Jeanette “The Black Widow” Lee lines up a shot early in a rack during her semifinal match Sunday afternoon at the WPBA’s 2009 Colorado Classic, held at the Sky Ute Casino Resort Events Center. Sixty-four players started the exciting 9-ball tournament last Wednesday, with only four making it to the Sunday session.

by Joel Priest
Special to the Drum

For five days and late nights, the largest tournament tree likely ever seen in town was propped up outside the Sky Ute Casino Resort Events Center’s inner doors.

As each of the 64 competitors began what each hoped would be a successful climb to the bracket’s top, fans from far and wide had the chance to witness their talents as the oft-distant realm of ESPN suddenly became very domestic. Possibly the spectators’ greatest thrill was simply playing the ‘name game’ and trying to spot all the familiar faces of the sport:

‘The Duchess of Doom.’ ‘The Black Widow.’ ‘The Irish Invader.’ ‘The Texas Tornado.’

Once inside, virtual silence was golden and players’ skills shone even brighter.

That’s right, folks. Though the number 64 in the wide world of sports most often provokes thoughts of NCAA ‘March Madness’ basketball, the Women’s Professional Billiard Association, in fact, was the featured attraction in Ignacio from September 16-20. And the 2009

Colorado Classic also served as the end to a 14-year wait for the WPBA Tour to return to the state, let alone the Four Corners region.

“I think it was great,” said player and TV commentator Ewa Laurance. “The last time we had a tournament in Colorado, it was in Denver. And to be out here... it’s like what Kelly [Fisher] said at the end of the finals, ‘Where am I going?’”

“As soon as we got off the plane the weather was lovely, very green everywhere, so it looked very inviting to me,” said 9-ball legend Allison Fisher—the ‘Duchess.’ “And when we got to the casino—all the staff have been so friendly! It’s been a pleasure, really, to be here.”

“I didn’t realize how beautiful it was... in kind of the middle of nowhere,” laughed Boulder-born, Westminster-residing Melissa “The Viper” Little. “But it’s gorgeous—they put a lot of money in this place—and I hope we come back.”

“My sponsors are the Seminole Tribe of Florida,” said Vivian Villarreal—the talkative ‘Tornado.’ “And they have a beautiful hotel, but this is really, really nice. I’ve met some tribal members [here] and I know it’s only been a year old, but hopefully it just keeps growing and making money for the Tribe.”

“Well we have several friends of the WPBA who are always kind of watching out for us, and know the general manager here, Matt Olin,” explained Office Administrator—and former player—Anne Craig.

“And our board members who generally negotiate such things got in touch, one thing led to another, and Sky Ute said, ‘Yeah you guys come here!’ So this is where we ended up and we love it.”

Those attending the event loved it so much, and were so fixated on the players’ methods that, by the time the ‘Final Four’ remained to battle for the title, Tournament Director (and emcee) Steve Tipton had to remind everyone it was still cool to cheer spectacular shots. After all, the Worldwide Leader In Sports had its cameras rolling, so the louder the better...

...Not, of course, that the cracking of ball on ball wasn’t loud enough—the venue often sounded like a small-caliber rifle range, especially during the early rounds

Express Your Opinions

My Fellow Tribal Members

I am writing because election time is coming up and we need to be responsible voters. I just want to encourage everyone to read the minutes and see who is voting in our best interest and who is speaking out for us.

I also want to give thoughts/concerns I have to other Tribal Members so they have information when it comes time to vote.

The first is that our leaders should be looking out for our best interest. I am concerned with the spending habits of the Tribal Council. There are some Council Members who are spending like there is not a recession. Too much money is going out, like the Museum and the Detention Center. There is no reason for these buildings to be built RIGHT NOW, especially if they can not stay within their budget! The welfare of the membership should come first, not the job security for the employees.

The country is in a recession and the Council is spending money like it grows on trees! The Council insists it is for the benefit of the membership, but how is an extra $4 million for the Museum, because they could not stay within their budget a benefit for us? I do not see it. I think a benefit to us would be to put that money into the Emergency Family Service fund so it would help Tribal Members with paying for heating and food costs during this recession.

The next is that some Council Members are shielding non-Indian employees and allowing them to control the respective Council Members. So, my question to these Council Members is: why do we, Tribal Members, not get the support that the non-Indians get? It seems that some Tribal Members think the non-Indians are smarter than Indians. This idea is not even close to being true and it is an oppression of Indians against Indians.

Another concern I have is how we have non-Indian, other Indians as well as OUR OWN TRIBAL MEMBERS working for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe, but yet we are discriminated against by these employees. You would think that the other Indians would not discriminate, but they do. All the people I am talking about but more restrictions upon the Tribal Membership in order to receive the services that were established for us, Southern Ute Tribal Members. The Council is approving these restrictions upon us and not stepping up and saying no, this is OUR money and these are OUR people, so these restrictions will not work!!!

These employees keep Tribal Members out of employment with the Tribe and get their family and friends in these positions. They criticize Tribal Members for their budgeting skills, which is not a matter of the employee. They are rude to all people, yet nothing is done about the bad behavior that is displayed to the Tribal Membership. But, I have noticed that Tribal Members will be fired immediately upon bad behavior. These employees also make comments about the money the Tribal Members get. The money Tribal Members get is not a concern or business of these employees. It is a matter between the Tribe and its Tribal Members.

Another issue about employment is why is the Tribe holding "open" a position for a non-Tribal Member? The Director of Tribal Member Health Benefits should have been filled years ago. It is still under an "Acting" Director. This could explain all the issues that Tribal Members have with this department.

I would like to see the Tribal Council submit, voluntarily, to drug testing that is not scheduled. This would ensure that the decisions that the Council are making are not influenced by drugs or alcohol. And if there is drug use by the Council Members, are the decisions that are being made truly in the best interest of the Membership.

I suggest that the Tribe cut their budget by 20%, without getting rid of all Tribal Members. This would show there is a concern, by the Tribe, about the current economics. But looking at the way Tribal Members are treated right now, I now they would be the first to go. The rationale by the non-Indians of laying off Tribal Members is because they receive the money they do from the Tribe. For some reason, people think that it is a lot of money, which it really is not after paying the taxes that we do.

Another suggestion is that all the departments and programs be evaluated to improve services to Tribal Members and eliminate the ones that are outdated and do not provide quality services. It is time to be smart and abolish programs that no longer work in the Tribe's scheme.

When reading the minutes, there is one person on Council who is asserting more accountability towards the Tribal Membership by the employees and trying to assert accountability by the Council. I applaud you Barb Scott for your efforts.

I challenge all Tribal Members to get involved and understand all the aspects of the Tribe and become informed of the business transactions of the Tribe. Remember, it is us, Tribal Members, who seat the Council and we should be their first concern not the non-Indians who find ways to take from us. I also hope this has helped give an insight into the decisions of the Tribal Council and how we, Tribal Members, are not a priority.

Shelly Thompson

Blue Stars Turned To Gold

The Blue Star Moms of Durnago wish to thank all Ignacio area residents who were patrons or volunteers at the Ignacio Bike Rally held on Labor Day weekend.

We were overwhelmed by your enthusiasm and generosity toward our organization. the thousand dollars we received as a result of your contributions will be used to fund our Gold Star weekend.

We are also deeply grateful to Moon's Custom Cycles in Ignacio for supporting us through the Burn-Out Pit event.

The purpose of the Gold Star weekend is to bring together the families of those members of the military from throughout the entire state of Colorado who have given their lives either in Iraq or Afghanistan. It is a time for these families to share, to grieve and to heal. It is a time for us to honor them and thank them for their sacrifice.

These families are not asked to contribute anything toward the expense of the weekend. their admission was secured by the ultimate sacrifice of their children. It is contributions such as yours that will help us meet our expenses.

Thank you so much for supporting our organization and the families of those who died defending our freedoms.

Gratefully yours,
Betty Wiley,

Gold Star Weekend Coordinator

Proposed San Juan Basin Transmission Project Public Meetings Scheduled

Media Advisory

Tri-State Generation & Transmission

Tri-State Generation and Transmission Association (Tri-State), the power supplier to local electric cooperative La Plata Electric Association (LPEA), is proposing a new project involving the construction of a 230-kilovolt transmission line from the Farmington area in northwest New Mexico to Ignacio, Colo.

The line has been identified by electrical planners as critical to provide the power delivery infrastructure throughout the region in order to relieve transmission constraints, continue to serve new loads for the next 20 to 30 years and help facilitate development of renewable energy opportunities.

In accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act, the public is invited to participate in open-house-style scoping meetings to learn about the project, gather information and submit comments for the preparation of an Environmental Assessment (EA) document. Comments collected will contribute to development of the EA and will be used to refine the proposed transmission line corridors.

The Bureau of Land Management is the lead agency for the environmental process, which will require evaluation of the potential environmental impacts from the proposed project before deciding to move forward. Other cooperating agencies are the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Southern Ute Indian Tribe, the Rural Utilities Service and the Western Area Power Administration.

Local Business Leaders Go Behind Bars For “Jerry’s Kids”

Durango’s most prominent business leaders will be turned into “jailbirds” at the annual Durango Lock-Up to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Nearly 100 Durango business leaders will spend one hour “behind bars” at Durango Fire Station in Durango on Thursday, October 1st from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., in an effort to raise money for MDA and Jerry’s Kids. Bail for MDA Jailbirds has been set at $1,600, the cost of sending two local children living with a neuromuscular disease to MDA Summer Camp in Empire, Colorado. Camp consists of two, week-long sessions featuring typical camp activities adapted for youths between the ages of 6 and 18 with one of the over 40 neuromuscular diseases under MDA’s umbrella. The camp is a completely accessible environment designed to develop friendships, share interests and build self-confidence. The Durango Lock-Up is an opportunity for local community leaders to come together and raise bail for Jerry’s Kids. Upon arrival at Durango Fire Station in Durango. Proceeds from the 2009 Durango Lock-Up will not only benefit MDA Summer Camp, but will also support the essential services MDA provides to local families living with a neuromuscular disease. MDA receives no funding from the government, but sustains its comprehensive program of services and conducts research through funds raised by events such as the Durango Lock-Up and support from the community. For more information about the Lock-Up or MDA, please contact Terri Hasstedt at (970) 241-2181 or via e-mail at (thasstedt@mdausa.org).

Healthy Perspectives: “Good Health”

by Dr. Matthew Clark, MD
Southern Ute Health Clinic

Good health is a goal that applies to persons of all backgrounds regardless of age, gender, or ethnic background. We all measure health using our own yardstick. There are almost as many definitions of good health as there are people.

For one, good health means a freedom from pain and suffering while for another it may be a long life. For some, good health is about prevention of disease while for others it is about the treatment of disease once it occurs. For many, good health applies not only to the physical but also to the mental and the spiritual. The concept of health certainly applies to all aspects of the person.

As a doctor, I learned long ago that every patient is a partner in the process of achieving good health. In the partnership, the two persons- patient and doctor- are equals. The essence of the relationship is communication and the most important part of this communication is the ability for both to understand the patient’s goals for his or her health and to work together to achieve these goals.

Contrary to popular belief, doctors are not healers. In fact, the word “physician” actually means teacher. The goal of a good physician is to try to understand a patient’s goals for their health and then to use the gifts of education he or she has received to give the patient tools in achieving those goals.

The challenge that faces each of us in our daily lives is to match the many decisions we make with the values we hold for our health. It is a difficult challenge since like all struggles for a thing of value, it requires personal sacrifice.

My own personal approach to good physical health begins with prevention- a topic that actually extends to all aspects of health. The topic of prevention has so many different aspects, to which I have devoted this column for the past 6+ years. Yet there are a few that merit review.

In our western culture, some of the greatest challenges to health are related to the obesity epidemic. These include excess calorie intake in the form of high fat, high sugar content foods. Inactivity plays an important role. A well-balanced diet, weight management, and regular aerobic physical activity greatly reduce the risk of many chronic illnesses.

Smoking continues to be a major lifestyle factor affecting the health of Americans. It is a major risk factor for heart disease, stroke, and certain types of cancer. Tobacco cessation is perhaps the single most important preventive health measure that a smoker can take.

Particularly during this year’s flu season, the issue of personal respiratory hygiene is another major factor in preventive health. Hand washing, staying home when you are sick, and covering your mouth and nose when your sneeze or cough can greatly reduce your risk of infectious illness.

My wish for the reader is twofold- that you may know your own definition for good health and that you may possess the tools necessary to achieve it.

The Kidney Corner: “Chronic Kidney Disease”

by Dr. Mark Saddler, MD
Durango Nephrology Associates

As discussed in some of our previous articles, the kidneys are responsible for filtering the blood to make urine, eliminating waste products from the body. Where do these waste products come from?

Some are derived from food. An example is potassium, an electrolyte present in many fruits and other foods. Diets high in potassium are generally healthy for people without kidney disease and are recommended to lower the risk of developing high blood pressure. However, if potassium accumulates in the body, for example due to excessive intake in patients with kidney disease, it can be very dangerous. Healthy kidneys are extremely efficient at removing excess potassium, usually keeping the concentration in the blood very steady.

Protein, another important constituent of a healthy diet, is broken down to various products which can also be dangerous if allowed to accumulate in the blood. Breakdown products of proteins come from our diet or from turnover of the cells from our own bodies. These nitrogen-containing chemicals are thought to be some of the main culprits causing patients with chronic kidney disease to feel sick. The kidneys also remove many drugs and poisons from our blood.

When they work correctly, the kidneys are astoundingly efficient in removing all of these harmful substances. They filter 150 litres (about 40 gallons) of blood every day to achieve this feat. Not bad for a couple of organs each only the size of your fist!

Unfortunately, kidney disease is all too common; about 1 in 9 adults in the US have chronic kidney disease, decreasing the effectiveness of this toxin-removing system. The most common causes of kidney disease are diabetes and hypertension.

What happens when kidney function starts to decline? Initially, there are typically no symptoms. A decrease in kidney function down to as low as 30 per cent might allow a person to continue feeling quite well. Many people therefore develop quite severe degrees of kidney disease without realizing it. So it’s worth having your kidney function checked if you have any risk factors for kidney disease. We recommend screening for kidney disease in any person with diabetes, high blood pressure or a family history of kidney disease. The screening typically involves a blood and urine test and measurement of blood pressure. Many other medical conditions raise the risk of kidney disease; your doctor can tell you if you should be screened.

More severe kidney disease can cause many symptoms including weakness, fatigue, nausea, wasting, shortness of breath, itching etc. In the final stages of kidney disease, dialysis or transplantation becomes necessary to preserve life.

Fortunately, if kidney disease is detected early, there are very effective treatments which can slow down the decline in kidney function. It can be difficult to keep taking medicine to prevent a disease which isn’t causing any symptoms at the time, but the long-term results of improved kidney function are well worth it.

A Workshop on Yoga & Ayurveda

October 24th, 1-4pm

Taught by Amita Nathwani & Michele Lawrence

Yoga and Ayurveda are considered “sister sciences,” both coming from the wisdom of the Vedas. This workshop presents how you can apply the two systems to enhance each other and help you live in balance. In the first portion of this workshop, you will use the ancient wisdom of Ayurveda – the science of life -- to determine your basic doshic constitution and then learn techniques to live and eat optimally based on your own unique constitution. During the Yoga portion of the workshop, we will apply an ayurvedic approach to your practice, using yoga poses (asanas), breathing practices (pranayama) and meditation techniques that are best suited for each dosha. You will learn how to apply yoga in a therapeutic manner in harmony with ayurveda. This workshop will be 50% lecture and 50% practice.

Cost: $35 ($25 for students, seniors and yoga instructors)

Location: Yogadurango, 1485 Florida Rd, Durango CO

Standing over 85 feet in height, the historic Council Tree, stands as a symbol of Ute culture and Colorado history. In the nearby arena, Ute tribal members and contestants from across Indian Country gathered for Friday Night's Grand Entry Ceremony. A beautiful sunset and strong winds preceded the heavy rainstorm that forced dancers inside on Friday night, the Powwow continued under blue skies on Saturday, September 19, 2009. Southern Ute Royalty was there in full representation along with Southern Ute Elder Austin Box, Dr. James Jefferson and Veteran Larry Tucker, among others. This year's Council Tree Powwow was hosted by the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe and took place in Delta, Colorado.

Southern Ute Boys & Girls Club Youth of the Month - July

Hi! I am Hilda Caitlin Garcia, and I am the Southern Ute Boys and Girls Club's Youth of the Month for July. I was named after my Dad's mom. My mom Naomi Russell grew up in Shiprock, NM and my dad, Elco Garcia Sr., is originally from Chiuchauachau Mexico but grew up in Durango, CO. I am Navajo and Mexican. I was born in Shiprock, NM. We have lived in Ignacio, CO since October of 2000.

I go to school at Ignacio Intermediate. I am in 4th grade, and I am 9 years old. I like to play Basketball and I am on the Wildcats Girls Basketball team. My mom is the coach, my cousin Amber is the assistant coach and my sisters Shirelle and Gabriela help too. I love playing basketball!! It's the number one sport!

What I like most about BGC is swimming, and going to the park. I am a graduate of S.M.A.R.T. moves (this is a healthy alternatives/lifestyles program at BGC), and I am a member of the Southern Ute BGC Leadership Council. I have worked alot on the BGC kid survey that Leadership Council did.

What I love most about my Navajo culture is that it is cool cuz not only do you have blood relatives, but you have clan relatives too. I am a Kiiya aani on my mother's side. My Mexican culture is cool too cuz they believe in celebration - my sister Gabriela is planning her Quince next year and I will have to choice to plan mine for my 15th birthday too.

My favorite singer is Michael Jackson, my favorite foods are sushi and burritos that my dad makes, I love to ride my bike and I can't wait until we get another dog. I also rode on my friend Erica's four-wheeler and that was a lot of fun - I want to get one of my own someday.

Five Steps To Driving A "Greener" Car

Public Service Release
Car Care Council

It doesn't matter if the car you're driving is new or old, big or small. Driving technique and proper vehicle maintenance go a long way toward protecting the environment. By following five simple steps, you can do your part by improving gas mileage, which will also save money at the pump.

- Drive Green - How your drive has a lot to do with fuel economy. Avoid sudden starts and stops and go the speed limit. Jerky and aggressive driving decreases your miles per gallon (MPG) and increases wear and tear on your vehicle. Minimize unnecessary miles by combining errands in one trip.

- Get a Tune-Up - Regular tune-ups, maintenance and having clean air filters will help your car pollute less and burn less gas. With a proper tune-up, you can save four percent on the cost of gas and up to 40 percent by replacing a faulty oxygen sensor. Simply changing the car's air filter can improve efficiency by 10 percent.

- Lighten the Load - Get the junk out of the trunk and the stuff out of your car, with the exception of emergency items such as a spare tire, flares and a first-aid kit. Extra items weigh the vehicle down and cause an increase in gas usage.

- Tire Checks - Around two billion gallons of gas each year could be saved if the tires on every American's car were properly inflated. Optimal tire pressure for your vehicle is listed in the owner's manual. Tires that are not properly inflated add rolling resistance that makes the engine work harder to move the vehicle. All of this increases fuel costs as much as three to five cents per gallon, and increases the risk of engine damage.

- Gas Caps and Fill-Ups - Approximately 17 percent of vehicles on the road have loose, damaged or missing gas caps, causing 147 million gallons of gas to vaporize every year. Topping off your gas tank when filling up your car can also release harmful vapors into the environment.

Vehicle owners who do their own maintenance should remember to recycle or properly dispose of fluids and other vehicle components, including used motor oil, tires and batteries.

For more information about making your vehicle environmentally friendly, visit (www.car-care.org) and check out the popular digital Car Care Guide.

The participants (top photo) who saw it through to the end bring it in following the NFL Pro Players Softball Challenge held Sept. 12, 2009. The SUIT squad (members, employees, youths) fell to the football veterans after seven innings of play, 23-10, but everyone was all smiles afterwards and eager to interact with the special visitors.

Gauging this delivery's distance, Adam Red (above left photo) ponders finishing his swing or waiting for something better during the NFL Pro Players Softball Challenge held Sept. 12. Red finished 5-for-5 batting, but the SUIT member/employee/youth squad fell to the gridiron group after seven innings, 23-10.

Keep Grinding Forward

Hoping to find more running room than against Bayfield (pictured), senior running back Russell Hubert and the Bobcats return to action this weekend at Monument-based Palmer Ridge. IHS (2-1) had a 'bye' last weekend, while the 2-1 Bears beat John Mall in Walsenburg.

Taking flight last Saturday morning in the House of Troy, Ignacio junior Rose Mirabal (right) is in great position to deny Ouray's Marissa Huddleston (9) at the net. Mirabal had her best match yet in 2009 with a reported 14 kills and 16 digs, helping IHS (later 1-3 overall, 1-3 SJBL after losing at Nucla later that night) to their first win headed into this week. IHS defeated winless OHS 20-25, 25-19, 25-22, 25-14. NHS won in five (17-25, 25-18, 25-23, 25-27, 15-11) to improve to 4-3, 3-1 in league.

of double-elimination play. But loud to encourage the remaining Tour big guns to re-load their game with even higher-caliber shots.

“Any of these players, at any given time, will come with a shot that will make your jaw drop,” Craig said proudly.

“You can’t really miss, and if they miss you have to take advantage,” said Villarreal, winner of the 1994 Connelly Billiards Denver Classic but not in ’95. “But nobody can play perfect—it wouldn’t be challenging if you could play perfect. And when you have all these good new players—like a lot of the Asian players—come in it raises it to a whole other level.”

In fact, the two finest Asian players—Ga Young Kim of Taiwan (though born in South Korea), and Xiaoting Pan of China—advanced to play on the final stage. Which happened to be a custom Brunswick table valued at nearly $40 thousand! Joining them were regular crowd favorite Jeanette Lee [that ‘Widow’], and Kelly ‘Kwikfire’ Fisher of England.

Now residing in North Carolina—along with Allison Fisher and a few others, interestingly—Kelly Fisher met Lee in the first semifinal and won convincingly, 7 games to 2. Ending it the way she began, Fisher broke and then ran out both Rack No.1 and No.9, and even sank the 9-ball into the corner right in front of Lee to wrap up both racks—as well as two others.

“I think when you’re focused, you’re not even aware of which pocket you’re shooting it in or anything that’s going on around the table,” Fisher said, downplaying any mind games her 9-ball deposits may have triggered. “Once you’re zoned in you see the ball, and the pocket.”

Lee failed, uncharacteristically,

Formerly the top-ranked 9-ball player in the world, North Carolina’s Kelly Fisher (born in England) lines up a corner-pocket shot on the 8, ready to draw back for a rack-winning 9 during her semifinal match at the WPBA’s 2009 Colorado Classic. Fisher was one of four - out of a starting 64-player bracket - that began the tournament last Wednesday and survived to see Sunday inside the Sky Ute Casino Resort Events Center.

cake for the fans to taste and savor.

Aside from her obligatory TV interview with Laurance, Kim chose not to speak to the media or sign autographs until after facing Fisher, win or lose. For at stake, whether she knew it or not, a win in Ignacio could have given Kim an untouchable position atop the rankings—for the rest of 2009.

Fisher opened as she had with Lee, by breaking and running out—after the lag ended so tight that Tipton had to make a ruling on who would step to the hill first. A tricky 6-ball almost cost both players the second rack, but on a rare third try Kim finally sank it into the side and polished off the 8 and 9 to tie at 1-1.

Rack 3 was fairly routine for break—I was breaking really strong, but something kept colliding and landing in the way to where I couldn’t run out the table,” said Fisher. “But I’m happy with my performance overall—disappointed obviously, but she played great pool.”

“Always I practice a lot, but at the beginning this year I practice even harder....because before I was doing too fast. So now I’m slowing down but it doesn’t mean I’m slow,” Kim said. “I think it’s working.”

“She’s been dominant for a while. That was her second tournament in a row without a single loss,” Laurance added. “We’re playing a double-elimination format and to be able go through undefeated is amazing. So for her to do it twice in a row is pretty spectacular.”

Olin presented both with their awards, Kim fought through her now-timeless “Co...lo...ra...do!” declaration—which actually would have sounded intentional with more emphasis—and talk was on about future WPBA action in Ignacio.

“We’re excited to have the Tour here,” Olin said. “It’s the first and hopefully not the last time!”

“We always like playing in the big city, it’s always busy, lots of people, lots of cars. But here it’s more, like, comfortable—the air is so...clean,” said Kim. “I feel like maybe sometime I want to come back to Colorado and then have some vacation, you know? It would be great.”

“Well I’ve always loved the state of Colorado, but I found it to be really beautiful here,” Lee said. “This place is a beautiful casino-and-resort—I loved my hotel room, and the staff has been wonderful and I’ve been excited about coming to this venue so hopefully we have a lot more events here.”

“We’ve already talked again with Matt about ‘Next year let’s do this or that.’ And...of course we always want to make this a ‘multiple,’” Craig said. “We have one event, our San Diego Classic at the Viejas Casino—we’re going on 14 years there next year, and we’d love for any venue to beat that. So let’s have Sky Ute do it, you know?”

Keep your eyes peeled for ESPN’s showings of the final three matches coming in October!

Rarely blinking when at the table, Xiaoting Pan of China zeroes in on a shot during her semifinal match Sunday afternoon inside the Sky Ute Casino Resort Events Center at the WPBA’s 2009 Colorado Classic. Sixty-four players started the tourney last Wednesday, and Pan - now ranked #2 in the world - ended up one of the ‘Final Four.’

to make a ball and thus hold the table on three of her four break attempts, automatically putting Fisher into the driver’s seat. Though to be fair, the two swapped plenty of safety shots to keep each other guessing.

“It was like every time I had a shot, it was just a tough one and I didn’t make many at all,” Lee said afterwards, still smiling and signing autographs as she’d done so often before.

Kim duelled Pan in the second semi, gave up a few more opportunities, but still won 7-4. Part of the reason was Pan’s mechanical, but vicious break. Pocketing at least a ball on four of five breaks, Pan kept herself in the hunt late and won Racks 9 and 10 to cut Kim’s lead to 6-4.

But after Kim sank two on the break in No.11, she put Pan away for keeps with a sweet jump shot the length of the table to pocket the 2, then crossed the table’s width, kicked one rail, and dropped the 3 back into the side pocket by her elbow. The 5-ball then fell into the opposite side, and the 7, 8, 9 were just icing on the

Kim, but No.4 featured some serious magic. Kim had once missed a possible 2/9 combo, but after jumping successfully to cash the 4-ball in the corner, the cue ball retreated back and tapped the nine in for a 3-1 lead in the match.

“I try hard to do whatever I can do. I mean, I’m trying to play my best—actually I missed a couple shots that wasn’t easy, but not by too much,” Kim said in her admittedly ‘not so good English’ afterwards. “I think my opponent got bad luck on the break; she didn’t have much chance to run out, while I think I broke and ran out twice. So it was like, lucky, but I also played pretty good in the tournament.”

Errors by Fisher in Racks 5 and 6 allowed Kim to run the 7-8-9 in both, stretching her lead to 5-1, before Fisher took Rack No.7 by dropping the 6-7-9 into three different corners.

Rack 8 saw Fisher’s body language—a wry ‘smile’ and head shake—tell all that Kim had her game in overdrive and it would take a disaster to slow her down. Rack No.9 went to Fisher, but after Kim sank three on the break in Rack 10, she completed the run out for the championship, 7-3.

“Yeah, Ga Young played great, she played fantastic. My
