIO SCHOOL DISTRICT

I am excited and pleased to share with you upcoming news and events in the school district this year. Please make sure that you get your children registered for school as soon as possible (www.ignacioschools.org). In this way, each school will be able to communicate with you and prepare to best meet the needs of all children. We will begin to implement the changes as outlined by the Strategic Plan and continue to improve academic growth through high expectations. Together, we will engage, empower, and prepare all of our learners for the future!

It promises to be a momentous year as we move into the four-day school week. Please make sure to check the school calendar on the website. Each school will focus on increasing student engagement, as well as classrooms that have clear learning targets and successful learning outcomes. The school is working with local youth groups and businesses to provide activities and loss of learning support on 25 activity Fridays throughout the school year. The new schedule also provides staff with consistent professional development days.

There will be an open house for the elementary, middle and high school from 4:30-7 pm on Thursday, Aug. 18. Please take some time to bring your children into the respective school to meet staff and enjoy a variety of activities. Romero Street which runs in between the elementary and middle school, will be closed to accommodate

Chris W. deKay
Superintendent

food trucks and other activities. Parking will be available on the street and in the school parking lots.

School begins Monday, Aug. 22 at 7:50 a.m. for middle and high schools. Elementary will start at 8 a.m. Breakfast and lunch will be served in each building this year. Please keep in mind that you must fill out a free-and-reduced form if there is need for that support for your family. This year, meals will be charged to students eating in the cafeteria. Students who eat well-balanced meals have more focus and perform better in classes.

We ask for your support to ensure that students are well rested when they get to school. Research strongly suggests that electronics be removed from the bedroom of children between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. each night depending on the age level. In this way, youth will get a good night's sleep and be ready for the school day. A docking station for cell phones/video games that is under the supervision of the parent or guardian overnight is recommended.

Attendance is of utmost importance this year. This needs to be a community-wide effort. It is imperative that each child reach the district goal of a 93% attendance rate. Commitment to having both students and staff at school on Monday through Thursday is paramount to the amount of academic growth that is needed for our students. Please schedule appointments and plan family gatherings for the long weekend to the best of your ability. We are working on a letter in collaboration with Bayfield and Silverton to request that medical offices stay open on Fridays for the convenience of our communities. We will be working to schedule school sports and activities to take place on Friday and Saturday. This will ensure that active students and staff will be in class more as well. The Ignacio School District, in coordination with the Southern Ute Education Department, is revamping the attendance policy in an effort to improve attendance and ultimately the academic success of our youth.

There is much to be proud of in our schools and in this community. We look forward to implementing a new calendar, daily schedule, and improved interventions. As we work through the new year with renewed energy and expectation, I implore you to continue to work in a positive way with school staff and leaders. Together, we make this community a great place to live and raise our children.

Please access the Ignacio School District Website at www.ignacioschools.org for more information on the 2022-23 school calendar and the Strategic Plan.

Father Cesar of the Saint Ignatius Church asked tribal elders, Russel Blackbird and Terry Knight Sr., to say a prayer in their native language during Sunday Mass.

The 122nd San Ignacio Fiesta celebration kicked off on Saturday, July 30, in Ignacio. "Let Peace Prevail" was this year's parade theme. Attendees were able to attend activities set up at Shoshone Park which included: kiddie pools, kids' yoga, community mural paintings and more. Farmers Fresh Grocery store hosted this year's cornhole tournament and a taco bar. St. Ignatius Church had their St. Ignatius of Loyola Mass for the community followed by a lunch that provided indoor and outdoor seating and entertainment, Sunday, July 31.

Robert L. Ortiz/SU Drum

Carolee, Kylie and Kayliana Maestas add paint to the mural that will be displayed in Ignacio. The location will be determined through a vote by attendees at the San Ignacio Fiesta in the Shoshone Town Park.

Casias Newton Justice Center

Krista Richards/SU Drum

The Casias Newton Justice Center, which was recently renamed, now has the written name added above the front entrance of the building. The text, applied on glass, was finalized on Thursday, Aug. 4. The new name recognizes two of the Tribe's most prominent judges, whose careers helped shape the Tribal Court; former Tribal Chairman and Chief Judge, Pearl Casias and the late Chief Judge Elaine Newton. Both women were recognized for their years of service on the bench in a ceremony during Law Enforcement Week, a formal dedication for the Justice Center will take place at a future date.

Rhyme schemes, radio things

Dream Warriors, Jessa Calderon and Tall Paul conducted a workshop hosted by KSUT Tribal Radio. Topics the Dream Warriors discussed were basic and complex rhyme schemes, storytelling exercises, song structure, how to count bars in an instrumental, music terminology, performance strategies, techniques and principals, recording and more. The two-day workshop was held at the Eddie Box Jr. Media Center, Wednesday, Aug. 3 through Friday, Aug. 5. Dream Warrior, Jessa Calderon works with Derek Sage (Recording and Production) as they record lyrics provided by Dani Ashike-Borum. Sage came to KSUT through the Southern Ute Education Department's Youth Employment Program (YEP) who employ youth with various tribal entities, working a real job with hands-on training and developing real world employment skills. Ambrose Valdez was also at KSUT through the YEP program.

Members of the Southern Ute Tribal Planning Department and WCA Construction, LLC. look at the progress of the Full Depth Reconstruction repair at the intersection of Fry Bread Avenue and Arrow Street. The road has been stripped down to its foundation and is being replaced with new materials before being repaved.

over the years. Workers will replace the road by digging down almost 20 inches into the soil to create a stronger base with new materials and repave the road with asphalt. This will ensure the road will not degrade overtime and hold its existing structure. This phase is expected to be completed by mid-November.

Another repair occurring within the subdivision is a method called crack sealing which is used to repair cracks in moderately damaged roads with a "rubbery asphalt." This process occurred early within the project throughout the entire subdivision. McDonald explained cracks in asphalt allow for water and other elements to go into the crevasses and degrade the road even further.

In early August, another repair was incorporated into the project using a resurfacing technique called Mainline Asphalt Milling to the roads, Lodge Pole Way and Elk Street to resurface the existing asphalt that does not entirely need to be replaced. This work is being done through a subcontractor, Western Milling, LLC. of Grand Junction, Colo. with supervision by WCA Construction.

"Typically, the asphalt pavement is four inches thick. So, in the milling and repaving, they grind off the first top two inches of pavement and that leaves the bottom two inches," McDonald explained. "Theoretically ... that's still in pretty good shape. They pave the top two inches to the same level." The repave of the roads will occur by late August.

The final repair in the project will be a chip seal where workers will lie down a sticky layer of asphalt and put a layer of gravel on top. "This is a cheaper way of repaving because it provides you with a new surface, but it doesn't require as much material," McDonald said. For most of the roads within the subdivision, this is all that will be required for improving the road.

Other improvements include addressing drainage issues on such roads like Rolling Thunder and Arrow Street where heavy rains create hazardous conditions. Some sidewalks were also improved by removing vegetation and trees that uproot the sidewalks and destroy the integrity of the foundation. Two new bus stops will also be constructed on Burning Cedar Avenue and one on Mountain Dew Circle and will be one of the final phases within the project.

The existing speed tables will remain in place for speed reduction through the neighborhood as part of the Long-Range Transportation Plan.

Work on the project will continue into the fall with many residents and tribal members looking forward to its completion.

"As a [tribal] member, I am happy to see Cedar Point getting a facelift," Tribal Planning Administrative Assistant and Cedar Point resident, Roman Seibel said. "It feels like we are putting value back into Cedar Point. I feel like we should give it the facelift it needs to give the appreciation back to the tribal members [that live there.]"

For Tribal Planning Project Coordinator, Mary Evening Star Eagle, this road improvement project allows for the Tribal Planning Department to showcase what exactly it does for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe. On a personal level, it helps her apply her knowledge through her previous training to help improve the quality of life for the tribal membership, while also keeping the membership informed on projects within the department.

"We deserve to live in beautiful neighborhoods," Eagle said. "We have the ability to apply these funds to have these maintenances done. I want to make the neighborhoods nice."

The Cedar Point Housing Road Improvement Project is expected to be completed by Wednesday, Nov. 16, with standard work hours from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Severe weather patterns may impact the schedule and projected work dates on the project.

KSUT once again invited the Dream Warriors to inspire the youth of the community by showing them how to express themselves through music. Tall Paul and Jessa Calderon of the Dream Warriors discuss adding lyrics to a beat.

Dream Warrior, Jessa Calderon assists Dani Ashike-Borum in the KSUT Tribal Radio's Production Room, as they work on adding lyrics to the song they created.

Tribe hosts Upper Colorado River Commission

Southern Ute Tribal Council attended a historical meeting, Wednesday, Aug. 3 with the Upper Colorado River Commission (UCRC). The meeting is the first in the history of the UCRC, and the Upper Colorado River Basin. This historical occasion brought together the three Ute Tribes, the Jicarilla Apache Nation and Navajo Nation. Also in attendance were UCRC members and state representatives from Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming.

The San Juan College School of Energy welcomed Tribal Council to tour the facility and learn more about the programs that are available to students, Friday, Aug 5. The school also hosts numerous educational events throughout the year that provides students the hands on experience for career preparation.

Approximately 36% students are Native American, and San Juan College overall student population is approximately 11,000. For the last few years, the school held the Tribal Energy Management Seminar Series which was a five-session week-long seminar. This specific program will shift to an associate degree for the upcoming year.

The attendees enjoyed an evening dinner and discussion followed by a half day meeting aimed to strengthen collaboration between the Commission and tribal nations in the Upper Colorado River Basin. Lorelei Cloud and Shaun Chapoose at the conference.

The current mega drought conditions, unseasonably low winter precipitation, and city growth throughout the Colorado River Basin has placed significant strain on water resources. Both the upper and lower basin tribes have, until recently, been excluded from the table as water related matters are discussed. The Southern Ute Indian Tribe, as well as other tribal nations, holds historical water rights and are an essential part of the conversation. Tribal Water Attorney Lisa Yellow Eagle meets with commission members.

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe has been an equestrian Indigenous nation since the introduction of horses into the Southwest. As with many reservations, horses were traded, raided, bought, and sold by the Utes early on. A vast majority of our reservation land is comprised of forest and agricultural land. We are very proud to have some of the finest farmers and ranchers in the region residing right here in Ignacio.

This edition of The Southern Ute Drum newspaper celebrates our Ute heritage and the history of horsemanship over the years. The 100th annual Southern Ute Tribal Fair will highlight a two-day rodeo from Friday, Sept. 16 through Saturday, Sept. 17. As with all our cultural events, attendance and participation only makes us stronger.

Rain is a good thing during this time of year. Overcast skies provide shade, lower temperatures, and hopefully bring much needed rain to our area. We need at least seven to 10 days of clear skies in order to harvest hay, so windows of opportunity are unpredictable during the monsoon seasons of summer.

AGRICULTURAL PRACTICES

That Farm Life: Shared experiences to benefit the beginning farmer

Bad weather

By Marvin Pinnecoose
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

The Eye of the Beholder

In nature, there are things that happen without the interference of people. Hence the concept of “natural occurrences.” Take forest fires for example. Forest fires are crucial to the health of the forest. Getting a forest fire to start without the aid of mankind may be tricky and the only way I can think of that happening is through lightning strikes. Once the fire is ignited, it tears through the forest quickly and is fueled by dry fuels such as dead branches, dried grass, undergrowth, and trees. Sometimes fire can spread faster than wild-life (and humans) can run, and we have seen instances of entire fire crews falling to fast moving fire. Nature can be ruthless, but ruthless as it is, it is also very necessary. Forest fires clean the forest floor and make space for future growth. The ash adds nutrients to the soil even though it also creates erosion through loosened dirt and depleted root growth. The forest becomes thinned out from competing trees and when all is said and done, life goes on.

When humans encroach into the wild to expand civilization, we unintentionally take on the role of a stew-

Marvin Pinnecoose/Special to the Drum

As a farmer, I look forward to plenty of snowfall. Our lakes and rivers are drastically in need of replenishing their water tables. Snow is an inconvenience of travel and productivity during the winter, but we have seen quite a few dry winters in recent years.

ard of the land that we are building on or residing. If we deem that forest fires shall not happen, then it is our responsibility to take efforts to “do the job” that would have occurred naturally. If we want healthy soil, vegetation, and favorable conditions to grow agriculture or raise livestock, we need to roll our sleeves up and do what it takes for the long haul. We need to get rid of dead branches, clean under trees, control erosion, and such things. As we strive to mold and shape the land, we praise the progress and curse things that hamper our efforts. Weather is one of the things that we wish would benefit us at our convenience. We become upset when it decides to do its own thing and we call it “bad weather”. Truth be told, there is no such thing as good weather or bad weather. There is just your attitude toward it.

Perspective

In the last article “Water Part II”, I was trying to illustrate the current situation of drought and how many cattle ranches and livestock businesses are liquidating stock because they already foresee that they will not be able to feed larger herds. Tough decisions are being made and at best, to reemphasize the nature of agriculture, this is a business of hope. Now that we have had a nice downpour of water, I imagine that there are still going to be critics of whatever weather happens to occur. We still have plenty of hay farmers who are waiting to harvest first cut and now that we have had rain, we need to wait for the fields to dry out before we can put tractors on them. I guess if you have access to irrigation, then one would just hope for clear skies most of the spring, summer, and fall because we can control hydration to the plants, but we need the clear skies to harvest. If a person does not have irrigation, then they welcome the rain much more often. Regardless of what part of the spectrum we are on, we must come to the realization that we cannot control the weather. I can't remember where I read a passage of a person talking about weather and how it could react to us if we think of it like a personality. Like other animals and things with consciousness, there would be an expected response from our words and attitude. The person in the passage says that if you call it Bad Weather enough times, it will think that you don't want things like rain, wind, and snow.

Marvin Pinnecoose/Special to the Drum

During light rain, I keep my irrigation settings rotating. Rain is a welcome sight, and I don't take it for granted. During times of excess water accumulation, I tend to shut off my irrigation to allow the fields to absorb the rainfall and dry out a little. Too much water invites Foxtail and Cat tail. Both of these are not good for quality hay production.

BOBCATS VOLLEYBALL

Ignacio Volleyball wants re-run of '21

Team prepping for road-heavy slate early

Joel Priest/Special to the Drum

Ignacio Volleyball head coach Shasta Pontine (right) cracks a pre-match joke with assistant/JV coach Cindy Valdez inside IHS Gymnasium during the Fall 2021 season. The two will return to guide the postseason-minded Volleycats in 2022.

league 2A Del Norte on the 25th. 2A/1A San Juan Basin League work – in which the 'Cats went 8-0 against their 2A-level rivals last season – then gets underway on the 30th with a trip to Mancos.

As of press time for the 8/12 print edition of the Drum, Ignacio's schedule shows the 'Cats as not having a home match until SJBL play – in the form of Ridgway--commandeers IHS Gymnasium on Friday, Sept. 16. But by then the crew will likely have already gotten a great glimpse of the postseason they'll hope to again reach.

"We got invited to the West Grand tournament (in Kremmling) over Labor Day weekend," Pontine said, "and we also got invited to the Denver Christian tournament. What I heard was that it's just teams that made State last year who got invited! So we're going to that one on the tenth of September."

"I haven't seen the schedule; I just got kind of a list (of teams) when we said we'd go," she continued. "And there was Holyoke and Meeker, Denver Christian, Sedgwick County ... I heard Hoehne also got invited, but I don't think they're going because their schedule was full by the time they got invited. So it'll be a good tournament."

Champion of a 3A/2A/1A Mile High League last fall, DCHS finished 20-8 overall after going 1-2 at State. Ruler of the 2A/1A Lower Platte, SC ended up 25-3 after a four-game win over fellow northeasterners Holyoke (23-8) in the State Championship, while Western Slope champ Meeker, a Final Four participant inside The Broadmoor World Arena, went 26-3.

Flanked by teammates Alexis Pontine (15) and Trinity Strohl (9), Ignacio's Grace Gonzales (10) celebrates success during last season's road match at Dolores. And while Pontine has graduated, both Gonzales and Strohl can return in 2022 as seniors.

At present, the updated field also includes 2A MHLers Littleton Front Range Christian (11-11 overall in 2021), 2A

Southern Peaks member Sanford (14-10), and now-2A/1A Union Pacific inclusion Strasburg (14-10, 3-7 3A Patriot last season).

"The rest is just kind of 'our' schedule," said Pontine. "I mean, we'll play Cortez, Pagosa, we added Sargent again; but then the rest (of our matches) are just league. And I'm excited; it'll be awesome."

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Having raised the proverbial bar higher during the Fall 2021 season than any Ignacio Volleyball squad had in roughly a generation, the returning 'Cats will be eager to keep it there in '22.

"They're coming off a 'high,'" second-year head coach Shasta Pontine said, alluding to IHS' march to last fall's CHSAA Class 2A State Championships held in Colorado Springs, "and hopefully they can continue with ... building the Ignacio program. That's what's exciting. And I'm really looking forward to it, you know?"

Having already seen the Volleycats (19-8 overall in '21) begin sharpening their skills at two team camps this summer, long before practices were to officially begin Monday, August 8, Pontine indicated she'd already seen much of the potential last season's squad presented – and will again rely upon this season – to succeed. "Adams State (University's camp) was ... just about kind of getting back into it, remembering that 'Oh yeah, we know how to play volleyball,'" she recalled. "The first couple days were rough, but the third day we came together and played well."

"Then Fort Lewis College's was good. We lost only to Portales (17-9, NMAA Class 4A State qualifier in '21) and Farmington (12-11, fourth place in NMAA District 2-5A), and I didn't even have a full 'varsity' team – we filled it in with players who played JV last year – but it was good."

"And then we had the Fort Lewis coaches come to Ignacio and do a one-day camp with some of the players," Pontine noted. "That wasn't very many – it was, like, six players – so it was very one-on-one."

Definitely a plus, considering that vacancies left by graduated standouts Alexis Pontine and Lexy Young need filling.

"We're going to have to replace a big outside and a big right-side ... and we'll probably have to find a new libero," said Pontine, to be assisted this fall by returning junior-varsity coach Cindy Valdez plus new C-team coach Breana Talamante-Benavidez. "Key positions ... but I don't know; it just depends on who shows up Monday (8/8), you know?"

"Everything changes, and we'll see what personnel we have ... to go forward. See who we have, teach them what we can teach them, and do the best we can!"

Following a tune-up at 3A Pagosa Springs' annual Pirate 4 Corners Scrimmages on Saturday, August 13, IHS will begin competition Tuesday, August 23, at 3A Montezuma-Cortez, then reverse course eastward to non-staff and the Tribe's Property and Facilities team resolved the issue by relocating the target range just south of its former location, adjacent to the Pine River bordering the Multi-Purpose Facility Park.

"I had some funding for safety, this is a collaborative effort ... Grounds Maintenance did it," SunUte Director Robin Duffy-Wirth said. "To find the right place, I got together with DNR, SUPD, the Wildlife Advisory Board. I know nothing about archery, so the idea was to bring the best people together to find the best place."

SunUte got the blessing from Elise Redd with the Multi-Purpose Facility and the tribal land assignment owner Daniel Weaver, whose property is across the river, directly behind the new archery range location.

"We still have a little work to do in terms of dressing it up," Grounds Maintenance Division Head, Andrew Gallegos emphasized. "It's better than what it was. The goal is to improve it as we go. Depending on the style of the shoot, maybe [we accommodate] 9-10 archers [in a row] ... we can go even wider. We could do a long-distance shoot here."

"You'll always get better at shooting, by shooting around others," he said, "There are the die-hards, but plenty more that just come out to shoot – just to enjoy it and get some exercise."

The SunUte archery range is already open to the public for use in its new location – open to the community. The first official events are scheduled for early September to coincide with the Southern Ute Tribal Fair.

Marvin Pinnecoose/Special to the Drum

During the last two weeks of July and most of August, it appears that rain is possible almost every single day. This makes it tough to commit to cut hay as it takes four to five days of clear sky to dry and bale a good crop.

It will not want to visit you because you speak to it with a mean tone and so it begins to avoid you. In its absence, we begin to wonder, "why doesn't it ever rain like it used to?" Something to consider, I guess.

Dancing in the Rain

I've learned to balance my tasking between things that need to be done inside and outside. Irrigation settings still need to be changed every morning before work and every evening after work. Cleaning, cutting weeds, and outside chores will take up most of whatever leftover time there is in daylight. In the summer this is usually from 5:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. In the winter, you will get very little outside time if you have a full-time job. It will be dark when you go to work and the sun will be setting as you drive home. I try to stack up all my inside jobs as things to do in the winter when it's dark outside, but I still have three or four hours before going to bed. Having a workshop would be great. I could service all my small engines, build new projects, and clean up all farm tools and equipment. During these summer months, I tend to accumulate quick inside projects in the barn in the event of rain or heavy wind. I can retreat to the barn to knock out a few things and still feel like I haven't lost out on productivity; I have merely shifted my tasks. All these projects will need to be done anyway. Paul Gaugin once said, "Do what you can, with what you have, where you are." Just like money, save plenty of tasks for rainy days and let's be thankful that beautiful weather is also diverse.

FIRE MANAGEMENT

Southern Ute Reservation Rescinds Stage I Fire Restrictions

By Howard Richards Jr. SOUTHERN UTE AGENCY

Due to recent rains and moderating fuel conditions, Stage I Fire Restrictions have been rescinded for all trust lands throughout the Southern Ute Indian Reservation. Everyone on reservation land is still asked to be cautious and use common sense with fire, as conditions may dry out and Fire Restrictions may again be implemented.

Since May, Southern Ute Agency Fire Management has responded to approximately 30 fires on the reservation with the largest being the 89-acre Bear Dance Fire.

Firefighters were able to keep all other fires under 11 acres with no injuries or accidents.

For more information regarding Fire Restrictions, please contact Southern Ute Agency Fire Management at 970-563-4571.

Restrictions will be rescinded at 6 a.m., Monday, Aug. 8, 2022.

Bear Dance Fire Recreational Area CLOSED

The map shows both the closed area. Individuals are restricted to only the area around Scott's Pond for personal safety. In the event of an emergency, please contact SUPD by dialing 911 or the non-emergency line at (970) 563.4401. For more information, please contact Southern Ute EPD at (970) 563.2206.

Colorado Department of Public Safety Office of Liaison for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Relatives Director

The Colorado Department of Public Safety (CDPS) is currently hiring for the Office of Liaison for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Relatives Director. The position will be the "face" of the Department to Tribal and American Indian/Alaska Native (AI/AN) partners. Problem solving, identifying and implementing solutions to improve communications and interactions between the Department and Tribal and AI/AN partners is a critical component of the job. This position is dedicated to working and communicating directly with the Tribes and AI/AN communities across the state, and maintaining a consistent presence in such communities to develop and enhance partnerships with Tribal law enforcement and communities. The Office of Liaison for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Relatives is statutorily charged with serving as a liaison on behalf of the Indigenous community on issues related to missing or murdered Indigenous relatives, supporting the Advisory Board, and communicating with the Colorado Bureau of Investigation on homicide or missing persons investigations involving Indigenous victims, where appropriate, and providing assistance to families of victims. The office will establish a community volunteer advisory board to identify and advise the office on various issues of concern. The office will collaborate with the Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs; federally recognized Tribes; state, local, and tribal law enforcement agencies; and Indigenous-led organizations. Southern Ute Public Opinion Survey

Here is your opportunity to have a say in substance use services and facilities for your community. All participants will have the opportunity to win one of eight $20 gift cards! We are currently searching for participants to complete a survey. All responses will be kept confidential. Southern Ute Tribe has teamed up with Kauffman & Associates, Inc. for the survey and to provide recommendations on next steps for substance use services and facilities within the Southern Ute Tribal community. Participants must identify as Native American; be adults (18 years +); live on the reservation or receive services from the tribe. The survey is available through the QR codes on posters displayed at the casino and clinic, electronically through a link, and also by hard copy at the Southern Ute Health Center. The results of the survey will be shared with the Southern Ute tribal community at the upcoming community meetings KAI will be facilitating in mid-August. We look forward to hearing from you!

FLY FISHING

Articulation makes a good fly

By Don Oliver
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

One of the definitions of the word articulate, according to my Webster's Dictionary, is "to give clear and effective utterance." That was the one I always thought was correct. However, according to Webster, articulate also means "to unite by or as if by means of a joint." What the latter definition means, to those of us that fish, it is the joining of two artificial baits with a flexible joint. In my world of fly fishing, it means one fly tied in two segments closely attached to each other.

What prompted this sudden use of a dictionary? I recently read an article in Fly Fusion Magazine titled "Out of Joint" by Frank Brassard. The article was about fly fishing with articulated flies. Articulated crank baits have been around for a long time. Long enough for me to remember using them when I was a youngster casting them at bass and pike. The articulation gives the crank baits a very real-life movement pattern as it is reeled in. These baits are available in both top-water and subsurface styles. Articulated flies are fairly new to the world of fly fishing, and most are tied to look like streamers. The articulated flies can have one or two hooks. If there is one hook it is located in the trailing part of the fly. If there are two hooks there is one in each part. The trailing joint is designed to look like the tail end of what you are trying to imitate. The possibilities are many, such as: mice, worms, snakes, or streamers. As a side note, if you are using an articulated fly with two hooks make sure local regulations allow for that.

After I read the article, I checked my fly bins to see if I had any articulated flies. Sure enough, I did. However, the ones I had were big and heavily weighted. On the chance they would not work in the small pond by my house I tied up an articulated Woolly Bugger and San Juan Worm, both with two hooks. Unlike the two flies Brassard showed in his article, Tommy Lynch's Drunk and Disorderly and Kelly Galloup's Sex Dungeon, which looked fairly complicated to tie, my choices were quick and easy to tie.

Armed with my new flies

I headed out to test them. Sure enough the flies from my bin were not acceptable to the fish in the pond. While they followed the big flies they would not strike them. So, I switched to the patterns I had tied. It didn't take long before the fish in the pond, primarily perch, attacked them. I found the fish would eat the trailing segment of the Woolly Bugger pattern. The San Juan Worm was eaten in its entirety. I couldn't figure the eating pattern out, but I didn't care. The articulated flies were working.

As I was standing on a dock, I could pull the flies by the dock and watch their action. It was obvious the articulated patterns looked more realistic as they moved through the water. This creates a new problem for me. I am a dedicated dry fly fisherman, and only use Woolly Buggers if I need to feed my family or I am behind in some ongoing bet. Do I now learn to tie Drunk and Disorderly plus Sex Dugeons along with mice and snake patterns? I know trout and bass eat mice, and I once saw a tarpon destroy a snake. Or do I stay in my comfort zone using only dry flies?

For me, and I hope you, the answer is obvious, I am going to do some experimenting with articulation. Feeding my family and winning a bet may have just become easier.

IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY

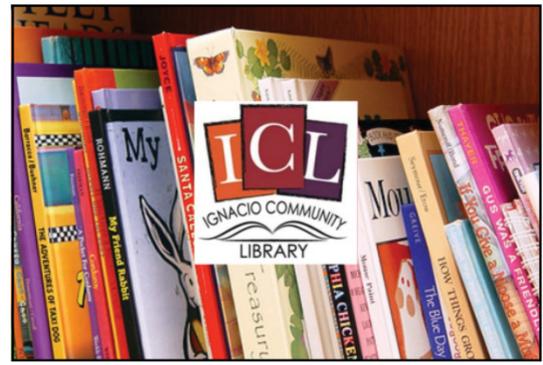

Armchair traveling

By Marcia R. Vining
IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY

Cruises, road trips, theme parks, camping, boating, and hiking! Does this sound like the best of summer? Have you dreamed of the places you would like to go? Have a travel bucket list?

Travel has been in the news so much throughout the pandemic and even more recently as gas prices have risen, and airlines have struggled with staffing and costs, it's helped me consider where I would go and what I'd like to see. It occurred to me that we all have the opportunity to be travelers; armchair travelers.

Armchair traveling can help us to learn about a place we might want to go, or a place we already have plans to visit. It can open new horizons for us and our family members. It's a great way to show our children a world beyond our own, with different traditions, foods and clothing, and architecture as well as different geography and animal and plant life. It can be informative to see how

other people live, compare the differences and recognize the similarities.

Viewing videos of places we've already visited is also an enjoyable way to relive wonderful memories, and can foster a discussion with our family and friends about where we've been and what we did and saw there. We can foster a sense of adventure and interest in the world around us as we share our stories, answer questions and encourage curiosity to bloom. Sharing our past travels with those who didn't know us, or our children and grandchildren can be a lovely conversation starter as well.

In the past the library purchased items that our patrons requested relating to upcoming travel and adventures and so we have materials on exotic locations such as Machu Picchu and the Galapagos, and the more familiar destinations such as Crow Canyon, nearby National Parks and so much more. Whether in video or in print format we have the materials to help you travel without leaving your house.

Maybe, as the end of summer draws nearer, and kids return to school, the library can help extend the feeling of vacation days, travel and the excitement of new places. Stop by and see what we have to offer about the places you dream of going.
