Staff report OFFICE OF GOVERNOR POLIS

In a historic move, Colorado Governor Jared Polis appoints Howard Richards Sr. to the Colorado Board of Veterans Affairs. Richards is a Vietnam veteran and former Chairman of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe. He is the first Native American to serve on the Veteran's Board. His historic appointment, Thursday, March 14, came ahead of Ute Day at the Capitol. Ute Day celebrates and honors the invaluable contributions that the Southern Ute Indian Tribe and Ute Mountain Tribe have made to the State of Colorado.

"I am thrilled to appoint Howard Richards Sr. to the Colorado Board of Veterans Affairs. His decades of expertise including military service in Vietnam will make him a great addition to the Board and will benefit the millions of Veterans who call Colorado home. Mr. Richards will be the first tribal member to serve on this board, and we are grateful for his willingness to of Indian Affairs. and knowledge of women and the vital role they play in shaping the future of the construction industry, according to their website.

"Being a female in the construction industry gives me a great pride," Bureau of Reclamation Resident Engineer, Hilda Castillo-Smith said. "NGWSP has been a great part of my career. Knowing that the work that I do will have a powerful impact in the lives of many Navajo community members motivates me to stay engaged and improve my skillsets. It's an honor to be part of a project that will change people's lives. "

"At the Department of the Interior, we strive to acknowledge women's everyday contributions to our country all year long," Secretary of the Interior, Deb Haaland said in a letter to her colleagues. "As a girl, mv grandmother, mother and aunties were strong role models for me. I still draw strength from the courageous women I have followed my entire life – and from the women I get to work alongside in our shared mission to build a better future. I am so proud to serve with such innovative and inspiring women as we advance the Biden-Harris administration's vision for a more just, inclusive future." Weasel got her start in the field when construction of the Animas La Plata (ALP) project became a reality in the spring of 2003. Weasel was then able to use that opportunity to transition into a fulltime position on the largescale Navajo-Gallup Water Supply Project. The project opened four positions in 2011 under the Bureau of Reclamation, which were available to tribal members from the Ute Mountain Ute and Southern Ute Indian Tribes; Weasel has ties to each tribe. The Navajo-Gallup Water Supply Project, once complete, will deliver water to the communities in the eastern section of the Navajo Nation, southwestern portion of the Jicarilla Apache Nation, and the city of Gallup, N.M., by way of roughly 300 miles of pipeline – transporting water from the San Juan River to those communities. The project also includes the construc-

IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY We aim to serve!

By Liz vonTauffkirchen, Assistant Director/ Librarian IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY

Here at Ignacio Community Library, we aim to serve the entire community. 58.4% of the Ignacio population is Hispanic, Native American, or some combination of those ethnicities (Source: DataUSA). Keeping this in mind, we strive to offer materials and host programming that reflects our population's background and interests.

For women's history month, we wanted to bring in a Chautauqua speaker. If you are not familiar with Chautauqua, in a nutshell, it is a performance by an actor (who is usually, but not always, also an historian) who portrays an historical figure for a presentation at a school, library, or museum. This historical actor will then field questions from the audience while in character as the historical figure. It is amazing to watch, and we think this sort of presentation would be fun and hopefully popular my curiosity flowing, so I similar here. If you are interwith our patrons.

My preferred choice for an historical figure would have been a Native American historical figure such as Wilma Mankiller, Maria Tallchief, or Sarah Winnemucca, or another good option would have been a Latina/ Hispanic historical figure. Unfortunately, I learned that no such performer exists in a specific path to becoming a and join us!

By Marvin Pinnecoose, influence of the many con- business was being conduct-Treasurer

SOUTHERN UTE TRIBAL COUNCIL

The State of Colorado and many parts of neighboring states have been the ancestral homelands of the Ute people since time immemorial. Our history talks about our nomadic roots and our ability to navigate the Rocky Mountains and the many rivers making up the Colorado and others. We have historical sites and culturally relevant camp sites from the Uintah Basin all the way over to Comanche country. We are a proud people who were separated into three tribes and placed on static real-estate in the hopes of making us farmers and homesteaders.

As Utes, we've always kept our pride and our language. We keep believing in our social and cultural practices even from remote locations separated from our other bands. We have been resilient over the years and have become stronger as time passes. As sovereign nations, the Ute tribes have an equal amount of presence as does the State of Colorado. It is only through cooperation and collaboration that we can work together to effectively benefit everyone. With this retributions created by the Ute ed. When it came time for the tribes, the State of Colorado read a proclamation on Friday, March 15, dedicating that day as Ute Day.

The Southern Ute Veterans opened up the ceremonies within the state capitol on that early Friday morning. The Yellow Jacket Drum Group sang the opening song, Southern Ute flag song, and the retirement song for the colors. Chairman Manuel Heart provided the invocation. Both Chairman Baker and Chairman Heart gave and during the powwow. impactful speeches about the Ute people, our creation story, our presence in the state ECONOMIC SUMMIT of Colorado, and our forever future going forward. Vice-Chairman Chris Tabee also spoke about the Ute tribe and our powerful unity as one Tribal nation. The royalty from the tribes came forward and provided encouraging words of welcome and a refreshing perspective of youth. Lieutenant Governor Primavera provided great words to address the Tribes and the tribal members and spectators present. It was a memorable morning. For me, the highlight of the event was watching both Chairman Baker and Chairman Heart speak on the House floor in the capitol building. This is a room that was bustling with spect in mind and with the chatter and noise as floor

Our Southern Ute Royalty shifted gears and were ready to represent in Grand Entry

RESERVATION

The reason I am providing both Ute Day and Reservation Economic Summit (RES) into one report is because they were done linearly within the same week. I have both events fresh in my head as I type away like a mad man trying to make the submission deadline of the Southern Ute Drum today. While Ute Day was done toward the end of the week in Denver, the Reservation Economic Summit was done earlier in the same week. The purpose of this gathering is to update all the Native American tribes on economic and financial practices, laws, grants & loans, and opportunities that have become available. It is a time to network with other tribal nations about what they are doing and how it can benefit us as Southern Utes.

Economic development is big in Indian Country and many tribes are looking to utilize various revenue streams to diversify the opportunities for both their tribal government, entities, and within their tribal citizen businesses. Many nomic Development Corporations. These are like our Growth Fund arm of the Southern Ute Tribe. These corporations have their own management groups and make decisions like how our GFMC works within the Growth Fund. The speed of business mandates this type of structure, and it appears that many tribal nations have embraced the E.D.C. model and are bringing forth many ventures within their own tribes.

They serve as inspiration to other businesses and tribes. Bidii Baby Foods was

This has been somewhat impactful in the upper California area with the Yurok Tribe and in the Dakotas with the Sioux tribes. Increasingly graying skies, a temperature in the low 40s, plus drizzling rain becoming something of snow – all that Ignacio's Bobcats could have dealt with Thursday meant starting their baseball season as scheduled.

A shortage of available umpires, however, couldn't be remedied in time for IHS to host 2A/1A San Juan Basin League rival Dove Creek, to be determined.

But with the program's pursuit of both a third consecutive SJBL title and a third consecutive CHSAA Class 2A State Tournament berth now set to begin after IHS' Spring Break, Isiah Valdez viewed the delay more as a blessing in disguise.

"Obviously he's not there ... but nothing's really changed," he said, addressing the question concerning continuity of instruction from head coach to new head coach. "Lots of things done in the past are still being done ... and it is what it is."

"Season's starting off good, as far as practice goes. We've got a pretty good turnout, got six out of our nine starters back, and we've got a good freshman and a turning to varsity. And these take just about as many reps And perhaps even higher as anybody in the state - es-

Keeping positivity high on the Lady Bobcats' sideline as an assistant coach during the Spring 2023 season, Tori Burch (formerly Archuleta) will be doing even more of it in 2024 as Ignacio Girls' Soccer's newest head coach. She succeeds Alisha Gullion (right), who'd been building up the program since taking charge in 2018.

Returning assistant Lawrence Toledo returns as part of Valdez's staff, which this year includes Toledo's son Lawrence, a former Bobcat catcher and 2021 Ignacio graduate.

"Lawrence ... he's a big team-morale guy and the kids like him. He does the same things he's been doing and throws in the cage a lot," said Valdez, a 2006 IHS grad. "And his son ... has a lot of knowledge; it's just getting him to come out of his shell. I learned as a young coach, it's kind of hard sometimes to understand, you know, your boundaries – or why a head coach would want to bring you on!"

"I think that's where 'little' Lawrence is at; he's kind of in the spot I was when I first started coaching, where 'I have to be of those early feeling-out willing to step forward and let these guys know I know what I'm talking about.' And he's learning every last year - if I remember day like the kids are."

A final game versus a team from the other three-team pool was denied by the elements.

"I think it'll kind of be one games," Valdez said. "I think (Monte Vista) ended up winning their (league) correctly – so they're going to be a tough challenge, you know, to open with."

Having started their sea-Shiprock, N.M., Dove Creek (0-1, 0-0 SJBL) is scheduled to next play on the 23rd in Gallup, N.M., versus Rehoboth Christian, with first pitch against the Lynx – runner-up in the 2023 NMAA/ Nusenda Credit Union Class 2A State Baseball Championships - targeted for high noon.
