ANIMAS RIVER

Time will tell the extent of the spill

By Sacha Smith
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

As the initial shock of the Animas disaster dissipates, the Southern Ute Indian Tribe now enters the first steps to the long phase of recovery. The tribe is, and will be continually monitoring the long-term impacts of the spill for years to come.

"We have to deal with it," Councilman Tyson Thompson said during a meeting with the membership, Tuesday, Aug. 11. "We need to take steps for the future."

On Wednesday, Aug. 5, while the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) was conducting an investigation of the Gold King Mine, 3 million gallons of mine waste spilled into Cement Creek, a tributary of the Animas River. The orange-tinged waste reached the Southern Ute Indian Reservation on Friday, Aug. 7.

Initial reports show the river never dipped below pH 7.4 on the reservation; there was no massive fish die off reported; and the river was reopened for recreational use nine days after the spill. At this point, the unknowns of to a desire to implement culture and language for young tribal members benefit.

“It was decided [by those in Tribal Council] that the Montessori would be the best method to teach with, along with the culture,” Carol Baker-Olguin, Principal of the Academy said. “When that Tribal Council selected the Montessori method, it was because it had more in tune and very similar to the method that taught in the traditional Ute teaching.”

For those whom are not familiar with the Montessori method of teaching, Maria Montessori first introduced it in the late 1800’s. The method has a more hands on approach to education and learning, with the students being the driving force behind the “specialized” curriculum. The curriculum features more independence for students, classes with a three-year age range, and a child-centered environment.

“Our native people learn from hands on, than from a book,” Ute Language Design Coordinator, Georgia McKinley said. “They learn from the environment which is why we take them on trips for learning.”

The Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy was not the first Montessori school in the Southern Ute Community. Prior to development in July of 1999, the Head Start was one of the first schools to use the Montessori method.

Blue Sky Montessori school was another program developed around 1997 and helped pave the way for the development and success of the Academy, and included the grades from pre-K to third grade. Blue Sky was housed in the modular buildings near the Higher Education buildings and was overseen by past Ignacio School District Superintendent, Juvie Jones and financed by the tribe.

“Blue Sky was the model,” Baker-Olguin said. “We were trying it out to see if the parents would be interested in a program like this. Those non-tribal students went to public school and those tribal students went to the Academy [once it opened] or public school.”

Once SUIMA was opened, Blue Sky was closed down but the Montessori philosophy was transferred to the Academy for the benefit of students as well as a language and culture program.

For the past 15 years, SUIMA has held education, culture, and language to the core of their methods and teachings. For most students these values have had many benefits along with helping keep Ute culture and language alive for future generations.

“For older kids, they can grasp the basics of the language and can have an easier time communicating with elders,” McKinley said. “The kids can put things together and may not understand the language but can understand pieces and put two and two together.”

Students also benefit from the Academy by learning the Ute culture and customs, from everything to: Bear Dance, gender roles, and restrictions.

“On of the big differences we had [from public school] was that we were all in one class. We would only move class from P.E. to Language which I liked,” Randy Herrera, council member of the Sunshine

Cloud Smith Youth Council and former SUIMA student said when asked about the differences from private to public school systems.

Herrera is one of many students who went to SUIMA from primary to sixth grade, and transitioned to public school from seventh grade onward. Herrera enjoyed the Ute language aspect and believed it was one of the biggest benefits from attending SUIMA, he said.

For the last 15 years, these core values have remained a dominant factor in the quality of education that is presented, many hope that these values will continue in the next 15 years. For Baker-Olguin, the need for the next generation to begin pursuing the field of education has never been greater to continue on the core values of the Academy. Baker-Olguin has other hopes.

“The number of kids is almost at our limit, but I want more enrolled children to enroll,” Baker-Olguin said. “Although we meet the needs of all kids, there is always the older kids who need ‘more’ for their educational needs.”

With this Baker-Olguin wants to include new facilities such as; a computer lab, science lab, library, and more playground space for the academy in the future.

“It has been very enjoyable to see all the students from the last 15 years grow up and graduate and be successful,” Baker-Olguin said. “Even those students who do not end up graduating have my blessings and hope for success!”

There will be a 15-year Anniversary Celebration for SUIMA on Friday, Sept. 18.

The Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy

Is in need of donations of mountain bicycles or large bicycles that are no longer being used. We recently had an unfortunate theft of bikes and are looking for any bikes that anyone may want to donate to our children. We use them for the bike rodeo in the fall and spring and as part of our P.E. curriculum. Our older students and staff will be forever grateful for your help and donations. If you would like to donate a bike please contact The SUIMA administration staff at 970-563-0253.

Gold King Mine spills into Animas River

Sacha Smith/SU Drum

Over 3 Million Gallons of orange-tinged mine waste was deposited into the Animas River, Wednesday, Aug. 5. The wastewater reached the Southern Ute Indian Reservation Friday, Aug. 7.

Damon Toledo/SU Drum

Photo of the contaminated Animas River was taken on Thursday, Aug. 6, approximately fifteen miles north of Durango. The plume carried an estimation of twenty-six different metals from the King Coal Mine in Silverton, Colo.

Sacha Smith/SU Drum

Patrick Pfaltzgraff, director of Water quality Control Division CDPHE, Tribal Councilman Tyson Thompson and Randy Brown, EPA Region Tribal Program manager, discuss the effects of the Gold King Mine spill during a tour of the blowout site, Tuesday, Aug. 11.

Rivers that flow into the San Juan River

The map above illustrates the path of the Gold King Mine spill (in red) along the Animas River, and the towns affected by the spill. The Animas flows into the San Juan River, eventually flowing into Lake Powell in the Grand Canyon National Recreational Area.

the future seem to be the biggest concern.

For tribal member Barbara Scott-Rarick the sediment left behind is worrisome for her, especially not knowing what will happen during spring runoff.

"I'm heart broken and devastated," Scott-Rarick said. "We don't know when the sediment will get into watershed, it may take years."

Curtis Hartenstine, Water Quality Program Manager told the membership in Saturday's informational meeting that his staff will be monitoring and testing for the foreseeable future.

"The impact of the wells may not be understood for a longtime, because ground water doesn't move very fast," Hartenstine said. "We are working with the EPA on what the long-term monitoring requirements are to make sure tribal member health is protected."

According to Hartenstine, 13 wells have been tested and results are forthcoming.

In addition to monitoring wells by the Environmental Programs Division, the Southern Ute Tribal Housing Department has started installing reverse osmosis filters into kitchen sinks of tribal member's living within the affected zone.

Hartenstine said the filters are a precautionary measure to ensure overall health of the membership. "The tribe has really great resources and staff ... the tribe is stepping up, the tribe is taking care of us; my initial concern was with the communication," Scott-Rarick said.

Also being looked at are the effects on plants and animals. Tribal members were told at Saturday's informational meeting that their gardens were safe for consumption, but were advised to wash vegetables before use – just like you would do to produce from the grocery store.

Another concern amongst tribal members is how wildlife was impacted.

"I think from our perspective, our greatest concern now is aquatic life, fish and the ecosystem in the river," Steve Whiteman, Wildlife Division Head said. "We had no massive fish die off, but we need to monitor over time to see if there is any long term impacts."

As for terrestrial wildlife – mammals and birds – Whiteman said he doesn't anticipate seeing many issues.

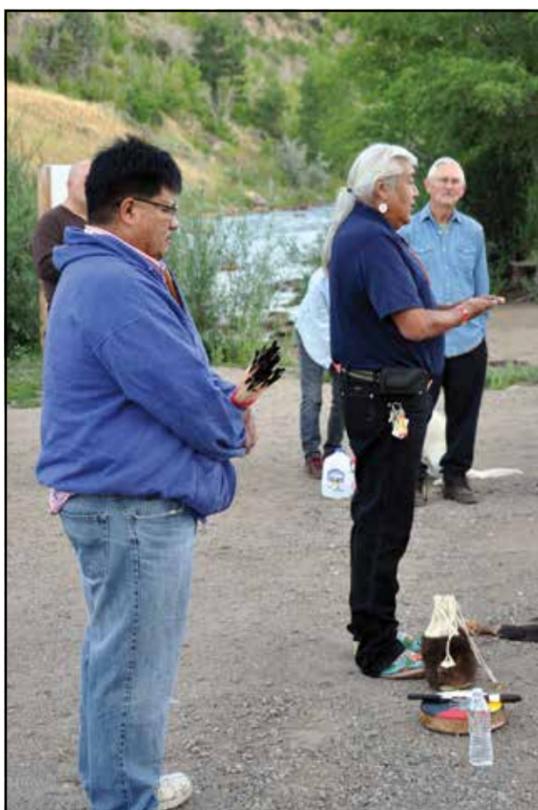

"The spill was acute ... there was short-term exposure for terrestrial animals," he said. "But if there are tribal members that are on the river and see dead fish or ill-looking terrestrial animals, they can call the Wildlife Division so we can look into it."

With the full extent of the damage remaining unknown, some are helping the recovery process by offering prayers.

Southern Ute spiritual leader, Kenny Frost, and Ute Mountain Ute tribal member Lyndreth Wall, held a sunrise blessing for the Animas River at Santa Rita Park, Sunday Aug. 16.

Prayers and songs were offered to the healing of not just the river, but the people affected along the river's path.

"There's no discrimination when it comes to the needs of the water," Frost said. "Without water there's no life."

Southern Ute elder, Roy O'John and his wife Vera are among those that gathered for a Sunrise Ceremony on the banks of the Animas River. Water was offered to the river with prayers.

TRIBAL SALES TAX

Southern and Ute Mountain Ute tribal members on-reservation sales tax exemption

Staff report
SOUTHERN UTE TRIBE

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe's Tribal Information Services Department reminds Southern Ute Indian tribal members and Ute Mountain Ute tribal members of their on-Reservation sales tax exemption.

Last year, Colorado Governor Hickenlooper signed HB14-1080 into law. HB14-1080 codified the Colorado

Department of Revenue's long-standing position, consistent with federal law, that on-Reservation sales to Southern Ute and Ute Mountain Ute tribal members are exempt from State sales tax.

"Reservation" means either the Southern Ute Indian Reservation or the Reservation of the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe.

The Tribe has reminded Four Corners Motorcycle

Rally vendors of the exemption. To claim the exemption, tribal members should show their tribal membership card when making a purchase.

LAND FOR SALE

Financing may be available with 35% down payment at 5% APR to a qualified buyer. If interested please call Steve Williams 970-884-1326 or email questions to ljmforever53@gmail.com for more details.

Attention agricultural land managers

The Water Quality Program for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe is now accepting applications for the 2016 Cost-share program. The Cost-share program is aimed at land managers living within the exterior boundaries of the Southern Ute Indian Reservation on the Animas, Florida and Pine watersheds who are interested in implementing Best Management Practices (BMPs) for more efficient irrigation and/or riparian protection/improvements. The majority of costs are covered by the Tribe through conservation agreements in which BMPs, such as surface gated pipe, underground pipe and inlet structures, or riparian fencing/off-stream watering sources are implemented. Such BMPs limit return flows from irrigated land and restore/protect critical riparian zones, thus decreasing erosion and other pollutants into our local watersheds. Call project coordinator Pete Nylander at 970-563-0135 ext 2214 for more information.

IHS VOLLEYBALL

Home heavy slate for spikers

Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Since losing its last match of 2012 to Parker Lutheran – during the process of LHS compiling a 47-match winning streak (presently the 12th-longest in CHSAA annals) – at the State Championships, Loveland Resurrection Christian will enter 2015 atop a 58-match high (fifth-longest all-time) as it seeks a Class 2A three-peat.

Claimed by the Lady Cougars late in last fall's 29-0 effort, San Juan Basin League stronghold [14-2 against the loop in '14] Ridgway, which finished 19-6 after a for-pride best-of-three defeat of Sargent inside the Denver Coliseum should, starting in September, again be a barometer for the widespread 2A/1A circuit.

Certain to again put Ignacio to the test, the Lady Demons will fittingly also be the last, large obstacle between the Lady Bobcats and their hard-earned, home-cooked October stretch drive.

Ready to fully re-inhabit IHS Gymnasium after calling both Ignacio Middle School and SunUte Community Center home during a harsh 2-18 education, the year-wiser Cats will travel to RHS on Sept. 19 for the most key early-season contest (as yet listed) on the team's 2015 itinerary.

Up first, however, will be a long-anticipated 4 p.m. visit Sept. 1st from Kirtland Central, N.M.

Two of the sides' previous three clashes went the full five-game distance, and last year's KCHS sweep could have been chalked up simply to IHS' then-inexperience. Ignacio will be looking to prove that's what it was against a program which went 8-2 in New Mexico's District 1-4A, and 16-6 overall after falling (to eventual rulers Ruidoso) in the NMAA State Tournament's initial Round-of-12.

Non-league Monte Vista then comes to town on the 10th (also a 4 p.m. start), hoping to build upon a 7-16 result in which the Lady Pirates went 0-8 in the 3A Intermountain. SJBL play gets underway next for IHS on the Sept. 12, with Ouray traversing the mountain passes for a noon start in the Pine River Valley.

The Lady Trojans finished at the bottom of the ladder in 14, going 0-13 against league opposition while managing to take just three games – all at home, including one from Ignacio – and finished a reported Ignacio's Chrystianne Valdez makes sure her pass is precise during warm-ups before last season's opener at Kirtland, N.M., Central. Valdez, now a senior coming off an All-SJBL nod last fall, will be essential in 2015—starting when IHS hosts KCHS.

Ignacio's Thad Cano directs his team's warm-ups prior to hosting Mancos inside Ignacio Middle School Gymnasium last fall. The 'Cats will be finding themselves back inside IHS Gymnasium in 2015, after splitting home dates between IMS and SunUte Community Center.

4-18 overall after downing De Beque and then losing to Nucla in the 1A-District 1 Tournament.

The Cats will travel for the first time on the Sept. 17 to Mancos, where the Lady Jays will be hoping to find the sort of fire which had them almost as scorching – MHS won seven of its first ten SJBL matches (and ended up 9-6 in league) – as RHS early last season, before 2A-Region G Tournament losses to Dolores and Cedaredge finalized their 2014 record at 13-11 overall.

Well-received on the Eastern Plains at last year's Simla Invitational, Ignacio will again grind through the round-robin endurance event in '15, with action at SHS beginning 8:30 a.m. on Sept. 26.

But upon returning to La Plata County, the Cats will go easy on gas budgets until the postseason.

Starting with a home match versus Telluride on October 1st, eight of Ignacio's remaining eleven slated dates – including visits from RHS (10/10), MHS (10/15), Dolores (10/22) and Class 1A State Tournament qualifiers Norwood (10/24) – will take place on campus, save for a 10/3 triangular at DHS and a 10/17 single at THS.

A visit from 3A State Tournament qualifiers Pagosa Springs on Oct. 27 wraps things up, with both crews hoping that by then they'll have prepared and positioned themselves well enough to then play into November.

The Cats will first get a sneak peek at several of the aforementioned foes at the August 22nd 4 Corners Scrimmages, hosted by PSHS and head coach Connie O'Donnell.

New Ignacio Football head coach Alfonso "Ponch" Garcia (white shirt) roars encouragement during a tire tug-o-war along with new assistant Bill Gwinn at the Bobcats' first practice of 2015 on Monday, Aug. 17. In addition to more conventional exercises, the head-to-head strength spectacle was one of the Day 1 highlights, as was a version of the rope drill—in which players became a moving set of 'strings' to be high-stepped over by other players, from goal line to goal line and back.

Bobcat football to travel ... lots

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Last year's football schedule wasn't entirely friendly to Ignacio High School.

Despite the anticipation and long-awaited unveiling of a new, artificial surface and a slate somewhat conducive to capitalize on the upgrade, the Bobcats couldn't put it all together in finishing 1-8 overall and a fifth-place 1-4 in the six-team 1A Southern Peaks Conference.

IHS' 2015 itinerary certainly won't do the Cats any favors while they re-tool ... especially down the stretch.

A trip out to La Jara on Oct. 16 (kickoff 7:00 p.m.) to face defending SPC champs Centauri precedes a 10/23 return to the San Luis Valley to meet conference dark horse Center, as well as the drive to Dolores Sept. 30 for a regular-season finale against the arch-nemesis Bears – who somehow found 13 points enough to blank the Cats in Ignacio and close the book on a frigid 2014.

Neither DHS (4-5, 2-3 SPC in '14) nor CHS (5-4, 3-2) made the 1A State Playoffs, but the Falcons (7-4, 5-0) picked up an opening Round-of-16 win at home by holding perennial power Limon to just two points. Loveland Resurrection Christian, however, curbed that enthusiasm in the quarterfinals with a neutral-ground win up at Fort Collins Fossil Ridge H.S.

First up for IHS in helping kick off the 95th year of CHSAA-sanctioned scholastic sports will be an August 28th debut (7 p.m. start) at IHS

PRO-gression: Herrera inks hoops deal

Scandinavians snag IHS alumnus

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Fortunately the sport of basketball is a global language all its own.

And former Ignacio High School star Alex Herrera seems to have it mastered. Which is a good thing considering where his hoops odyssey will be taking him next, as announced online Tuesday, Aug. 11.

'206-senttinen Alex Herrera KTP:n haaviin!' read the www.ktpbasket.fi headline, followed by an article which will never read any easier – though excerpts like 'Elokuussa 23-vuotta täyttävä Alex "The Chief" Herrera on kotoisin Colorado osavaltioista, 700 asukkaan Ignacion kaupungista...' make it fairly clear what happened.

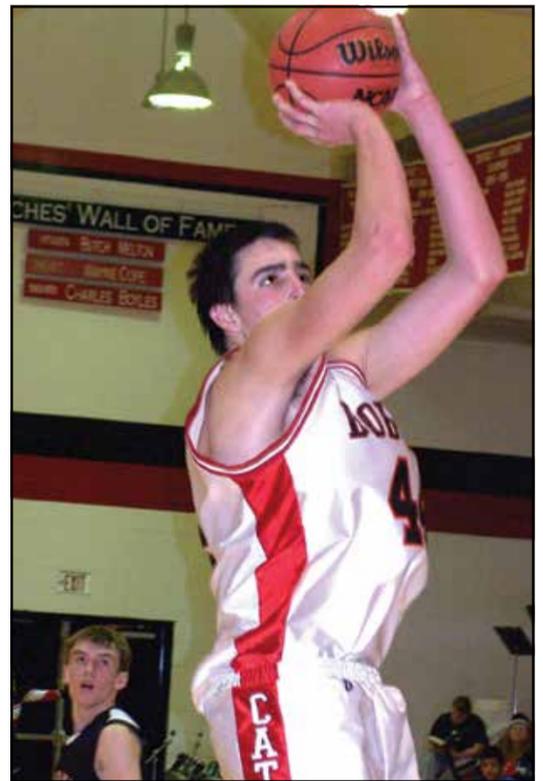

The La Plata County big signed his first professional contract.

Having seen West Coast summer action recently in the Venice Beach, Calif.-centered Venice Basketball League, keeping his skills sharp after going unselected in the 2015 NBA Draft, Herrera committed to take his post-dominating presence to KTP (that is, Kotkan Työväen Palloilijat) Basket in Finland's Korisliiga.

"It couldn't happen to a nicer kid," said longtime IHS head coach Chris Valdez. "A kid like that earns everything he gets. And I'm just so proud of him and wish him the best as he starts his pro career!"

"It's an honor to be his mom," Kathy Herrera said of her son, who will turn a prime 23 tomorrow.

Located in the southwestern coastal city of Kotka – owning a population nearing that of Grand Former Ignacio Bobcat Alex Herrera zones in on a medium-range jumper inside IHS Gymnasium versus Ouray during the 2008-09 season. Herrera recently signed his first professional hoops contract after completing a stellar career at NCAA Division II Fort Lewis College in Durango.

Junction, Colorado – KTP went a first-place 29-11 in 2014-15, and then began the postseason by eliminating the Helsinki Seagulls three games to none in the circuit's quarterfinals. Bisons Loimaa, however, then pulled a 3-2 upset in the semis and KTP was forced to salvage third via a 92-79 defeat of Kauhajoen Karhu on May 12th.

A title would have been the club's seventh since its 1957 debut, but its first since 1994.

Herrera's acquisition will undoubtedly prove beneficial for the team; former University of Rhode Island forward LaMonte Ulmer, who averaged 17.8 points and 8.6 rebounds per game during the '14-15 grind, agreed last month to play in Germany's Bundesliga this season for Würzburg-based, 2007-founded s.Oliver Baskets.

(The club's previous incarnation, DJK Würzburg, gave rise to a young hopeful named Dirk Nowitzki.)

At NCAA Division II Fort Lewis College in Durango, Herrera finished his Skyhawk days starting all 29 games as a senior in '14-15, averaging a double-double (23.7 points, 11.6 rebounds per) and blocking 94 shots. He shot 56.1% from the floor (230-of-410)

ADVANTAGE BASKETBALL CAMP

Advantage Basketball camps is a national camp that is rated #2 in the country by Kids Sports Illustrated.

I started taking my Wildcat team to the Advantage camps long ago – back in 2007, I believe. The camps run by Keiko Yoshimimi. The camps are an excellent way for kids and teens to brush up on their dribbling, ball handling, and shooting skills.

I have taken my kids and my team to different camps and this is the one I stand behind because they really do teach minute to minute.

This is the second year we've brought it to Ignacio with the aid and support of the following working together to get this done: Kevin Winkler at SunUte, Gail Pena at the HR Dept/SUIT, the Tribal Council and XO's for the SUIT, Heidi Doscher and Travis Garlick at Sky Ute Casino Resort, and myself, Naomi Russell - coach and volunteer for the Ignacio Wildcats.

We hope to continue this for as long as the public has an interest. Sign ups begin late December through the end of July of each year. We plan to have the camp in Ignacio the first full week of August annually.

LET'S PURSUE CHANGE

Let's pursue change
Tribal Members,

We are currently experiencing a place of political unrest. Some might think that this division among us is because of the recent spill that has caused our water to become contaminated. However, this is not the case. The political unrest began a long time ago with many of us becoming displaced from employment or not being able to get employment at all. The response time of the EPA and Tribal officials served as a catalyst to further the unrest. This catastrophic incident should be taken seriously as any potential harm to life is of concern and therefore, should have been addressed in an emergent way.

We are currently trying to resolve divisions among us through policy change like the division of service provisions initiated for some and not others because of the land we reside on. We are all members of this tribe and should be allowed equal access to all provisions. Council's response to our predicaments is that they never have a solution or resolve for us. They tell us there is nothing they can do, they can't involve themselves in this or in that. Because of their inability to act some of us are now questioning their ability to serve and protect us as a tribe. Therefore, there are some of us who are organizing and banding together to bring forth our concerns to a Council who will not hear our voice. We elect these officials to protect our interests and I for one am not feeling protected. The only way to ensure change and to ensure we are heard, is if we unite as one and come collectively with one voice of the people. Currently, we are petitioning to get Council to stand down if they do not have the power to take back our tribe under their control. If they are letting Department heads and those in prominent positions rule over us as in a dictatorship, then we have no voice and Tribal Council tells us that they have no power when it comes to policy that has been approved by previous Councils. What they need to hear is that "You are Council, therefore, you have the power to change any and all policies as you deem fit for the membership". However, they pursue your vote, get into place, collect their pay and forget what they are there for and continually tell you they have no power to act. This negligence of their duty to perform and to act on our behalf is where the problem lies. I for one am unwilling to accept this from our Tribal Council. They need to be held accountable for their time in office. As of now, we are organizing and standing together to pursue change. To give HR and other Departments back to our Tribe to run them as was promised by the Federal Government through Self Determination. If HR and other departments are unwilling to hire tribal members that are not helping us toward self-determination but rather are trying to control us as a people and it needs to stop. If you are not for us than you must be against us. At the present time I think we need to diligently look at hiring practices overall throughout our tribal government and our relationship to SUCAP as well. Our biggest concerns are focused on Employment, Division of Social Services, Housing Provisions, Health Care Systems and the like. Another area of great interest and concern is that of the establishment of contractual employees that are to establish apprenticeships among tribal members to take on a particular position once trained but still remain while the tribe continues to renew their contracts without the placement of trained tribal members in these prospective positions. There are many other issues that will be brought to Councils attention. We are asking the membership to please stand with us in our effort to return our tribe to the governing of its members. Please help us to move forward and to not remain stagnant with regard to policy change. We need to do this before we are censored and retaliated against because we insist on a difference in opinion that will ultimately lead to taking back initiatives and our government for productive change for its members. We are already aware that a Council member tried to stop us from publishing what we think and feel from publication, this is not right, we also have the right to "Freedom of Speech" within this country we reside in. We should not be afraid to voice our opinions to those in place to protect us. They are in place to serve as our spokesman and advocate. Who taught us we should fear them? We are seeking signatures for change.

Respectfully, Yvonne Tree

WRONGFUL TERMINATION CONCERN

First, disclose that my wife, Linda Mahlum was wrongfully terminated, within the same hour on May 22, 2014, that her Supervisor, 30 year-long Peaceful Spirit employee and Tribal elder, Judy Lansing was, also wrongfully terminated by the (non-native) SUCAP management. Many of you have heard of and been appalled by this.

Now, it is time for the members of the powerful Southern Ute Tribe, to take a close and critical look at this outdated relic of the 1960's CAP (Program). SUCAP has dominated Southern Ute services for a half-century. The management has become dominated by highly paid non-Natives. The priority of services for the Southern Utes has been lost. Operations are, in my opinion, secretive. There are no Southern Ute Tribal members serving in these highly paid management positions.

I have had the honor for several years, to know Judy Lansing. I have learned she is an outstanding Tribal member and Elder, who is very dedicated to her family, her People and all community members of Ignacio. The obvious example is her dedication to help those individuals with substance abuse issues. Judy has been both generous and patient while teaching me about so many wonderful Southern Ute Traditions and Culture. Now, I look forward to the Bear Dance and Sun Dance. Because of Judy Lansing, I am learning to understand and appreciate my Southern Ute neighbors. I regard Judy Lansing as an ambassador for the Southern Ute Tribe!

Since I have learned about the problems of SUCAP and the impeccable qualities of Judy Lansing, I can only implore the Southern Ute Tribe to take over Peaceful Spirit. Peaceful Spirit is the SUCAP department that is closest to the heart of the Tribe, where persons heal and learn about themselves in the Native way. Judy Lansing must be returned to her supervisory position. I am certain, after what I know about SUCAP, that Peaceful Spirit has been a much less effective treatment center without her. Her goal is to help people, not to remain in an overpaid position until a car is paid off as one non-Native supervisor stated. Actually, SUCAP should be defunded so that Southern Utes can decide what programs best serve the people and which are meant to line the pockets of non-Native managers.

The Southern Ute Tribe, a sovereign nation has the authority to make this change. I fully agree with the position articulated so well by Yvonne Tree in recent Drum issue. Pearl Casias in the Durango Herald was exceptional in the voicing of her concerns. My opinion is: Don't just make the attempt to learn and preserved the Ute Language-also, have your own people take positions and responsibilities, through education, mentorships and internships!

So, Tribal members, insist that Judy Lansing be returned to her position at Peaceful Spirit. She deserves that dignity and respect after all she has done for the community as an effective Counselor. Also, insist that Peaceful Spirit go under the wind of the Tribe. This travesty of justice can be corrected. The Southern Ute Indian Nation must not be taken advantage of anymore! Remember this when SUCAP celebrates its 50th birthday this year. More non-Natives will be celebrating it than deserving Natives for whom the program was originally intended. It is time to stand up to the money oriented non-Native culture and its SUCAP masters who now profit more from this outdated organization than Southern Utes. Will you simply sit by while yet another Native is egregiously wronged by the dominant white and their culture?

Mark Mahlum

2015 CRACKDOWN

SUPD

Drive sober or get pulled over

Staff report
SOUTHERN UTE POLICE DEPT.

The Southern Ute Police Department Will Be Out in Full Force to Catch Drunk Drivers Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over

As summer winds down, the Southern Ute Police Department is ramping up its enforcement efforts as part of a national crackdown on drunk driving. The 20-day, high visibility campaign, Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over, is a partnership with the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) to curb impaired driving and save lives.

August 21-September 7 (Labor Day), law enforcement partners nationwide will show zero tolerance for drunk driving. Increased state and national messaging about the dangers of driving drunk, coupled with checkpoints and increased officers on the road, aim to drastically reduce the toll of drunk driving.

And what a toll it is. In 2013, there were 10,076 people killed in drunk-driving crashes, almost a third of all traffic fatalities. Thirty-eight percent of crash fatalities on Labor Day weekend that year involved drunk drivers (with blood alcohol concentrations [BACs] of .08 or higher), amounting to 161 lives lost. And we're not just talking about a little bit of alcohol, either. More than a quarter (27%) of the crash fatalities that occurred on Labor Day weekend involved drivers with BACs of .15 or higher-almost twice the illegal per se limit.

"Too many people think their actions don't affect anybody else," Chief Coriz said. "They know it's illegal. They know it's wrong. But they do it anyway-they make decisions as if those statistics just can't happen to them," he added.

The reality is, people aren't invincible. Of the 10,076 people who were killed in impaired driving crashes in 2013, 65 percent were the drunk drivers themselves. Those 6,515 drunk drivers planned on making it to their destinations, but they didn't.

In every state, it's illegal to drive with a BAC of .08 or higher. Chief Coriz wants to remind drivers on the Southern Ute Indian Reservation that it's not a recommendation; it's the law.

And during the enforcement period starting August 21 and ending September 07, there will be a special emphasis on drunk-driving enforcement. Due to collaboration and a common zero tolerance stance between the Southern Ute Police Department and the Ignacio Police Department, local drivers should expect to see more patrol vehicles, DUI checkpoints, and increased messaging about this reckless, preventable crime. "The number of people who are still drinking and driving is unacceptable," added Chief Coriz. "Yes, we want to increase awareness for the campaign, but we want the effects to be permanent."

NHTSA data shows that repeat offenders are an especially dangerous facet of the drunk driving problem. In the month of August from 2009-2013, of the drunk drivers involved in fatal crashes, almost 1 out of 10 (8%) of them had already been convicted of at least one drunk-driving offense.

Chief Coriz emphasized the preventable nature of drunk driving: "All it takes is a little planning ahead. Designate a sober driver or call a cab. But whatever you do, don't drink and drive." NHTSA has made it even easier to get home safely when you've been drinking.

The new Safer Ride mobile app (free from the iTunes store and Google Play), can help users call a taxi or a friend for a ride home. The app can even help you identify your location so you can be picked up. So this August and year-round, remember that there's no excuse for drunk driving.

If you choose to break the law, the Southern Ute Police Department will see you before you see them. Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over.

Field versus non-onference Hotchkiss. The Bulldogs went 4-6 overall last fall, but qualified for the Playoffs, where they then fell at Buena Vista in the first round. BVHS went on to reach runner-up status, losing in the State Championship to Paonia, whom Ignacio will face on Sept. 11 at the intimate Paonia Town Park.

Also representing the Western Slope Conference, the Eagles defeated the Demons 21-7 in the grand finale and outscored their Playoffs opponents by an aggregate 137-22 margin to cap a perfect 13-0 campaign.

The Cats then make a much shorter trip to 2A Pagosa Springs on 9/18 for a winnable test against the Pirates, coming off a 3-6 result in which they were held to seven points or fewer in five outings.

IHS' lone victim in 2014, Walsenburg John Mall, comes to town on Oct. 2, but Ignacio will first have to fight through what should be a difficult Sept. 25 non-conference home clash with 2A Montezuma-Cortez. Despite being the So-Peaks' smallest school by enrollment and going 0-5 against the loop during its first time as a member, JMHS managed to finish

Young Bobcat Lewis Valdez laughs amid a crowd of would-be tacklers in a mock kick-return scenario, knowing there's no real contact allowed on Day 1 practices in Colorado. The 2015 CHSAA football season officially began Monday, Aug. 17, with Ignacio opting for a three-hour afternoon/evening session to get things

2-7 overall in '14.

The Bobcats' Senior Night home finale is currently set to fall on Oct. 9, though the enemy - Monte Vista - has proven since joining the SPC that it will not be a cupcake. MVHS went 6-4 overall, 4-1 in the SPC before finishing Manny Wasinger's second season in charge with a 26-21 loss at Rye in the Playoffs' first round.

Defensively, the Pirates held six of last year's ten foes to single digits - including Center, IHS, JMHS, and Dolores - before Centauri upended (via a 42-6 rout) the proverbial table on Monte to cop the SPC crown.

Practice officially began Monday, Aug. 17, with the first date for contact and usage of all equipment being Thursday, Aug. 20 But due to the decision to host HHS during "Zero Week," CHSAA by-laws deny the Cats their two allowable preseason scrimmages between the Aug. 22-27.

and 67.3% (224-of-333) from the free-throw line as FLC went 20-9 overall.

All-time at "Colorado's Campus in the Sky," Herrera ranks No. 1 in blocks and No. 2 in both points and boards.

Represented by Cremona, Italy-headquartered Two Points Basketball Agency - which also represents former CSU-Pueblo All-America forward Damon Williams (a Korisliiga star himself with Tampereen Pyrintö) - details of the 6'10" pivot's agreement with KTP had not been disclosed by press time.

It's a good possibility, however, that the mere opportunity to hoop overseas outweighed overseas currency.

"He sets such a good example for his siblings," Kathy Herrera said. "He's very goal-oriented; when he hit college he said 'I want to play pro basketball' and now, after turning pro, I can guarantee you he has another goal. Don't know what it is yet - he hasn't told me - but he's probably already working on it."

"He recruits US to go with him to the gym," she continued, alluding to herself and husband Chris, "recruits his friends to go to the gym and rebound for him ... You dream big and nothing's ever out of reach."

"He comes from a humble background, you know," Valdez said. "You see how they love him up at Fort Lewis? People don't just love him for what he does on the court; they love him because he's approachable, personable ... and a kid like that, you just want to get behind and support him."

Though unable to be reached for comment by press time (as was retiring FLC skipper Bob Hofman), when considering his previous Australian exploits it's safe to say he'll soon have backers on three continents.

All of them united by a common, spherical 'tongue.'

LETTER TO THE SOUTHERN UTE INDIAN TRIBAL MEMBERSHIP

The protocol and duties of elected officials is written in the Southern Ute Indian Constitution. It states: We, the members of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe of the Southern Ute Indian Reservation in Colorado, in order to exercise our inherent rights of self-government as confirmed by the Constitution and bylaws approved November 4, 1936 to administer our tribal affairs, to preserve and increase our tribal resources, do ordain and establish this constitution.

From this understanding each and every elected official should administer Tribal affairs to the best of their ability, and not create any type of misunderstanding, conflict or perform any unethical conduct during their term in office.

What has become very noticeable is how Tribal officials have become transformational passive leaders - they depend on other non-tribal staff to make decisions for them. They do so while earning Tribal dollars to make adverse decisions; creating policies that work against the membership in many ways. Classic issues in employment, health, housing, credit program, Tribal court to name a few.

Most recent in the Tribal Credit Fund-Secured Housing Loan Program Tribal Council has allowed non-members staff to create and recommend a program that is adversary to our membership. Many members have been turned away under this program, while yet the policy says, "Tribal Credit loans will not be denied based on the applicant's credit score and the criteria defined in this declaration shall govern credit approval". What do you think about the Tribal Council selling us out-now we are confronted with using credit scores to qualify for housing-setting us up like a loan program with Wells Fargo?

In previous years our per-capita was not taxable and thanks to officials we pay taxes now; plus now they have subjected us to credit checks utilizing our own tribal funds. What do you think about that and so what is next?

When we discuss housing many members need housing young and old and there is absolutely no help for them. Our elders need home repairs of some sort that goes unnoticed; plus there are so many other issues on our reservation we have to contend with ourselves with no help from officials. Most of the time we live in silence and say nothing and it continues. Don't you think it is time to take a stand for the sake of our tribal children and their future? Become involved.

For your information I have chosen to take a stand to assist in a re-call effort along with other elders. There are posters available for your information and our effort has been acknowledged in the Durango Herald dated August 11, 2015. I would like to see an impact to take a stand sign up and help make a difference we all need and during election time support people whom truly support Tribal member's needs. Thank you for taking the time to read this.
