INDIAN BOARDING SCHOOLS

History Colorado issues second report to Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs

House Bill 22-1327 research underway at state sites

Staff report
HISTORY COLORADO

History Colorado’s State Archaeologist, Dr. Holly Norton, presented a second quarterly report about Federal Indian Boarding Schools in Colorado to the Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs (CCIA), Thursday, Dec. 15.

The report outlines the progress to date in implementing the Federal Indian Boarding School Research Program Act (HB 22-1327), which was signed into law by Governor Jared Polis on May 24, 2022. The act directs History Colorado to investigate the lived experiences of students at the one-time federal Native American boarding school in Hesperus, Colo., also referred to as the Fort Lewis Indian Boarding School, as well as identify potential burial places of students who perished while attending the school.

The latest report provides updates on the completion of the current phase of remote sensing work at the site of the Fort Lewis Indian Boarding School; efforts to secure funding for completion of similar work at the Teller Institute in Grand Junction; and updates on archival research.

A complete copy of Dr. Norton’s second quarterly report can be found here. This report is a continuation of the previous report under the HB 22-1327, which was provided to the CCIA on Sept. 8.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

Winterhawk Carrillo; an Artesia graduate

Animal Control Officer to Tribal Ranger

By Divine Windy Boy
SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

Southern Ute tribal member Krystofer Winterhawk Carrillo is a recent graduate of the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, Indian Police Academy—located in Artesia, N.M.— as of Friday, Oct. 7 and now serves the Southern Ute Indian Tribe as a Tribal Ranger. These responsibilities include patrolling a wider range of the Southern Ute Reservation and enforcing both natural resources and wildlife codes. Before taking her latest position, she also served the Southern Ute Indian Tribe as an Animal Control Officer for a total of six years before transitioning and challenging herself to complete ranger training.

Early in her career, Winterhawk Carrillo had a passion for working with animals and naturally applied for a position working as an Animal Control Officer for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe. In her role with Animal Control, she had the opportunity to work with domestic animals and livestock within the reservation, ensuring to protect property, pets, and other animals from abuse, neglect, and disease. After six years of work with Southern Ute Animal Control, she made the decision to take on the Ranger Trainee position, a job position that gives Southern Ute tribal members the opportunity to complete training at the Federal Police Academy in Artesia, N.M.

As Winterhawk Carrillo continues in this new position she hopes to get to know more of the tribal membership and interact with them as they go out to enjoy the area’s natural resources. “I like seeing tribal members out there – hunting, fishing, or just even going out to hike – it’s cool to see that and to interact with them enjoying the resources, get to know them more.”

Tribal Ranger Captain, Charles Hamby is very proud of the accomplishments that Winterhawk Carrillo has made and is glad to have her be a part of their team. “After several years of her doing the job of the animal control officer, she decided that she was ready to go ahead and go through the academy – take a new challenge,” Hamby said. “It’s tough for anyone, but someone that is a mother and wife, then has to put all of that on hold for a few months while you’re going to the Academy – which the Academy itself is quite a challenge. It’s pretty amazing what she accomplished.”

“Winterhawk is one of those people that everyone just really enjoys being around her and working with her, she is very professional, she cares about the membership – she always had taken her job very seriously,” Hamby said. “When she had voiced her interest in going to the academy and becoming a ranger, every single person in our division

Western States and Tribal Nations welcomes the Jicarilla Apache Nation

Andrew Browning
PRESIDENT, WESTERN STATES AND TRIBAL NATIONS

As we wrap up an eventful, unprecedented year in the energy world, we wanted to share the important takeaways and the future paths we learned from the successful Western States and Tribal Nations (WSTN) West Coast LNG Export Forum held at Colorado Mesa University on Dec. 12-13 in Grand Junction, Colo. The university is a fitting venue because it is there that the seed which led to WSTN's formation was first planted.

Fast forward three years: WSTN welcomed its eighth government member, the Jicarilla Apache Nation, when President Edward Velarde signed WSTN's governing Memorandum of Understanding and made his nation our third sovereign tribal nation signatory – a highlight of our forum.

The event brought together many of the finest minds in Rockies natural gas, global LNG infrastructure and Tribal Nation energy development. In keeping with our pedigree as a government-led organization with members from multiple nations, tribal nations and states, WSTN hosted a high-level delegation from Japan's Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry's (METI) Oil & Gas Division – LNG thought leaders and architects of Asia's low-carbon future — as Japan prepares to take the presidency of the Group of Seven (G7) industrialized nations. U.S. Ambassador to Japan Rahm Emanuel sent a video keynote address that captured the current urgent global need for American LNG as a road to allied energy security, fast on the heels of the start of the U.S.-Japan Energy Security Dialogue.

As for our takeaways from the forum, here are five that will shape our activities in 2023 and beyond:

Rockies producers lead the way on decarbonizing gas

The Rockies states of New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming are, as a region, leading the way in decarbonizing natural gas production. Claims over whose molecule is the cleanest turned into a friendly verbal rivalry among state delegates to the forum, but the importance of this growing recognition by the industry cannot be overstated, a fact a supportive editorial by The Grand Junction Daily Sentinel noted in response to the forum. Part of WSTN's mission is helping our allies in Asia lower their carbon footprint by replacing dirtier power generation fuels. Cleaner production here lowers overall emissions further and makes our LNG more attractive to commercial partners and the governments that regulate them.

Asia's need for American LNG is an emergency for many nations

Asia's need for U.S. LNG from the West Coast has only become more urgent since Russia's invasion of Ukraine, a fact METI Oil and Gas Division Director Takeshi Soda shared in a deeply informative presentation that laid bare the emergency-level LNG shortages in Asia that Europe's war-increased demand has caused. High current prices are the predictable result, but long-term contracts that can start supplying at stable prices are all but sold out until 2026 and LNG procurement is in a "state of war," Soda told the audience. Japan's government is facilitating investments to ensure its own energy security, including through direct investment in upstream and midstream assets. This presents a major opportunity for West Coast LNG exports and Rockies natural gas.

American LNG exports are now a formal U.S. policy and diplomatic tool

The Biden Administration in both Japan and the U.K. has formally made LNG exports part of its short- to medium-term policy for solving energy shortages. Ambassador Emanuel gave the reason succinctly in his keynote address: "President Putin's invasion an Tribe, and Ute Mountain Ute Tribe, as well as CCIA, Fort Lewis College and History Colorado representatives. The consultation focused on providing an overview of HB 22-1327, the work to date, and how work should proceed.

For many young tribal members, Christmas means a visit from Santa Claus himself. On Saturday, Dec. 22, that wish came true for many of Ignacio's youth as Old Saint Nick and Mrs. Claus welcomed them during the holiday program at the Sky Ute Casino Resort. The Southern Ute Royalty took a moment to stand together for a portrait with Santa during the tribal Christmas dinner, followed by many young boys and girls who took the opportunity to add their last-minute wishes to Santa's list.

Dr. Norton also held listening sessions at Fort Lewis College with faculty, staff, and students on Oct. 28, to discuss HB 22-1327 and the research being conducted by History Colorado.

Additionally, History Colorado contracted with Statistical Research, Inc. to conduct a remote sensing investigation of the Fort Lewis Indian Boarding School site in Hesperus, Colo. The remote sensing is non-ground disturbing, meaning that soil and sediments are not excavated, dug, or removed in any way. This work concluded in November. The data is now being processed and evaluated and results will be ready to share with tribal nations in February 2023.

A partner in the Teller Institute investigation, the Colorado School of Mines is conducting remote sensing of the grounds to identify any potential burial sites. On Nov. 30, History Colorado's State Historical Fund awarded the School of Mines $250,000 to complete this work.

So far remote sensing at the Teller Institute has been inconclusive due to soil composition as well as decades of ground disturbance.

vant to boarding schools' impact on Native American tribes-people in Colorado. The number of locations being investigated has grown to ten, but this is subject to change as some of these could be the same schools operating under different names.

More detail about these schools, which includes several locations along the Front Range, is included in the report but research is ongoing to understand these sites.

Archival research

Other activities of note

A team of researchers, led by Dr. Norton, visited the National Archive and Records Administration in Washington, D.C. from Nov. 28 – Dec. 2, to identify and collect digital copies of all documents related to Indian Boarding Schools in Colorado from 1881-1920. This team scanned roughly 5,000 pages of data from the National Archives in Washington, D.C., over the course of five days. These documents join several hundred pages of documents retrieved from the National Archives location in Denver.

While the scope of the boarding school system is nationwide, the archival research conducted by Dr. Norton focuses on federal boarding school operations within Colorado, as well as the closure of these schools.

As a result of the methodological choice to focus specifically on Boarding School operation inside of Colorado from 1881-1920, the totality of lived experiences of students who were moved from their Colorado homes to boarding schools in other states may not be represented within this study.

History Colorado Staff participated in panel discussions on Boarding Schools at the Denver Indian Family Resource Center for Orange Shirt Day Oct. 1. Dr. Norton also participated in a Webinar presentation for the Crow Canyon Archaeological Center on Oct. 11.

Next steps

The research team will visit additional research facilities, and there are still materials to be gathered from the facilities in Washington D.C. and Denver. Archival analysis will help determine whether there are any additional areas of concern that require remote sensing investigation. Post-processing of the remote sensing data continues for both the Fort Lewis-Hesperus site and the Teller Institute.

Consultation with Tribal Nations will continue in the coming months in connection to both the Fort Lewis site in Hesperus, Colo. and the Teller Institute in Grand Junction, Colo. It is anticipated that the consultation work will be expanded to include additional tribes that have been identified as having connections to Colorado boarding schools.

A third quarterly report will be provided to the Colorado Commission on Indian Affairs on March 16, 2023.

Treat family and friends with chocolate chip walnut zucchini bread

By Lisa Smith, RDN, CLC
SHINING MOUNTAIN HEALTH AND WELLNESS

Make a special treat to share with friends and family.

Zucchini is easy to shred using a box shredder if you don't have a food processor. Whole wheat flour makes this a healthier option and walnuts bring in a little healthy fat. You can substitute them with pecans if preferred.

To make this even healthier, add 2-4 tablespoons of ground flaxseeds (flaxseed meal). This quick bread is not super sweet and will go well with your morning coffee. Enjoy!

BEHAVIORAL HEALTH

BEE HEARD: Join the Native Connection's Traditional Foods as Medicine Project!

By Precious Collins
NATIVE CONNECTIONS PROGRAM

What is the Southern Ute Native Connections Program?

As you may already know, the Southern Ute Native Connections Program is grant funded through the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration. Our primary focus is substance use prevention and mental health with Native American youth and their families. For the past couple of years, the Southern Ute Native Connections has promoted and focused on "Culture is Prevention." Part of this journey is collaborating with other Native Connection Programs and promoting cultural ways and information that reinforces positive and healthy decision-making regarding our mental health and substance use.

We have adopted a theme you have probably seen around the community: "Healthy minds. Healthy choices. Healthy Utes." The decisions we make today affect our tomorrow. We want to support and provide tools for our Native American youth and their families to build healthy foundations for healthy futures.

Traditional Foods as Medicine Project

We invite all our Native American community members, wherever you are reading this article, to share your recipes, harvesting, and stories about your traditional foods. Our community is unique, and through this project, we hope to add to a bank of information and create a platform for community members to explore traditional food knowledge. These wonderful stories and recipes can be shared with family, friends, and our youth. One day they will be adults and elders passing this knowledge down to the next generation.

Why traditional foods?

Food is at the center of our existence as individuals, families, and members of a community or tribe. Traditionally, we all worked together to harvest, hunt, and feed our bands. Today, much has changed, but the food is still at the center of who we are. We still need to eat to survive.

How we gather and hunt has changed, but those ways are not lost. Some still practice harvesting and gathering roots, herbs, and foods grown from the water and earth. Some still hunt game and fish, and some still use old ways of harvesting and distributing the animal to elders, family, and friends to use most of the animal with minimal waste. Some have learned new ways of harvesting and hunting.

We would love to hear your stories and what traditional foods look like and mean to you. This project will also be available for the community to see what others have done with traditional foods and how they use them as medicine for their body and spirit. Knowledge is power, and food is an excellent way to come together and heal. So, share your stories and knowledge, whether you're on your healing journey or around the dinner table. Even if it seems like no one's listening, Creator is listening. And this is an excellent way Native Americans can gather and share so that our knowledge lives on.

How to participate

There are a couple of ways you can participate: (1) Scan the QR code and take a few minutes to share your stories and recipes. (2) You can also email your story and recipes to your local Native Connections Program. For Southwest Colorado, email Precious Collins at pcollins@southernute-nsn.gov

COMMUNITY HEALTH

How to prevent the flu

Preventative steps you can take

Staff report
CENTER FOR DISEASE CONTROL AND PREVENTION

Take time to get a flu vaccine

- CDC recommends a yearly flu vaccine as the first and most important step in protecting against flu viruses.
- Flu vaccines help to reduce the burden of flu illnesses, hospitalizations and deaths on the health care system each year. (Read more about flu vaccine benefits.)
- This season, all flu vaccines will be designed to protect against the four flu viruses that research indicates will be most common. (Visit Vaccine Virus Selection for this season's vaccine composition.)
- Everyone 6 months and older should get an annual flu vaccine, ideally by the end of October. Learn more about vaccine timing.
- Vaccination of people at higher risk of developing serious flu complications is especially important to decrease their risk of severe flu illness.
- People at higher risk of serious flu complications include young children, pregnant people, people with certain chronic health conditions like asthma, diabetes or heart and lung disease, and people 65 years and older.
- Vaccination also is important for health care workers, and other people who live with or care for people at higher risk to keep from spreading flu to them. This is especially true for people who work in long-term care facilities, which are home to many of the people most vulnerable to flu.
- Children younger than 6 months are at higher risk of serious flu illness but are too young to be vaccinated. People who care for infants should be vaccinated instead.

Take everyday preventive actions to stop the spread of germs

- Take everyday preventive actions that are recommended to reduce the spread of flu.
- Avoid close contact with people who are sick.
- If you are sick, limit contact with others as much as possible to keep from infecting them.
- Cover coughs and sneezes.
- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw the tissue in the trash after you use it.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water. If soap and water are not available, use an alcohol-based hand rub.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth. Germs spread this way.
- Clean and disinfect surfaces and objects that may be contaminated with viruses that cause flu.
- For flu, CDC recommends that people stay home for at least 24 hours after their fever is gone except to get medical care or other necessities. Fever should be gone without the need to use a fever-reducing medicine. Note that the stay-at-home guidance for COVID-19 may be different. Learn about some of the similarities and differences between flu and COVID-19.

Take flu antiviral drugs if your doctor prescribes them

- If you are sick with flu, antiviral drugs can be used to treat your illness.

Flu symptoms include fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, body aches, headache, chills and fatigue. Some people also may have vomiting and diarrhea. Students shine at Christmas performance

By Mari Jo Owens, Principal
SOUTHERN UTE INDIAN
MONTESSORI ACADEMY

Our students shined during their performance at the Tribal Christmas Dinner Program. They were all dressed in beautiful Christmas attire and their voices carried throughout the room. The older students were confident as they announced the upcoming songs and the drummers showed excitement as they beat out the rhythm of the song.

Not performing for three years, the students did a wonderful job.

We are in the middle of Christmas break and enjoying time with our families and friends. Whether you have stayed home, spent time outside, watched movies, or were gone on a trip, we hope you have had fun.

The students will return on Monday, Jan. 9, 2023.

Staff report
OFFICE OF U.S. SENATOR
HICKENLOOPER

U.S. Senators John Hickenlooper and Mitt Romney and Representative Joe Neguse celebrated the inclusion in the Fiscal Year 2023 omnibus government funding bill of their bipartisan Upper Colorado and San Juan River Basins Recovery Act.

The bill would continue protecting four threatened and endangered native fish species in the Upper Colorado and San Juan River Basins. It extends conservation programs for one year to give Upper Basin communities time to develop a long-term management plan. The bill has already passed in the House and next heads to the president's desk.

The fish recovery programs are widely celebrated success stories in the Upper Colorado and San Juan River Basins. In November 2021, the Fish and Wildlife Service down listed the humpback chub from "endangered" to "threatened" thanks to the recovery programs.

"Tribes, communities, water users, the state, and now Congress, all came together to protect our native fish and rivers," said Hickenlooper, a member of the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources. "This is how we save our rivers."

"This legislation represents an example of what successfully recovering endangered species looks like, and I'm proud to team up with my colleague from Colorado to get it through the finish line. With its passage, we can bolster the State of Utah's efforts to continue the recovery of the threatened and endangered fish species in the Upper Colorado and San Juan Rivers," said Romney.

"Throughout the course of this Congress, we've worked tirelessly to push for the enactment of the Upper Colorado and San Juan River Basins Recovery Act to provide support to these highly successful recovery programs, spearheaded by the states, tribes, and individuals who know the ecosystems best. I am grateful to my colleagues in the Senate for moving quickly to get this bill to President Biden and look forward to the renewal of these vital conservation projects," said Neguse, Chair of the House Subcommittee on National Parks, Forests, and Public Lands.

Specifically, the Upper Colorado and San Juan River Basins Recovery

Act would:

- Extend programs which currently study, monitor, and stock the four endangered fish species, manage habitat and river flows, and combat invasive species.
- Authorize the Bureau of Reclamation to continue funding and implementing the Upper Colorado and San Juan River Recovery Programs for one extra year, through 2024. The programs are currently set to expire on Sept. 30, 2023.
- Extend the Department of Interior's reporting deadline by one year, to September 2022. Reporting includes program accomplishments, funds spent, and projected expenditures.

- Create the ability to transfer funds from San Juan Basin to Upper Colorado Recovery programs by shifting capital cost ceilings, keeping the total cost constant.

Full bill text is available at www.hickenlooper.senate.gov/wp-content/uploads/2022/02/FLO221131.pdf. Congressman Joe Neguse introduced companion legislation in the House of Representatives in August 2021, and the House passed the legislation in March 2022.

A roundtail chub is tagged with Passive Integrated Transponder, or PIT tag, that does not require power; instead, the tags have an internal microchip that is activated when it passes close to a special antenna. The antenna is connected to a computer that records the identity of the tag and the time that it passed by the antenna. The Tribe has a permanent antenna installed upstream of Pagosa Junction on the San Jan River; the antenna spans across the width of the river to gather real-time data on several species of native fish.

IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY

Who doesn't enjoy a good story?

By Marcia R. Vining
IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY

This past Wednesday, 82 local “stuffedies” came and spent the night at the Ignacio Community Library. Yes, you read that right, 82 of them. They had a wonderful time getting into mischief; they watched a movie, had a story time with the Grinch, made and ate popcorn and took a nap on the library shelves. It’s a magical night at ICL and the staff and volunteers love catching their antics on film and putting together a picture book for kids (and stuffedies) to take home.

We love to see the looks on children’s faces when they see pictures of what their stuffie has done. And the chance to watch parents watching their child is priceless for the library staff. It’s certainly one of my favorite days of the year! We’ve got some lovely events planned for the upcoming year as well.

In January the Friends of

the Library are hosting Denim & Diamonds, a gala fundraiser. There will be food and drinks, a silent auction, and Durango based musician Adam Swanson performing. A highlight of the evening will be the numerous local artists available to share their work and talk with attendees about their art. Tickets are available at the library service desk.

In February we’ll offering local amateur sleuths the opportunity to practice their detective skills at a mystery dinner where local folks will take on the role of various characters while others will be attempting to solve a “whodunit.” It’s a fun event for adults in the community who enjoy acting and those who enjoy a good mystery.

In March we’ll have some women’s history events that you won’t want to miss. Author Tekkla Denison Miller will spend some time with us talking about her book, “The Warden Wore Pink.”

The library is full of magical stories to take you away to a different place, a different time, or even a different world. Stop by and see us this winter, won’t you?

of Ukraine and weaponization of energy demonstrate clearly the danger of depending on despots for your energy security and needs. Industrialized economies cannot be that vulnerable in the future. A clear lesson is to import LNG from your friends.”

Tribal nations face duel layers of federal bureaucracy and need urgent permitting reform

Our panel on tribal perspectives on energy production brought together top leaders from the Navajo Nation, the Crow Tribe of Indians and our member nations the Ute Indian Tribe, the Southern Ute Indian Tribe and the Jicarilla Apache Nation. All five tribes have energy development interests and shared their concern that the use of their sovereign land is hampered by the “paternal approach,” as one panelist put it, taken by the federal government bureaucracy. Panelists questioned the commitment to genuine tribal consultation and urged immediate reform to layers of red tape that means tribes must follow Bureau of Indian Affairs and Environmental Protection Agency rules even to build roads on their reservation, let alone develop energy resources. The lively, frank discussion capped our first day’s packed agenda.

Solutions for the infrastructure and financing challenges of exporting Rockies gas

The second day’s invitation-only session focused on Rockies resources and the potential for WSTN’s governments to create concrete and creative solutions to solve the infrastructure and financing challenges in getting Rockies gas to market. This dialogue produced several action items and strategies that we’ll share in the coming weeks and months.

Special thanks for the forum’s success are owed to the state and tribal governments which lead us, their Board representatives, and our supporters from across the LNG industry whose expertise is invaluable.

As we enter our fourth year and third as a formally incorporated organization, WSTN’s founding vision is beginning to take concrete steps toward becoming a reality and we will work throughout 2023 and beyond to build on our progress. We’ll have more to share about our plans in the New Year.

On behalf of WSTN, wishing you all happy holidays and a Happy New Year.

Like many before her, Winterhawk Carrillo pushed herself to reach new heights and sets a great example that you can do anything you set your mind to. She gives thanks to her family and coworkers for their tremendous support throughout the process to reach her goals. “I have two kids and a husband, and I live with my grandparents – so I had a full house that helped with the kids – while I was gone and I would call them all the time,” Winterhawk Carrillo said. “My coworkers too, sometimes I would reach out to them like ‘hey, do you have any advice on this?’—they were very supportive as well.”

Now serving the Southern Ute Indian Tribe as a Tribal Ranger, Winter-hawk Carrillo takes on the responsibility of patrolling a wider range of the Southern Ute Reservation and will enforce both natural resources and wildlife codes. “We’re glad that she is back now as a Ranger, still being professional as she always has,” Hamby said. “I think her next chapter in her professional career is going to be a very bright one.”

SOUTHERN UTE UTILITIES

Understanding natural gas pricing as a consumer

Staff report
SOUTHERN UTE UTILITIES DIVISION

There are two primary factors impacting pricing in the San Juan Basin

The Southern Ute Utilities Division (Utilities) values our relationship with customers and would like to share how the natural gas market impacts end users. Utilities supplies natural gas to its customers at market prices.

Utilities does not profit from high natural gas pricing as it passes the actual market cost of natural gas through to its customers. Supply and demand fundamentals drive pricing in the natural gas market both nationally and regionally.

creased Western U.S. natural gas demand, pipeline infrastructure limitations, and reduced flow from Canada to the Pacific Northwest.

All these factors are resulting in higher than typical natural gas pricing when compared to prior years.

Utilities encourages you to winterize your homes to save on your heating bills this winter. If you have questions, feel free to call the Utilities Office at 970-563-5500.

Have a wonderful holiday season.

vehicle, winter tires (mountain-snowflake icon), tires with an all-weather rating, or mud/snow tires (M+S icon).

If a vehicle has neither all-wheel, four-wheel drive or the adequate tires mentioned above, it must have chains or an approved alternative traction device. For more information about the Traction Law requirements, visit cdot.gov/travel/winter-driving/tractionlaw.

"Traction Law awareness and compliance makes a world of difference as we try to make Colorado winter roads safer," said Master Trooper Gary Cutler of the Colorado State Patrol. "Driving slowly and ensuring you have space to stop behind the car in front of you is also crucial. The combination of adequate tire tread and slower speeds will lead to more Coloradans getting home safely this winter."

"Winter weather is unpredictable in Colorado, and the best way to stay safe is to always be prepared for the weather to turn," said Andrew Hogle, CDOT communications manager. "With the support of our partners, we are able to offer Coloradans a wide range of resources to stay safe this winter."

"If your vehicle is not well equipped to travel in winter conditions, there are plenty of alternative options like transit and carpooling. Reducing vehicles on the road will lead to quicker travel times and an overall safer travel experience for drivers."

Colorado's Passenger Vehicle Traction Law requires that all motorists have 3/16" tire tread depth and an all-wheel or four-wheel drive

BOBCATS BOYS BASKETBALL

Bobcats begin break bouncing Farmers

IHS boys atone for loss at Mancos

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Served a rotten third-quarter goose egg the night before, practically the difference in a hard-to-stomach 35-30 road loss at long-time – but now former – 2A San Juan Basin League rival Mancos, Ignacio's boys took a virtual sledgehammer to its memory Friday night, Dec. 16, inside IHS Gymnasium.

Finding themselves leading 10-2 through one quarter, but suddenly tied at 16 after another sluggish second stanza (IHS had scored just three points in the second at MHS), the Bobcats broke free from 2A Sargent by winning the third quarter 17-6 and rode that momentum to a 41-27 victory.

Junior center/forward Gabe Cox blew up for ten third-quarter points and ended up totaling a game-high 14 as the 'Cats improved to 3-4 overall (0-0 3A/4A Intermountain) in their final outing before the lengthy holiday break.

Two of his third-quarter points came after he handed the ball innocently to a teammate well outside the top of the three-point arc, then stealthily curled around a backside screen – preventing two defenders, who collided, from pursuing – at the elbow towards an unguarded rim ... to receive said teammate's lob pass for a morale-boosting, two-handed alley-oop dunk.

Senior Dylan McCaw, Cox's low post-mate who managed a team-leading eight points against the Blue Jays (Cox finished with six), nearly joined him in double figures by totaling nine against the Farmers.

Joel Priest/Special to the Drum

Ignacio's Gabe Cox (21) battles Mancos' Brian Veach (left) for a difficult shot attempt beneath the basket during the second half of IHS' game Thursday, Dec. 15, at MHS.

Junior Devante Montoya recorded five points before fouling out, and senior guard Eppie Quintana – actually held without a field goal – went 4-of-5 from the free-throw line for his four points. Charlie Pargin, Phillip Quintana and Trajan Garcia rounded out the team's scoring with three points each, Quintana's and Garcia's via singular three-pointers.

SHS (2-3, 0-0 2A/3A Southern Peaks), meanwhile, failed to connect even once from long range in defeat. Sophomore Lucas Garcia tallied a team-leading seven points and senior Burke Temple six before he fouled out in the fourth quarter. 4-of-4 from the charity stripe, senior A.J. Garcia also booked six points. Sophomore Fernando Venzor recorded four, junior Corbyn Wright chipped in two and junior Trenton Paskett two via his five FT attempts.

Against Mancos (3-4, 0-0 2A/1A SJBL), Eppie Quintana fought for six points while Montoya (who fouled out) and Phillip Quintana each scored five. Freshman Darren Daves and junior Brian Veach each registered a game-high nine points for the Jays, and junior Andrew Jaime logged eight before fouling out in the fourth quarter. Sophomore post Kaiden Wyatt scrapped for four points before fouling out in the third.

BOBCATS WRESTLING

Gallegos leads wrestlers in Walsenburg

Sophomore earns third; three 'Cats place

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Certainly happy, as any high-schooler tends to be, over beginning the lengthy holiday break, Asher Gallegos may have been the one Bobcat wrestler not so psyched over the end-of-year pause.

Closing out the 2022 half of Ignacio's schedule competing in Walsenburg at 2A John Mall's Pete & Ina Gomez Invitational, the sophomore went 3-1 and earned a team-best third place at 144 pounds – helping IHS depart having placed 15th out of 29 scoring (and 30 total) teams. The 'Cats landed 48 team points, landing them between 2As La Veta (50) and Rye (41).

Ranked No. 8 in Class 2A going in, Trinidad topped the table with 184.5 points, followed by 3As Lamar and La Junta – about as close as the U.S. 50 arch-rivals could ever care to be, with the former nipping the latter 172 to 171.

The 2A County Line (Eads/McClave/Wiley) co-op claimed fourth, totaling 130 points, and 5A No. 5 Colorado Springs Pine Creek's JV ended up fifth with 118.5 (the varsity Eagles ventured instead to Missouri and the high-profile Kansas City Stampede). Matching 2A Peyton's 35 points, the hosting Panthers shared 18th place.

Gallegos received a first-round bye, then outlasted LJHS sophomore Davin Vigil 8-6 to advance to the semifinals, when 4A Colorado Springs Palmer junior Arvell Amos prevailed by pin with five seconds left in the first two-minute period. Guaranteed to place, however, Gallegos regrouped and rallied back into the fray with a 9-2 win over PCHS freshman Landon Noble, and ultimately doubled up LVHS junior Jessey Montunnas 6-3.

Ignacio 165-pounder Kendrick Nossaman also received a first-round bye in his 13-wrestler (Gallegos' division had 14) bracket and followed it up with a 10-5 win over 2A Weston Primero sophomore Aedin Borja. But he, like Gallegos, had his own title hopes dashed in the semis when 2A Fowler junior Caiden Thompson pinned him in just 58 seconds.

Staying alive in the consolation rounds by sticking Rye freshman Skyler Moore in 1:54, Nossaman then met Gaige Cressler of 2A San Juan Basin League rival Dove Creek for third, but the Bulldog senior pinned the Bobcat sophomore in 0:43.

IHS freshman Joshua Kerrigan went 2-2 at 113 pounds, both his wins coming via pin, but did not place. Neither did 120-pounder Dillon Brann, also a freshman, who went 1-2 with a pin.

Starting his tournament with a second-period pin of 2A Simla senior Elijah Choate, freshman Zane Pontine went 3-3 (with consolation-bracket pins coming against La Junta's Zayden Franklin and DCHS' Quaden Huffaker) at 138. Relegated to the survival stages after losing by pin to Lamar sophomore Davier Martinez in the winners' quarterfinals, Pontine ended up placing an unlucky sixth at the weight.

Having already wrestled five times during the Invitational, Pontine (bumped into the fifth-place test via a 5-4 loss to 2A Del Norte freshman Paul Neal) found himself opposing 2A Sargent junior Garrett Thompson – who'd also logged five matches during the event – with their final placings to be determined by rule ... which meant, in the Pontine/Thompson case, a coin flip.

BOBCATS GIRLS BASKETBALL

Lady 'Cats split last pre-holiday pair

IHS enters break ranked No. 8 in 3A

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

When no fewer than four essential players – between visiting Ignacio's and hosting Mancos' rosters – were attempting to balance aggression and self-restraint during a heated third quarter Thursday night, Dec. 15, it was evident the former 2A San Juan Basin League girls' basketball rivals' clash wasn't destined for an aesthetically-pleasing ending.

Able to slice and pare MHS' 24-16 halftime advantage all the way down to 34-31 entering the fourth and final frame, the now-3A Lady Bobcats never could complete the comeback – even after Lady Jay junior Teya Yeomans, with 6:21 remaining in regulation, became the first of three individuals to foul out.

Unluckily for IHS, both Yeomans deterrent Soly-mar Cosio (with 4:42 left) and guard Laci Brunson (3:11 left) – whose three-pointer late in the third had closed the scoreboard gap to just three points – were whistled for their respective fifths not long after, and Mancos (5-1, 0-0 2A/1A SJBL) managed to earn a shaky 49-42 home win.

Going 7-of-10 from the free-throw line, Lady Jay freshman Claire Goodwin totaled an impressive 22 points and Yeomans registered an even dozen before her disqualification. Junior Quincy Morgan-Montoya scored nine points, fellow juniors Mandi Peacock and Chloe Endres each chipped in two, and sophomore Jenna Wilson another two.

Booking eight points during the fourth quarter and her other five in the third, senior Harmony Reynolds led Ignacio with 13 points, despite picking up her fourth personal with 5:55 still left in the third. Brunson ended up with 12 points, junior Darlyn Mendoza-Lechuga contributed eight and sophomore Marissa Olguin five. Cosio totaled just three points and fellow junior Maci Barnes came off the bench to score one.

Exhibiting little battle fatigue inside IHS Gymnasium the following night, however, the Lady 'Cats recovered by smashing 2A Sargent 52-23. Leading the Lady Farmers 25-14 at halftime, Ignacio (5-2, 0-0 3A/4A Intermountain) effectively put the game away by winning the third quarter 17-3 to carry a 42-17 advantage into the last eight minutes.

Recording the Lady Bobcats' entire ten-point fourth-quarter offensive output, Reynolds finished with a game-high 16. Brunson again breached double figures with her 11, nine points coming during the third quarter, and Olguin ended up with eight.

Cosio and Mendoza-Lechuga each tallied six points as IHS rolled emphatically into the holiday break.

Freshman Angelise Sandoval led SHS (1-4, 0-0 2A/3A Southern Peaks) with 12 points, including the guests' only three-pointer. Senior Megan Peterson scored five points while senior Stephanie Johnson chipped in two, as did juniors Bailey Asbell and Azzy Lister.

We have been helping the communities of Ignacio, Bayfield, Durango, Aztec and Pagosa Springs since 2010 through art programs and camps for children; classes and workshops for adults and families; by offering Ignacio's only art gallery and co-op; and through therapeutic arts at the Ignacio Schools, the Department of Justice and the Southern Ute Indian Tribe. During that time, we have had to move four times, and each time, we have lost a little bit of our identity as Ignacio's community arts center. Most recently, we were an integral part of helping pilot the ELHI Community Center, and although we are glad for the collaboration and experience, it's past time that we finally focus on building YOUR community arts center.

Winter Walking ... It's Dangerous Business!

By its very nature, winter walking is a seasonal safety issue, usually limited to several months. Yet thousands of serious injuries happen every winter. And the personal and financial impacts of a wintertime injury can last throughout the year for the individual and for the employer.

Winter Hazards to be on Alert for Snow banks – Snow banks next to sidewalks and parking areas often have packed areas where people have stepped as they cross the bank. These can turn into rounded, slippery depressions. If you step into one of these depressions and hit the sloped edge it's easy to slip and fall.

Ice patches – Scattered ice patches on mostly bare, clean pavement can take a person by surprise. During the day the sun can melt snow that forms small puddles in isolated areas. As it turns colder the water can freeze leaving scattered patches of ice on an otherwise perfectly clear area.

Hidden ice – It's common to find ice patches under new snow. Since you can't see the ice, it can be especially treacherous.

Shaded areas – The sun has tremendous power to melt ice and snow. An area that is free of ice and snow can change to slippery and dangerous as you enter a shaded area. Suddenly you can be walking on glare ice that hasn't been exposed to the sun's melting power.

Corners – During most of the year, we don't give a second thought to walking around a corner. But during the winter months a small patch of ice or snow can quickly turn a corner into the scene of an injury.

Blowing/drifted snow – Blowing/drifted snow can obscure curbs, potholes, signs, walkways and areas where ice may be under the snow.

Darkness – During the winter months it's stays dark later in the morning and gets dark again earlier in the afternoon – times when people are going to and from work and school. The darkness hides slippery areas in your path. The darkness also makes you less visible to vehicles.

Vehicle traffic – Avoid walking in the street if possible. If it is necessary to walk in the street, walk facing oncoming traffic. And use extra caution when crossing the street. Remember that vehicles may have a hard time stopping at intersections. And when a vehicle hits the brakes, they might slide toward the road's edge – where you might be standing. So stay well away from traffic until it has stopped or passed.

And pay attention to vehicles as they approach intersections where they have to stop.

Entering or leaving buildings – When entering or leaving buildings you can experience a dramatic change in walking surfaces. When entering a building, remember that your footwear may be wet or snowy, which can lead to a nasty slip or fall. Even the smallest amount of snow on the bottom of your footwear can cause a serious slip. Try to use floor mats to remove snow before continuing into the building. And when leaving a building, the walking surface can change dramatically as you go from a warm indoor setting to a cold exterior with slippery areas.

Carrying loads – It's important to use extra caution if you have to carry a load while walking on a slippery surface. The load you're carrying decreases your stability and it may block your view, making it more difficult to spot patches of ice or other dangerous surface conditions. This is when you need to use the flat foot walk, while bending your knees slightly. You may also want to turn your body slightly as you walk to get a better view of your path ahead.

Procedures to Help Prevent Winter Slips and Falls!

Walking on Stairs – Heavy snow can cover stairways and make it difficult to see where the steps actually are. Don't assume you know where they are. Carefully clear away the snow with your boots so you can see the steps well enough to safely walk on them. Snow can also get packed on steps so it's deeper at the back of the step than at the front, resulting in a slippery, dangerous slope that you step on. If you are responsible for keeping the stairs clear, shovel them off as soon as possible. Otherwise, kick away some of the packed snow so you have a flat surface to step on. And use the handrails. Hanging onto the handrail can prevent a serious injury if you slip.

Getting in and out of vehicles – When you exit or enter a vehicle parked next to a curb or snow bank, there is often a snow-packed slope right next to the vehicle. When you step onto the slope, it is easy for your feet to slip under the vehicle, resulting in a painful, nasty fall. Even on a flat surface you have to use caution getting out of the vehicle when it's slippery. Under normal conditions you would probably swing one at an angle, the more likely your feet will go out from under you. If you're getting out of a larger vehicle, such as a delivery truck, use any handgrips and make sure you slowly step from the vehicle, holding onto to the handgrip until both feet are securely on the ground. If you have to walk around a vehicle, slow down and use the flat foot walk with your feet spread slightly apart. Walking around corners forces your feet toward the outside of the corner. If the surface is slippery, your feet can slip to the side, resulting in a serious fall.

Clear away snow – Clear away snow from walkways as soon as possible. The longer it stays, the more likely it's going to get packed down and become slippery. Use sand or de-icing agents – Don't forget to use sand or appropriate deicing agents on walkways.

Footwear – Wear the right footwear for slippery conditions. Rubber soles grip better than leather or plastic. There are also a variety of ice gripping devices that can be slipped over boots.

Visibility – Don't let heavy clothing, hoods or hats limit your ability to see or hear approaching vehicles, plows, etc. You may have to try extra hard to look for hazards and be aware of your surroundings. And wear clothing that shows up. It is dark longer during the wintertime, so bright colored clothing that reflects vehicle headlights adds protection when you're walking.

Plan ahead – Realize that it will take longer to get where you're going when your path is snowy and slippery. Give yourself extra time so you can avoid hurrying.

Be Prepared for Winter Driving

In addition to annual maintenance, here are some excellent tips to winterize your car:

- Test your battery - battery power drops as the temperature drops
- Make sure the cooling system is in good working order
- Have winter tires with a deeper, more flexible tread put on your car
- If using all-season tires, check the tread on your tires and replace if less than 2/32 of an inch
- Check the tire pressure; tire pressure drops as the temperature drops...check your spare tire and tire tools for readiness.
- Check your wiper blades and replace if needed
- Add wiper fluid rated for -30 degrees
- Keep your gas tank at least half full to avoid gas line freeze

Remember to keep your car's emergency kit fully stocked, too.

Emergency Supplies for Your Vehicle

Every vehicle should have an emergency supply kit in the trunk. Kits should be checked every six months, and expired items should be replaced regularly. Vehicle emergency supply should include:

- ☞ A properly inflated spare tire, wheel wrench and tripod jack
- ☞ Jumper cables, tool kit and/or a multipurpose utility tool
- ☞ Flashlight and extra batteries
- ☞ Reflective triangles to make your vehicle more visible
- ☞ First aid kit with gauze, tape, bandages, antibiotic ointment, aspirin, a blanket, nonlatex gloves, scissors, hydrocortisone, thermometer, tweezers and instant cold compress
- ☞ Nonperishable, high-energy foods, such as unsalted nuts, dried fruits and hard candy
- ☞ Drinking water...min of 6 - 16.9 oz bottles
- ☞ Reflective vest in case you need to walk to get help
- ☞ Car charger for your cell phone
- ☞ Fire extinguisher, Duct tape, Compass
- ☞ Heavy Jacket(s), gloves, stocking cap and a couple of Blankets
- ☞ Additional items for cold weather include a snow brush, shovel, windshield washer fluid, and cat litter for traction issues.

It's also a good idea to keep family and emergency phone numbers, including your auto insurance provider and a towing company, on your phone. An added feature like a tracking app "Glimpse" is great.

POSITIVE INDIAN PARENTING

Honoring our Tradition by Honoring our Children

Positive Indian Parenting (PIP) has been used for over 35 years and remains popular today because the teachings are timeless. Historically, we had rich teachings that helped children grow up safe with strong families. Colonization threatened those teachings—our Native families were being separated and traditional practices were at risk of being lost. PIP was developed in the 1980s to fill this void and was designed to help parents and families remember our traditional teachings and apply them in the modern world.

In part one of each session we will discuss examples of traditional practices and teachings from several different tribes. Instructors also share teachings from local areas and communities. Part two of each session discusses how to apply those teachings and values today. Complete all 8 sessions to receive a certificate.

Bennet, Hickenlooper celebrate reauthorization of National Heritage Areas

Staff report
OFFICE OF SENATOR BENNET

Colorado U.S. Senators Michael Bennet and John Hickenlooper celebrated the reauthorization of Colorado's three National Heritage Areas (NHA), ensuring they continue to receive National Park Service (NPS) funding through 2037. Previously, the National Heritage Area designations for Cache La Poudre, Sangre de Cristo, and South Park were set to expire in 2024. The reauthorizations now head to President Biden's desk for signature after Congress passed a package of more than 45 NHA reauthorizations yesterday.

"People come to Colorado's National Heritage Areas to learn about the rich and diverse history of our state," said Bennet. "Ensuring these National Heritage Areas continue to receive funding through the National Park Service will preserve our state's story and culture for future generations."

"Colorado's public lands, especially those that honor our past and diverse history, make us great. That's why we fight so hard for the next generation," said Hickenlooper.

In March 2022, Bennet and Hickenlooper introduced the Colorado National Heritage Areas Reauthorization Act to ensure our state's three NHAs continue to receive National Park Service (NPS) funding through 2036.

"As the Chair of the Sangre de Cristo National Heritage Area Board and Conejos County Commissioner, I would like to thank Senator Bennet for all his hard work getting us another 15 years of funding through this reauthorization effort. The Sangre de Cristo National Heritage Area has been an incredible resource in helping preserve and restore historic sites within the San Luis Valley. Without the resources provided from the National Park Service, we would not have had the means available to make these projects happen. It has definitely been a blessing to this area. The economic impact to our counties has been tremendous," said Mitchell Jarvies, Conejos County Commissioner and Chair of the Sangre de Cristo NHA.

"We are absolutely thrilled to have been included in the reauthorization of several other National Heritage Areas nationwide for another fifteen years. A special thank you to Senators Bennet and Hickenlooper for their support and efforts in this success. We would also like to thank our elected officials, board members, previous board members and our many partners in the San Luis Valley and beyond for their letters and emails of support during this huge team effort," said Julie Chacon, Executive Director of Sangre de Cristo National Heritage Area.

Colorado's three NHAs were first authorized in 2009 following years of grassroots organizing from stakeholders in their respective regions. NHAs leverage federal NPS funds for historic and cultural preservation projects with the support of counties, tourism, and historic preservation organizations.

Colorado's National Heritage Areas all completed notable projects since they were authorized in 2009. At the South Park NHA, NPS funds have helped to restore the endangered Paris Mill near Alma. Within the Sangre de Cristo NHA, funds have helped share the story of the first desegregation case in the nation, Mes-tas v. Shone. At the Cache La Poudre NHA, NPS funds were leveraged to develop a water education curriculum at the Poudre River that can be accessed across the West.
