Tribal Health Department receives AAAHC Accreditation

By Jeremy Wade Shockley
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

Every three years, the Tribal Health Department is surveyed by the Accreditation Association for Ambulatory Health Care, otherwise known as the Triple AHC or simply AAAHC. This was the year for the Tribal Health Department to be surveyed; and from Thursday, March 23 – Friday, March 24, the Tribal Health Department participated in an intense survey conducted by AAAHC.

Over the course of a day and a half the surveyors reviewed the Southern Ute Health Center, the Behavioral Health Department and the Dental Department. The surveyors utilize a peer-based review and evaluation program to match those standards against the Health

Department's policies and procedures to determine whether it is meeting or exceeding those standards. On Monday, April 3, the Southern Ute Indian Tribe received notice that the Tribal Health Department had been re-accredited. "We are proud to say the Tribal Health Department was determined to be in substantial compliance with AAAHC Standards and was recommended for accreditation. This is significant for the community as it says that your Health Department is equal to or better than private sector organizations," Tribal Health Department Director, David Tonemah emphasized. "I am so proud of the Health Department staff, they rallied together and stepped up and got us ready for the survey," Tonemah said. "This accomplishment speaks volumes about the quality of the staff and the quality of services provided by the Health Department. The Surveyors were extremely complimentary of the Medical Staff, the Dental Department, the Behavioral Health Department and our Privileging and Credentialing process." "The Health Department will not rest on its laurels, preparation for accreditation is an ongoing practice," Tonemah said. "The staff of the Health Department are committed to providing the highest level of care to the patients we serve. We encourage you to give us a try if you haven't. And for those of you that have, keep coming." Congratulations to the Southern Ute Health Department on achieving this major accomplishment.

Cloud is the first-ever tribal member on Colorado's top water board

Cloud breaks down her ideas on water issues

By Shannon Mullane
THE COLORADO SUN

With Western water challenges in mind, Lorelei Cloud has a message for policymakers: There should be room for partnerships – not fear – when Native American tribes join the negotiating table. In March, Cloud became one of the newest members of the state's top water agency, the Colorado Water Conservation Board, when Gov. Jared Polis appointed her to represent the San Miguel-Dolores-San Juan drainage basin in southwestern Colorado. She's also the first known tribal member to hold a seat on the board since its creation in 1937.

"My role in that position is to represent everybody in the basin, regardless of how they think about me or feel about me, or think that my views may be different than theirs. I still need to represent them," said Cloud, a Southern Ute tribal member and vice chair of the Southern Ute Tribal Council. Her appointment comes at a time when tensions over water in the West are high. The Colorado River Basin, which spans seven states in the Southwest and portions of northern Mexico, is two decades into a severe, prolonged drought. That drought plus decades of overuse have depleted the basin's water storage and jeopardized the future water security for millions of people.

As states and the federal government scramble to adapt, 30 tribes within the Colorado River Basin are working to be involved in policymaking after decades of exclusion, particularly as water officials renegotiate a set of interim management guidelines that will expire in 2026. The guidelines regulate the flow of water to users and decide water cutbacks in response to drought conditions. The tribes are also pushing to assert their own water rights – which equal roughly 25% of the water supply and are among the most senior rights in the basin.

Part of the Colorado Water Conservation Board's purpose is to protect the state's apportionment in dealings awards this year – bringing home a Second-Place win in Sports Photography for her coverage of the Gathering of Nations Powwow and a Third-Place in the Information Graphic category for her “Southern Ute Tipi Camp” poster design.

Editor/Media Manager, Jeremy Wade Shockley took home a total of three awards in photojournalism – including a First-Place win in Spot News photography for his coverage of last year’s Bear Dance Fire on the Reservation. Followed by a Second-Place win in News Photography for his feature titled, “National Native American Veterans Memorial dedication brings tribes together in Washington, D.C.” and another Second-Place in Feature Photography for his coverage of the Southern Ute Bear Dance.

In conjunction with the awards reception, SPJ hosted a panel discussion on the topic of diversity in the newsroom titled – Amplify: How local news organizations can work toward making sure the voices of marginalized community members are heard and represented. The panel was also held Saturday, April 22 at the historic Denver Press Club.

Top of the Rockies is a regional, multi-platform contest for reporters and news organizations in Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Wyoming. The 2023 contest had more than 1,750 entries from more than 100 news media outlets and freelancers, a 12% increase over the number of entries in 2022. The entries were judged by journalists in Illinois and Ohio.

“We are pleased to see so many news media outlets competing in Top of the Rockies,” said Deb Hurley Brobst, the contest’s coordinator. “We are seeing top-notch journalism from journalists throughout the region, no matter what the staff size.”

The Southern Ute Drum has been an active member of the Society of Professional Journalist (SPJ) for over ten years, in addition to long standing affiliations with the Colorado Press Association (CPA) and the Native American Journalist Association (NAJA).

CULTURAL PRESERVATION

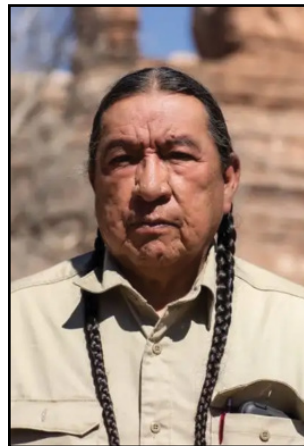

33rd Dana Crawford Awards to honor Terry Knight and others

Staff report
COLORADO PRESERVATION, INC.

Colorado Preservation, Inc.'s 33rd annual Dana Crawford and State Honor Awards Celebration will be held on Monday, May 22, at the Denver Botanical Gardens in the Freyer-Newman Center. Through these awards, Colorado Preservation, Inc. (CPI) recognizes the accomplishments of individuals and projects exhibiting excellence in the areas of preservation, rehabilitation, advocacy, philanthropy and leadership.

"This is Colorado's premier preservation awards event where we honor individuals and organizations that make significant contributions toward preserving Colorado's heritage," Executive Director Jennifer Orrigo Charles said. "The evening's namesake is Dana Crawford, a true preservation pioneer who proved that saving historic buildings makes both cultural and economic sense. Hundreds of preservationists from throughout the state join us at this annual celebration."

The 2023 Dana Crawford Award for Excellence in Historic Preservation will be presented to Tribal Historic Preservation Officer, Terry Knight, Ute Mountain Ute Tribe. Knight has a long and lasting legacy of cultural preservation serving the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe for more than four decades. He is a respected spiritual leader who has held the position of Bear Dance Chief and Sundance Chief and he continues to serve as the Tribe's official cultural preservation representative. His dedication to preserving and protecting Ute heritage throughout Colorado has and will continue to inspire future generations of Ute cultural preservationists.

In addition to recognizing Terry Knight with the Dana Crawford Award, CPI will recognize three projects with Alpine State Bank Honor Awards:

- Yellow School, Gilpin Cnty.
- Mancos Opera House, Montezuma County
- Denver Botanic Gardens and Brian Vogt, Denver County

CPI will also be recognizing the DOLA Main Street Open for Business statewide grant program with a Preservation Edge Award and the World's Wonder View Tower in Lincoln County with the Endangered Places Progress Award as this property has made significant advancements since it first became listed as one of Colorado's Most Endangered Place. New for 2023, CPI will be introducing the Mark Rodman Community Leader Award, an annual award in honor of preservation champion and former Executive Director (2002-2008) Mark Rodman. This inaugural award will honor Abbey Christman.

The Dana Crawford Awards kicks off at 5 p.m. with cocktails and conversation followed by dinner and a presentation of the awards by Ernest House, Jr., member of the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe and former Executive Secretary for the Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs (CCIA). The program will feature engaging and inspirational videos detailing the stories of the projects and honorees celebrated at the event. Following the presentation, guests are invited to visit with the honorees and fellow preservation enthusiasts.

HEALTHY RECIPES

Tofu is a high protein vegetarian food

By Lisa B. Smith, RDN, CLC
SHINING MOUNTAIN HEALTH AND WELLNESS

Tofu contains numerous vitamins and minerals as well as fiber, fat, minimal carbohydrates, and is low in calories among other health benefits. Tofu, which is made of soy, is safe to eat in a varied diet. If you are concerned with GMOs, you can purchase a non-GMO variety of tofu.

Tofu takes on the flavors of whatever marinade you use; Asian, buffalo style, curries, BBQ, etc. Versatile and easy to use, tofu makes a great addition to your meal rotation. Try it, you'll like it!

Lisa B. Smith, RDN is a Registered Dietitian Nutritionist with the Southern Ute Shining Mountain Health and Wellness.

Tofu Stir Fry

Ingredients:

- 16 oz block firm or extra firm tofu, drained, pressed and cut
- 2 teaspoons oil; olive, peanut, canola oil, etc.
- 2 tablespoons sesame oil
- 4 tablespoons less salt soy sauce, divided
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 small onion, diced
- 1 small head broccoli, cut into bite sized florets
- 1 red pepper, diced
- 2 medium carrots, sliced in thin diagonal coins
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 1 teaspoon chili flakes (optional)
- 2 green onions, chopped

Directions:

1. Open tofu container and drain water. Wrap a kitchen towel around the block of tofu and place it on a shallow bowl or plate. Place a heavy object (i.e., heavy pot) on top of towel-wrapped tofu (do not squeeze or crush) to release any remaining liquid, for about 10 minutes. Cut tofu into cubes.
2. Meanwhile, make the marinating sauce by placing 2 tablespoons of sesame oil, half of the soy sauce, 1 teaspoon of ground ginger and garlic in a bowl. Whisk until combined.
3. Add cubed tofu to the sauce and

4. toss to coat. Let tofu marinate for about 10 minutes.
5. Cut up all veggies as described above.
6. In a large skillet with deep sides, heat 1 teaspoon olive oil to medium-high.
7. Add tofu and sauté until golden brown, about 10 minutes, turn occasionally with a spatula to sear on sides. Remove from skillet and set aside.
8. Adding the remaining teaspoon of olive oil to skillet, add onions and sauté for 2-3 minutes, then add carrots and sauté for an additional 5 minutes.
9. Add peppers, sauté for 3 minutes.
10. Add broccoli and sauté for 5 minutes (if using chili peppers, add during this step).
11. Add tofu and remaining soy sauce, sauté for an additional 5-7 minutes or until peppers and broccoli reach desired tenderness.
12. Serve over rice or rice noodles and garnish with sliced green onion.

Sauté trick: Begin with the hardest/hardest vegetable, then add the quicker cooking veggies last. So, in this instance: Onion, carrot, pepper, broccoli. Garlic is added later as it can burn easily. Onion is added first as it is hardy and becomes more flavorful as it cooks.

BEE HEARD: May is Mental Health Awareness Month

Look around, look within

Precious Collins
NATIVE CONNECTIONS PROGRAM

Take a moment to consider your environment. Do you feel safe? Do you have access to health care and grocery stores? Does your home support you, both physically and mentally?

This Mental Health Month, challenge yourself to look at your world and how different factors can affect your mental health. Depending on where a person is born, lives, works, plays, as well as their economic stability and social connections, are part of what is called "social determinants of health." The more these factors work in your favor means you are more likely to have better mental well-being. However, when it seems like the world is against you, your mental health can suffer.

While many parts of your environment can be out of your control, these are steps you can take to change your space and protect your well-being:

- Work toward securing safe and stable housing. This can be challenging due to finances, age, and other reasons, but there are a few things you can try, such as reaching out to a state/local agency to secure housing, removing safety hazards in the home, or finding another space (such as community center or friend's home) where you can get the comfort you are missing at home.

- Focus on your home: Consider keeping your space tidy, sleep-friendly, and well-ventilated. Surround yourself with items that help you feel calm and positive.
- Create bonds with your neighborhood and community: get to know local businesses and the people living around you.
- Connect with nature: Hike on the trails, sit in the park or along the river, bring a plant inside, or keep the shades open to absorb natural light.

If you're taking steps to improve your surroundings but are still struggling with your mental health, you may be experiencing signs of a mental health condition. Take a free, private screening at mhascreening.org to help you figure out what is going on and determine next steps.

The world around us can be both positive and negative, and bring joy, sadness, hope and anxiety. Learn more with Mental Health America's 2023 Mental Health toolkit, which provide free, practical resources, such as how an individual's environment impacts their mental health, suggestions for making changes to improve and maintain mental well-being, and how to seek help for mental challenges. SOCIAL SERVICES

Recognizing parent dedication in the community

Staff report

SOUTHERN UTE SOCIAL SERVICES

In April 2023, the Southern Ute Division of Social Services worked to raise awareness about child abuse and to promote prevention of child abuse in our community.

The Child Abuse Prevention Kick-off took place on Friday, April 7. The Southern Ute Tribal Council, Tribal Chairman, Social Services, the Executive Office and others announced the proclamation that April is Child Abuse Prevention month.

The Color Run on April 21 was a huge success with about 300 people in attendance. An Indigenous celebrity, Auntie Beachress (AKA Tonia Jo Hall), attended the Color Run and spent time visiting with elders and community members for a meet-and-greet after the run.

The Division of Social Services, along with other community entities including The Southern Ute Drum, The Boys and Girls Club, SunUte Community Center, and Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy recognized families for our annual Parent Dedication.

The Dedicated Parent Awards were given to families who are exemplary in leading healthy lifestyles, supporting their children in reaching their full potential, and giving back to our community. We want to recognize the following families for being nominated by our community for this award.

- Jared and Natelle Ruybal and family
- Mike and Felicia Toledo and family
- Cody Mills and Jerna Weaver and family
- Misty and Gerald Parker and family
- Sheila and Travis Nanaeto (photo unavailable)

The Division of Social Services and the Color Run Committee would like to extend much appreciation to all that came out to make the event the success that it was. Please continue to take care of one another, especially the children, the vulnerable, and the elderly.

Mental Health First Aid training made possible through 988 Lifeline grant

By Divine Windy Boy
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

Southern Ute Behavioral Health now has two trained instructors – Native Connections Program Specialist, Precious Collins and Peer Recovery Coach, Marvinna Olguin – to teach Mental Health First Aid courses to the community. Mental Health First Aid is a course that teaches how to identify, understand, and respond to signs of mental illnesses and substance use disorders. This training will give the skills needed to reach out, provide initial help and support to someone who may be developing a mental health, substance use problem, or individuals who may be experiencing a crisis.

Throughout the years the Southern Ute Behavioral Health Division has been dedicated to identifying the gaps in mental health training and awareness within the community and finding the solutions for that. Collins and Olguin will be providing Mental Health First Aid training throughout the remainder of this year, featuring different courses tailored to multiple subcategories. "Two things that I would really stress is that Mental Health First Aid is an international program," Collins said. "Within Mental Health First Aid, there's some subcategories in there that you can become an instructor, so we have the adults, the youth, and the teens and our Behavioral Health Division as of right now we have all three trainings."

Following the 988 Lifeline Grant awarded to the Albuquerque Indian Health Board, the Southern Ute Behavioral Health being one of eight recipients of a sub-award from the Albuquerque Indian Health Board, funding for more suicide prevention and outreach trainings became available for the Tribe. "That's where we afforded that opportunity, because they [Albuquerque Indian Health Board] set everything up," Collins said. "They brought in two national trainers, to do the instructors training, our connection is because of that sub award grant."

"What I appreciated about the training was that it really hit on person first language and removing stigma," Olguin said. "That could be the difference between somebody asking for help and somebody just saying no – because it is so stigmatized, especially revolving around substance abuse."

"This is a step that, as staff ... as workers of the Tribe, we're passionate about mental health," Collins said. "Everything we do in life involves our mental health and in taking the step now to get the training – helping the community be proactive."

Anyone who is interested in the Mental Health First Aid trainings can contact either Precious Collins or Marvinna Olguin via phone ext. 2487, ext. 2359 or via email pccollins@southernute-nsn.gov and marolguin@southernute-nsn.gov. The first eight-hour training offered will be the Adult Mental Health First Aid Training, this training is scheduled for Monday, May 22 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. located at the Southern Ute Behavioral Health Building

TRIBAL HEALTH

Your Medicare services

By David C. Tonemah, MBA
SOUTHERN UTE HEALTH
DIRECTOR

Dear Tribal Member,
As you may know, Medicare is a health insurance plan that covers people 65 and older. Medicare also covers some people under the age of 65 who have certain disabilities and people with End Stage Renal Disease (ESRD).

Medicare continues to expand services by adding different "Parts." Medicare Part A is the hospital part that pays for hospitalizations, home health and hospice care. Medicare Part B is the medical insurance part that covers doctor's visits and durable medical equipment. Medicare Part C is the Medicare Advantage Plan Part that allows Medicare approved private health insurance companies to offer a health plan by combining Part A, Part B and sometimes Part D. Medicare Part D is the prescription drug coverage part which helps pay for prescription drugs.

The Tribal Health Department has staff at the health center to assist you in enrolling in the Medicare Program. They are also available to answer any questions you may have related to the Medicare Program or you can call Medicare directly at 1-800-MEDICARE or 1-800-633-4227.

Some parts of Medicare charge a monthly fee which is called a "premium." The Southern Ute Indian Tribe has set aside funds to cover the cost of your Medicare premiums for eligible enrolled tribal members. These funds are managed by the health department. Medicare or Social Security should have sent all tribal members enrolled in Medicare a "Summary Notice." This notice provides the cost of your monthly premium for the next 12 months.

In order to ensure that the Tribal Health Department pays your monthly premiums in a timely and accurate manner, please submit a copy of your summary notice to our Benefits Coordinators on an annual basis. For more information, please contact Ms. Lori Herrera at 970-563-2371.

POSITIVE INDIAN PARENTING

Honoring our Tradition by Honoring our Children

Positive Indian Parenting (PIP) has been used for over 35 years and remains popular today because the teachings are timeless. Historically, we had rich teachings that helped children grow up safe with strong families. Colonization threatened those teachings—our Native families were being separated and traditional practices were at risk of being lost. PIP was developed in the 1980s to fill this void and was designed to help parents and families remember our traditional teachings and apply them in the modern world.

In part one of each session we will discuss examples of traditional practices and teachings from several different tribes. Instructors also share teachings from local areas and communities. Part two of each session discusses how to apply those teachings and values today. Complete all 8 sessions to receive a certificate.

Earth Day celebrations!

Students of Ignacio High School and Ignacio Middle School take to the Town of Ignacio to help clean the area, then later worked on painting canvases for the Dancing Spirit Art Corner on Thursday, April 20 to celebrate Earth Day. Each student took part in painting the Earth Day themed canvases, which will be put on display at the Art Corner at the intersection of Empire St. and Goddard Ave.

Following their cleanup of Ignacio, students meet outside of the Dancing Spirit Art Gallery to begin working on the canvases. Students gathered around tables to paint, enjoy the nice weather, listen to music and discuss how to practice good habits that will help to protect Earth and its resources.

Ignacio alum earns collegiate honor

Sanchez makes College National Finals Rodeo

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Celebrating the past year, Southwestern Oklahoma State University (SWOSU) Athletics hosted its 2022-23 All-Sports Awards Ceremony on Wednesday, April 26, in Weatherford, Okla., with two individuals recognized as the best of the school's best. Both are Bulldogs Rodeo members. One happens to be an Ignacio High School alumnus.

Having transferred to SWOSU this year from Garden City, Kansas Community College, as he continued developing into one of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association's top Central Plains Region bull riders, Dustin Sanchez was named Male Athlete-of-the-Year (barrel racer Abby Hepper of Keene, N.D., received Female AOY) in front of all attending the event held inside Pioneer Cellular Event Center.

Prior to Oklahoma Panhandle State University's season-ending Doc Gardner Memorial Rodeo, April 27-29 at the Henry C. Hitch Pioneer Arena in Guymon, Sanchez had placed first once and second twice in his specialty, keeping him near the top of the CPR in points. And though he ultimately didn't finish first in that department, Sanchez still became the sixth SWOSU bull rider to qualify for the College National Finals Rodeo under head coach Mike Visnieski, and the first since Nathan Hatchel (a three-time CNFR qualifier and SWOSU's 2018-19 Male AOY) in 2019.

Sanchez's most consistent weekend came back in September at the season-opening Colby (Kan.) CC Rodeo when he rode both bulls he drew, totaling 142 points, to take home the gold buckle – and help the 'Dogs depart with the men's team title.

The senior's best-scoring ride this season (so far) came less than two weeks later when SWOSU traveled to Durant, Okla., for the Southeastern Oklahoma State University Rodeo. Sanchez scored 80 points in the long round and finished second in the average to the hosting Storm's Caden Bunch, whose 83 held up for first after no one made the eight-second count in the finals.

Following the 57th Annual Fort Hays State (Kan.) University Rodeo, April 20-22, Southwestern Oklahoma State's men sat third – behind second place SEO-SU and Fort Scott (Kan.) CC – in the Central Plains standings, with Sanchez second in bull riding, 90 points behind Bunch, who totaled a winning 149 (the only points scored) on two head at FHSU.

The only entrant covering two (80-84-164) at the 50th Annual SWOSU Rodeo April 13-15, Sanchez teammate Hunter Tate – a CNFR qualifier in '21 and '22 for Coffeyville (Kan.) CC – was third ... and so he remained after the dust settled at OPSU, despite his winning 84-point ride.

Sanchez did not score at Panhandle but, due to his points advantage on Tate going in, secured CPR Reserve Champion status. He, Tate, sophomore Brody McAbee (Champion, saddle bronc) and senior Marley Berger (Reserve Champion, tie-down roping) all qualified for the 2023 CNFR, which runs June 11-17 in Casper, Wyo.

with other Colorado River Basin stakeholders. The 15-member board also sets water policy within the state, funds water projects statewide and works on issues related to watershed protection, stream restoration, flood mitigation and drought planning.

As one of nine basin representatives on the board, Cloud is responsible for elevating the top issues for water users across the San Miguel-Dolores-San Juan drainage basin, which reaches 10 counties and two Native American reservations and includes cities like Cortez, Durango and Telluride. She will hold the unpaid, voluntary position for three years.

Cloud, whose leadership experience also spans the Indigenous Women’s Leadership Network, the Water and Tribes Initiative and the Ten Tribes Partnership, recently spoke with The Colorado Sun at her office on the Southern Ute Reservation’s tribal campus.

The following has been edited for clarity and length.

The Colorado Sun: How do you feel knowing that you’re the first tribal member to serve on the Colorado Water Conservation Board?

Lorelei Cloud: A little taken aback, knowing this little Ute girl’s got this position. It’s a little overwhelming, but I also have to remember I’ve done that in several other positions as well and this is just another part of that. At the same time if I don’t (do it), I mean, who else is going to have our voice?

Becky Mitchell – she’s on the water conservation board and now she’s our state commissioner (for the Upper Colorado River Commission) – she’s elevated the tribal voice on a higher level than we could possibly get to. ... Other tribes don’t have that type of relationship with their states, and we do. We’re very proud that we have that relationship with our state. I think it’s made my transition into this role easier.

Sun: You’ve held, and continue to hold, many leadership positions tied to water issues. What makes you feel connected to water and water issues?

Cloud: So as a Ute woman and as a Ute member, I feel like I’m very connected to water and to our environment. I grew up in a very traditional Ute home, practicing our Ute ways, and so water was always a part of it – also the other elements and knowing that we were the first caretakers of this land and we need to continue that duty. Taking on this role in water has been just another aspect of that.

Sun: Can you give us an overview of some of the top water issues in your basin and for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe?

Cloud: I’m still learning in this role and figuring out what has happened before I got onto the board. But in the entire basin, not just in my area or for the tribe, the big issue right now is the interim guidelines for the Colorado River. That’s, I think, a main concern for everyone and how that’s going to affect us now that the Bureau of Reclamation has released their draft SEIS (supplemental environmental impact statement). ...

Right now, because we had a really good winter, everybody’s got water. I think right now some of those fears are lessened, but we don’t know what that next year’s going to bring. That’s always on everybody’s forefront, not just in a tribal perspective or my regional area, but it’s everybody.

Sun: Do you think the CWCB should have a permanent seat for a tribal representative?

Cloud: Yes. For many years, tribes have been asking for a seat at the policy-making table, and this is just a small part of what that could be. If there was a tribal component specifically for Southern Ute and Ute Mountain, I don’t think it would impact the whole state, but it gives a different perspective as to how tribes view water and that they do have a voice at that level of making policy within the state. ...

Everybody’s really receptive to having a tribal voice, and it’s a lot of learning on their side as well. When you add on a tribal appointment specifically, I think that just adds a greater level of understanding that the state wants to hear from everybody. Because ultimately, tribal members are still citizens of the state. And so why not include them?

Sun: Part of your role is to represent stakeholders who have conflicting water interests. For example, if tribes fully utilize their senior water rights, it will have a major impact for users with more junior rights, as you have stated in the past. How do you plan to resolve issues when people’s needs conflict?

Cloud: You have to give everybody the opportunity to be heard – a lot of times, that’s all they want is to be heard. Their points could be completely valid, and I don’t know that until I listen to

Jeremy Wade Shockley/SU Drum

Snowmelt turns to spring runoff, which in turn flows down the Pine River through Bayfield on April 1, making its way into Southern Ute lands to the south.

them. Just like in my role as a tribal leader, everybody’s voice counts. They may be different from mine, but I still need to listen to them. ... When you’re in these types of leadership roles, you learn that sometimes those that come at you the hardest – those are lessons that you need to learn from, and sometimes those are your opportunities to grow.

Sun: So if Southern Ute water interests conflict with other stakeholder groups in the basin, how will you balance your CWCB responsibilities with your role on tribal council?

Cloud: If there’s a situation where all of those meet or they intersect, I would take on my appointment from the state just because I know that there’s other tribal council members that ... can speak on the tribe’s behalf. But I would definitely remove myself from the tribal component because I did take the challenge and the opportunity to be on the Colorado Water Conservation Board. ... I don’t think that that’s going to happen very often or at all, but that’s my game plan, just to remove myself.

Sun: In a 2022 opinion piece in The Colorado Sun, you emphasized collaboration and said that starts with recognizing the role of tribal nations in shaping the future of the Colorado River Basin. What are some of the past challenges in recognizing that role? What do you believe the next steps should be?

Cloud: It goes back all the way back to the 1922 (Colorado River) Compact. Tribes were left out of that compact; we weren’t even considered citizens at that point. Knowing that next year is going to be 100 years since Native people have become citizens in the United States – that you’re 100 years behind policymaking – that’s a challenge that everybody has to overcome. ... The Gila River community, they’ve shown that there’s true collaboration, also with the Colorado River Indian Tribe. We should do that in the Upper Basin. There’s opportunities for us to be partners. Fear should be out of the picture. We’re all in this together, regardless. If we all run out of water, it’s gonna affect every single one of us, not just a certain group. Climate change doesn’t look at race, doesn’t look at state lines, tribal reservations. It’s going to affect everybody, so why can’t we all work together? There’s challenges in just working together that have to be overcome.

Sun: And for specific next steps?

Cloud: This is part of it – tribal members taking on these leadership roles in these different committees. Again, I’m thankful that the state of Colorado was open enough to have a tribal member be put in that type of role. Other states aren’t willing to do that. Colorado has always been a trailblazer in pushing boundaries, and so that’s just part of it. If all the tribes had those opportunities within the other basin states, I think you would have better collaboration.

Sun: Anything I haven’t asked about that you’d like to highlight?

Cloud: I just think that it’s important for people not to be fearful of Native people taking on these roles. Again, we’re the original caretakers of this land, so why wouldn’t we take on a management role like this? No one should fear me. I’m their voice, and we all need to figure out how we can work together. It’s not ‘Draw the line in the sand, and this is the way it is.’ We can’t do that. We’re way beyond that right now. We need to just work together and figure out how we’re going to save our river, save our water. Because ultimately, we can have all the water rights in the world, but that’s not going to do us any good unless we develop them and we can get the water up to where it really needs to be.

Sun: Is that where the fear comes up, the water rights discussion?

Cloud: Both tribes have senior, federal water rights, which means we can’t lose them. And so when the river has been over-allocated, everybody’s using that tribal water for free. Their fear is that once we put our water to use, they’re not going to have anything. Well, you can’t take away the tribe’s rights to develop their water and do what they need to for their people. How are you going to figure that out downstream? It’s not their fault, either, but we’re gonna have to figure it out. That’s why the management decisions in these interim guidelines are so important.

Sun: How do you keep the momentum going, for yourself and those you represent, to continue to work on these issues that have been going on for so long?

Cloud: For me, honestly, you should never give up regardless of the situation. Having water, being in drought, having a good snow season – you always have to fight because so many people are counting on us, any leader in the basin, to make the best decisions for everybody. It’s not just the people now, it’s our future generations. They’re counting on us to make those decisions for them right now. ...

My dream is that we fix this, so that we never have to come back and have the types of negotiations that we’ve had now, where some are holding out or some don’t want to collaborate. I hope that everybody can come together, (that) we can find a solution that’s going to impact everybody in the positive. Everybody’s a winner, no one’s a loser. Our future descendants, they’re gonna look back at us, and I hope that we’ve done them justice in creating something that they can be proud of.

During the NASTaP Board Retreat at the Southern Ute Museum, Saturday, April 29, Southern Ute elder, Dr. James Jefferson holds a book by John Wesley Anderson, which he assisted with gathering information for.

NON-PROFIT GROUP

NASTaP members meet in Ignacio for annual retreat

Discussion of sacred trees and places

By Robert L. Ortiz
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

Members of the Native American Sacred Trees and Places (NASTaP) held their annual board retreat in Ignacio, Colo., April 28 – 30. The non-profit group met to discuss board functions, review bylaws, strategic goals and share with those present about their mission and share their own experiences. According to their Strategic Plan, their mission is “To inspire discovery, acknowledgement, and conservation of Native American sacred places and culturally modified trees.”

The group believes that trees were “Culturally Modified Trees” or CMT’s, by Native Americans to use as land markers, and for purposes of prayer and ceremonies, whose purpose embraces; Cultural appreciation; Experiential learning; Multidisciplinary research; Inclusivity; Mentorship; and Stewardship.

NASTaP was founded in 2017 by Southern Ute elder, Dr. James Jefferson, John Anderson and Janet Shown, and the non-profit is headquartered in Larkspur, Colo.

“Dr. Jefferson and John Anderson, have been educating and trying to raise awareness about CMT’s and sacred places, throughout the U.S. Canada and other place where these sites have been found,” said Shown.

There are opponents of NASTaP.

“Archeologists said this is not true. CMT’s was done by nature – but if it’s done all over the United States, Canada, South America and people identify that this is true. That’s what we are trying to find,” Dr. Jefferson said.

As stated by Dr. Jefferson, there are 573 registered tribes in the United States, every one of them has a culture. “I thought all medicine men, spiritual leaders knew about all of these things, but I guess I was wrong. Because they told me, ‘It is not in their culture.’”

The Ute Mountain Ute and Southern Ute Indian Tribes jointly submitted a letter denouncing the practice of Prayer trees, Sacred trees, Marker trees, Vortex trees, etc., submitted at the Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs quarterly meeting in 2019.

Dr. Jefferson has taught the group throughout the years, about his memories of the elder’s teachings to Jefferson.

“Through the show-and-tell method, about these Native American culturally modified trees. Some had bark peels (where the bark had been removed), or cut to gather pitch, and others have been bent or shaped over generations,” said Shown.

The groups says they feel fortunate to have learned about the trees from Dr. Jefferson, through his ancestral lineage, and hopes to engage more tribal members in telling of their memories of the CMT’s and to help spread awareness in the area.

In 2011, Nathan Winder (Strong Elk) then director of the Southern Ute Museum and Dr. Jefferson who was on the Museum board were first approached about the trees and asked for information about the [bent] trees.

“I have seen them in the forest, and when I talked to the old people about the trees. My first affiliation that I can remember with the trees was back in 1938-39,” said Jefferson.

Dr. Jefferson has met with elders of the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe and shared information about what NASTaP is doing.

Through stories told to him and through his own research and study, Dr. Jefferson has visited various sites and has identified trees, as CMT’s.

Patti Brady, volunteer for the National Forest Service (Durango/Pagosa Springs District) has worked with Dr. Jefferson for many years in the “Trailing the Trees of the Ancients,” as termed by NASTaP, has identified a tree in Turkey Creek, where Brady patrols as a “birthing tree”.

A birthing tree is believed by the NASTaP group to have been used during childbirth by Native Americans.

“The trees have been tied as a young seedling, with horse tail, [yucca braids] then causing the tree to shoot upwards,” said Brady.

“Mark Roper, GIS Officer has actually recorded several “ancient trees,” and has also recorded trees in the Upper Piedra,” said Brady.

Dr. Jefferson stated he has been gathering information to “pinpoint” dates, and what tribes inhabited the various areas where the CMT’s and sacred sites have been found.

“Through records I have gone through and what [information] we are getting, we can identify the tribe in the area. I am also working with the ‘Old Spanish Trail’ and getting help from them,” said Dr. Jefferson.

“The people out there have the stories, they’ve heard the stories, we have photos – as we come up with the stories, that are quite unique we will share with the articles we write,” said Jefferson.

NASTaP’s guiding principles state that: “No one person, tribe, or group has all the answers or is the single authority on Native American sacred trees and places. Together, we can conduct better research, identification, interpretation, documentation, education, and conservation. We strive for cultural appreciation, not appropriation. Our activities are inclusive of all tribes and non-native people who wish to research, discover, understand, share, appreciate, and conserve Native American sacred trees and places.”

“History is so broad and so wide, that no one person can study it,” said Dr. Jefferson.

In a book written by John Wesley Anderson, “A to Z Colorado’s Nearly Forgotten History 1776 – 1876” (Rhyolite Press LLC, 2021), Dr. Jefferson assisted Anderson with information for the book.

“Indians have a history, it is written history, but it is in the trees, in the rocks – the petroglyphs. The work I’m doing now, I named it ‘Indian Science and Western Science, because I am working with both of these,” said Dr. Jefferson.

The current project the group is asking for help with photos of CMT’s, “... although we already have a lot – if we can get the whole country to do the same thing, then we’ve accomplished a lot of things.”

The group has upcoming field trips planned to visit various sites in Colorado and New Mexico.

USDA funding to expand meat and poultry processing options for tribal communities

Staff report
U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced the availability of up to $125 million through two new grant programs that will create more options for meat and poultry farmers by investing in independent, local meat and poultry processing projects that increase competition and enhance the resiliency of the food supply chain.

These new grant programs, the Indigenous Animals Harvesting and Meat Processing Grant Program and the Local Meat Capacity Grant Program, are part of the broader $1 billion American Rescue Plan investment by the Biden-Harris Administration to expand processing capacity for small and midsized meat and poultry processors.

“This is the latest step in USDA’s transformational work to fill gaps and help small and underserved producers market their products, support thriving local and regional food systems by investing in processing capacity that’s closer to farms and alleviate major bottlenecks in food and agricultural supply chains,” said Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack. “Importantly, we’re also taking steps to increase the overall availability of protein from indigenous animals like bison, reindeer and salmon, which have been the backbone of tribal food systems for generations.”

Since July 2021, for example, USDA has worked with 30 businesses to expand their operations through Meat and Poultry Processing Expansion Project grants and has helped many more work towards a federal grant of inspection through Meat and Poultry Inspection Readiness Grants. More information on USDA’s work to fulfill this commitment can be found at usda.gov/meat.

Indigenous animals harvesting and meat processing grant program

This new grant program will provide up to $50 million to improve tribal nations’ food and agricultural supply chain resiliency by developing and expanding value-added infrastructure related to meat from indigenous animals like bison, reindeer or salmon. The program will fund projects that focus on expanding local capacity for the harvesting, processing, manufacturing, storing, transporting, wholesaling or distribution of indigenous meats.

“This is a historic investment to support indigenous food supply chains by enhancing community food sovereignty and traditional harvesting methods,” said USDA Office of Tribal Relations Director Heather Dawn Thompson. “Tribal nations have clearly articulated their priorities to USDA over the last two years, and this program directly responds by focusing on species and activities which have historically not had significant access to funding in federal programs.”

“For too long, Native American farmers and ranchers have been asked to produce more to meet increasing demand across the country and around the world, while they and the tribal communities they come from have struggled to see their fair share of the benefits,” said USDA Under Secretary for Rural Development Xochitl Torres Small. “Under the leadership of the Biden-Harris administration, USDA is proud to offer this investment in tribal nations’ food chain resiliency as a part of USDA’s broader efforts to restore indigenous food ways. By expanding and enhancing local processing capacity, these projects will provide culturally appropriate food and community food security to tribal communities.”

Eligible applicants are Indian tribes, as defined by the Federally Recognized Indian Tribe List Act of 1994, as well as wholly owned arms and instrumentalities, and joint or multi-tribal government entities. USDA partners with tribal-serving organizations on projects to reimagine federal food and agriculture programs from an indigenous perspective and inform future USDA programs and policies.

More information is available on USDA’s Indigenous Animals Grants webpage. Applications will be accepted through July 19, 2023.

QUARTERLY REPORT

Miss Southern Ute

Grace Gonzales

Maiku,
Nunai Niaa, (my name) is Grace Gonzales. I am the 2022-2023 Miss Southern
Ute, my parents are Amy Barry and Mario Gonzales,
my maternal grandparents are Marge and Ben Barry (egap), and my paternal grandparents are Joe and Debbie Gonzales.

Following the holiday season and New Year, I participated in the following events: Southern Ute MPF's Valentine Powwow was attended by many in the community. I served as Head Lady Dancer throughout the event. I was humbled by the amount of our tribal community and visiting sister tribes who were in attendance. I was honored by Dr. Blackbird and my Aunt Twyla Blackbird during the gourd dancing session and received my first gourd dancing shawl with instruction on care and proper use. Such an honorable experience for me as a young Southern Ute woman.

The Southern Ute Royalty attended the Monthly Sip, Chat and Chew to honor our eldest Southern Ute tribal member, Ms. Vida B. Peabody, it was such an amazing event attended by many of her past colleagues, family members and community who had so much admiration for her work she contributed to the Southern Ute people. We handed out Valentine's Day Cards to all of the visiting elders and also shared our Ute Storytelling event that was to follow later in the month.

The Southern Ute Royalty also hosted a Ute Storytelling event with special guests, Ute Tribe's Larry Cesspooch, and Ute Mountain Ute Tribe's Colleen Cuthair Root. Both elders shared Ute stories, Mr. Cesspooch even had puppets to assist through his storytelling. Ms. Root shared some of her personal Ute stories shared by her elders and family members. We had community members attend, but the best part of the day for me was seeing our Southern Ute Royalty ambassadors share their Ute stories from their own perspective. All of us have improved in our ability to speak amongst a crowd with confidence. I am so proud of us all.

During the month of March, I attended the Southern Ute MPF's Community Powwow with my fellow ambassadors. We all supported Jr. Miss Southern Ute

Grace Gonzales
Miss Southern Ute
2022 - 2023

Leandra Litz, who was our Head Lady Dancer for the powwow. A wonderful meal was provided, and we assisted with serving the elders. It was another fun event attended by so many.

Denver March Powwow was a first-time experience for me, and I had a wonderful time meeting over 40+ Indigenous ambassadors that surrounded the powwow arena for a special acknowledgment during a session. I met so many wonderful people, ran into so many family members who were also participating throughout the weekend. I was able to visit the vendors and meet some of the youthful public who were in attendance for their first time and were in awe to see a real "princess". It was a great weekend with my mom and grandmother.

I also attended the Hozhoni Days Powwow for a short period of time due to academic deadlines I had to meet for my collegiate courses. The experience was still wonderful, and I was able to dance amongst our newest Southern Ute Royalty ambassadors, Jr. Miss Southern Ute Alternate, Maileina Carel, and Miss Southern Ute Alternate, Rhianna Carel for our first time at the FLC powwow. The Southern Ute Royalty are so honored to have them join our ambassador team and would like to thank Tribal Council for honoring our request to include them for the remainder of our reign as your Southern Ute ambassadors.

The Southern Ute Royalty also sponsored a Bear Dance Growler workshop and talking circle at the Multi-Purpose Facility. Although I was unable to attend, it was a very successful event attended by our Southern Ute elders and tribal community. Thank you so much to our elders who provided their wisdom to those in attendance and for those who contributed to the talking circle.

We also attended this year's Color Run sponsored by the Southern Ute Division of Social Services. The royalty served as the host for the Tribe's live Facebook feed throughout the event and provided an introduction during the event. We were all able to meet Auntie Beachress (AKA Tonia Jo Hall) and run with our community members in honor of the Child Abuse Prevention Month. Hats off to all of the wonderful staff who planned the event and made sure it was safe for all of those who attended. Thank you to law enforcement for the traffic safety and your willingness to get your uniforms dirty for a worthwhile event.

Southern Ute Royalty also prepared thank you gift bags for the tribal government staff workers who spent countless hours plowing snow during the inclement weather we received during the winter months. 49 staff members worked during the declared "snow days" to ensure our driveways on campus and throughout the reservation were safe to traverse on, countless hours on dangerous roads. We appreciate you all!

April is here and some of us traveled to the Gathering of Nations Powwow for representation at the yearly event and some of us are excited to attend the first Bear Dance this weekend in Utah!

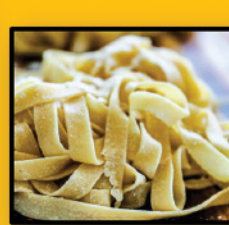

I am currently in Anchorage, Alaska attending the National Indian Health Board Conference with our tribal health department staff and tribal leadership. I am excited to report back upon my return.

Congratulations to all of the elementary, middle school, high school, and college graduates this year along with our SILDI graduates who have completed such a huge accomplishment and are a direct example of our Ute language preservation.

I look forward to sharing my next quarterly report with our Southern Ute tribal people to share Bear Dance experiences, Royalty etiquette workshops, and all of our upcoming collaborative events with our tribal leadership and government.

Tavuci Togoiaik!

IHS Native Studies program hosts singers

Yellow Jacket Singers — Tim Ryder, Jake Ryder, and R.C. Lucero stand for a portrait outside of the Ignacio High School following their presentation.

The Ignacio High School Native Studies program – under the direction of Cloe Siebel – invited the Yellow Jacket Singers to sing songs and share some of their own wisdom and experiences as a Native drum group, Thursday, April 27. Students were encouraged to join in and sing. Between songs, the singers answered questions and talked about some of the etiquette surrounding the drum.

Native Studies program instructor, Cloe Siebel helps to facilitate a cultural drum presentation for students and faculty at the Ignacio High School.

R.C. Lucero helps in sharing his knowledge with students who sat in on the group's drum for a couple of songs during their Native Studies class at IHS.

Saturday evening, April 29, before a sold-out crowd of 4,000 plus attendees, Tori McConnell of the Yurok & Karuk Tribes of Northwestern California, was crowned Miss Indian World 2023 at the Gathering of Nations Powwow in Albuquerque, N.M.

Pageantry and tradition came together in Albuquerque, N.M. for the 40th annual Gathering of Nations Powwow at EXPO New Mexico this past weekend, Friday April 28 – Saturday, April 29. Dancers, singers, and tribal royalty mingle in Tingley Coliseum for another weekend packed with powwow contests and cultural performances. Stage 49 hosted musical acts and guest appearances, while Indigenous horseback riders lined the avenue each afternoon for the annual Horse Parade.

IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY

The IDEA LAB continues to evolve to meet the needs of the community

By Ron Schermacher
IGNACIO COMMUNITY LIBRARY

There is so much happening every month that no one can take it all in. Savory food choices, art collectives and activities, sports games and music events are among the many offerings. One of the hidden gems of Ignacio resides in a small space on the second floor of the library. The IDEA LAB is your makerspace, where digital media and activities continue to advance both in offerings and complexity. Many folks believe that the makerspace is only available to youth, but I assure you that all programs and activities are appropriate for all ages. In fact, for a few months this year we had more adult visitors than from those under 18.

The sewing group has been very popular. Susan Couch and Alethia Ward assist new and intermediate sewing enthusiasts in learning and improving their sewing skills. Most participants are bringing in their own sewing machines, but there are a couple of machines available for folks who do not have access to one. Electronics hour has individuals who are learning the basics and then putting that knowledge to use repairing equipment and working on illuminated jewelry. Several pieces of equipment that were headed to the trash or would have been prohibitively expensive to repair by professionals have been brought back to productive use. We are currently considering adding a “repair cafe” to our slate of regular events.

courtesy Ignacio Community Library

Occasionally true experts in the electronics field drop in to share their diverse experience and expertise.

Many folks are still learning and practicing with the 3D printer while also learning design. A few more staff members have learned how to use and share their knowledge with patrons wishing to explore this still new and ever advancing technology. 3D printing basics are easy to grasp and can be learned in a few hours, but a lifetime would not be enough to learn all there is concerning these machines. Recently we have been working on a project to create a clay stamp for the Dancing Spirit Gallery. Original designs can be set up to print on one of the 3D printers and then tested and adjusted as needed. Many design projects can use the free programs available in the IDEA LAB. Another recent successful project included creating a stunning business card for a local resident.

The IDEA LAB also occasionally goes on the road and shares knowledge with local schools. Earlier in the year we collaborated with the IHS wood shop by loaning one of our 3D printers for use in their shop and assisted sophomores in water science data collection. Then we visited the Hope Christian Academy during Mad Scientists’ Day and wowed the students with electronic demonstrations. Still another day found us at Silver Spruce Academy assisting the staff with their 3D printer. The exciting news that ICL will soon be on the road with a mobile library will have us taking maker programming to all corners of our community.

As the IDEA LAB becomes more established, we are constantly on the lookout for community talent and resources to help us in our mission of bringing people and ideas together. A successful makerspace involves a group of people sharing talents, experiences, equipment and resources in a free and open-source community. If you have something you think you could contribute to the IDEA LAB please drop in. Open makerspace hours are Friday and Saturday from 2 to 4 pm, electronics hour is Wednesdays and sewing hour is Fridays; both are at noon, other times are available with a reservation.

COLORADO BROADCASTERS ASSOCIATION

Win-win for KSUT Tribal Radio and Four Corners Public Radio

Staff report
TRIBAL RADIO

KSUT Four Corners Public Radio and KSUT Tribal Radio celebrated with wins at the Colorado Broadcasters Association (CBA) annual Awards of Excellence Gala this past Saturday.

The celebration occurred in downtown Denver at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel’s Ballroom meeting room. Chandeliers hanging from the ceiling glistened on over 400 people – the annual awards honors radio and television throughout Colorado for 2022.

This year, the CBA received 894 entries (511 from radio, 383 from television), and 168 volunteer broadcasters nationwide were assembled into panels to judge all 894 entries, according to the Colorado Broadcasters Association website.

KSUT Four Corners Public Radio and Tribal Radio celebrated with three awards.

- Lorena Richards, content director (Tribal Radio), was awarded a Certificate of Merit for the Best Morning Show for the Native Morning Show Friday Edition (91.3 FM, 100.9 FM, 89.7 FM).
- Crystal Ashike, digital content editor (Tribal Radio), received a Certificate of Merit for Best Station Website for Tribal Radio’s website.

- Mark Duggan, digital content manager and website administrator (Four Corners Public Radio), won Best Station Website for KSUT’s website for the second year.

The CBA uses an awards point system that determines the winners based on the number of Awards (first place) and Certificates (second place) won stated on their website.

The organization was founded in 1949 to represent broadcasters with a mission to “build a stronger broadcast industry,” and KSUT is proud to be part of it.

In 1981, Louise Hammond began the Ute Mountain Bear Dance Run as the tribe's Substance Abuse Prevention Program Director. Louise wanted to provide as many activities as possible for her people to keep them busy and to guide them away from drugs and alcohol. Wellness beyond abstinence was her creed and she spent 20 plus years working to help her people achieve a healthy lifestyle. Today her children and grandchildren along with many relatives continue to hold this run. It has become a memorial to Louise and a long-standing commitment to promote healthy events in the community. Over the years, there have been many world-class Native American runners from all over the southwest that have participated and continue to participate.

IHS drops two to Telluride in Cortez

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Playing Saturday, April 29, at neutral Montezuma-Cortez High School, with the Lady Panthers playing a 3A Southwestern League match at Pagosa Springs, Ignacio faced Telluride not once, but twice. Coming off an 8-2 loss to PSHS the previous afternoon – thanks to the Lady Pirates scoring five unanswered goals after halftime – the Lady Bobcats unfortunately fell well short in each 2A Intermountain-South contest.

Getting four goals from senior Summer Johnson, three from junior Brooke Duncan and two from sophomore Lexton Gregory, the Lady Miners – still energized by their crucial 2-0 win on the 26th at Crested Butte Community School, giving THS a 2-1 lead on their nemesis in head-to-head goal differential – grabbed the opening match by an 11-1 margin.

“They’re our rivals, and we really needed to beat them this time. Last time we played them, the whole team was sick, I was injured, and it was conditions ... like a blizzard – it was really bad,” Gregory said, discussing the motivating impact of defeating CBCS, at the time ranked No. 8 in the CHSAA Now.com Class 2A poll.

“Our team is really working hard to communicate more and work on our skills as a team. Before (Spring)

Ignacio’s Alexis Ortiz (7) steps in to battle for possession during non-league action Tuesday, April 25, against Alamosa. The first of four matches facing the Lady Bobcats during the week, IHS fell 6-1 to the Mean Moose.

Break we weren’t really connected, but we’ve been working on that in practice. I think our passes could get better, but they were looking pretty good today.”

Assisted by sophomore Ollyvia Howe, senior Harmony Reynolds denied Telluride a shutout with Ignacio’s lone goal.

Johnson then scored three times to lead THS (6-6 overall, 3-2 league) to a 10-0 win over IHS (0-13, 0-5) in the second match, with Gregory and fellow sophs Emma Reggiannini and Mae Scarborough each registering two goals and Duncan one.

Looking ahead at the schedule, Ignacio will end the 2023 season hosting Crested Butte at noon Saturday, May 6. Results from IHS’ evening battle on the 4th versus 3A SWLers Bayfield were unavailable at press time.

IHS Track pressured at Panther Invite

’Cats collect nine top-tens in Cortez

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Junior Kyle Rima’s third-place 110-foot, 11-inch throw of the discus and junior Maci Barnes’ fourth-place 5:53.82 in the 1,600-meter run ended up being Ignacio Track & Field’s top results Friday, April 28, at Montezuma-Cortez High School’s 2023 Panther Invitational.

Just one inch short of Alamosa junior Jace Montoya’s runner-up 112’0” best, Rima scored six of the Bobcat boys’ eventual 12 team points – equaling the total of fellow San Juan Basin Leaguers Mancos, and earning each a share of tenth place overall. At the top of the standings was M-CHS, who piled up 135.5 points – barely enough to edge AHS (132.5), but adequate to outdo third-place Bayfield (100) as all three sought superlative status in the 3A Intermountain.

Rima would score three more points in the shot put with a sixth-place, 38’9.5” maximum, and freshman

James Martin swiped one by taking eighth in the boys’ 1,600 with a time of 5:39.74. IHS’ 800m relay clocked 1:49.30 and placed seventh, earning the remaining two team points.

Freshman Lincoln deKay was a top-ten near-miss in the 110m hurdles; he finished 11th in 19.68 seconds. Junior Corey Gomez took 12th in the 1,600 (5:43.89) and 14th in the 800 (2:29.60), freshman Dillon Brann placed 16th in the 110 hurdles (20.87), and freshman Evan Perkins ended up 20th in the discus (55’8”).

On the girls’ side, Ignacio managed to tally 15.5 points but finished 13th. AHS bettered IML contender Pagosa Springs 166-155 to claim first place, with SJBLers Nucla (60) rising to third over both league rival Dove Creek (56) and BHS (54).

Barnes also placed fifth in the 200m dash with a time of 28.68 seconds, and junior Lauren deKay finished fifth in the pole vault by clearing the bar set an even seven feet high. Freshman Juliann Avila snatched seventh place in the triple jump (26’10”) and also earned eighth in the high jump (4’4”). Freshman Samantha Riddell also cleared the height, but required more attempts, and ended up in 11th place.

Avila finished 11th in the 100m hurdles (19.80), Barnes missed a top-ten in the long jump by half an inch and ended up 12th (13’5.2”), and junior Kacey Brown placed 13th in the 800 (2:59.13). Other top-20 results included Brown’s 63’1” in the discus (16th), deKay’s 1:18.81 in the 400 (17th), Riddell’s 14.54 in the 100 (18th) and junior Moriah Ashley’s 3:33.80 in the 800 (20th).

Looking ahead at the schedule, IHS was to next compete at the Mancos-hosted SJBL Championships Tuesday, May 2, but results were unavailable at press time. Ignacio will then take some time off from competition before traveling to Grand Junction, May 12-13, for GJHS’ Tiger Invitational.

BOBCATS BASEBALL

PULLING RANK: ’Cats crush Sargent

IHS wins 10-0, 10-0 on Senior Day

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Breaking out to leads of 5-0 through one inning of the first game Saturday, April 29, and 2-0 in the second, and never really relenting the rest of the way in each, there weren’t many situations facing Ignacio which could have been called ‘clutch.’

In fact, on Senior/Parent Appreciation Day at IHS Field, the Bobcats more or less had to create their own as visiting Sargent hardly posed a threat, totaling just five hits and zero runs in the non-league doubleheader.

But when an opportunity arose, Duke Baker’s bunch capitalized. Especially in the bottom of the third inning in Game 2.

After Rylan Maez and Stoney White Thunder drew walks against SHS starter Kade Temple, Elliott Hendren cracked an RBI-single to left plating Maez, increasing IHS’ lead at the time to 5-0. Marcus Maez then drew a walk to load the bases, but Dylan McCaw lined up the middle and into an unassisted double play catching Hendren off second base.

Suddenly with two outs, Zane Olguin stepped next into the right-handed batter’s box. Impressing his second-year skipper with a pressure-packed and yet quite relaxed plate appearance, Olguin – Baker’s No. 9 hitter – slashed an opposite-field single into right-center, scoring White Thunder and Marcus Maez, and alertly advanced to second via the Farmers’ relay throw home.

“I was on him there for a second, and he proved me wrong! Zane got a great two-out hit,” said a grinning Baker. “He did his job and I’m proud of him. The bottom half, six through nine, did amazing ... rolled the lineup over like I expect.”

“It was just something different; a little slower than normal,” Olguin said, recalling Temple’s delivery. “We’re not used to seeing slower stuff so at this point; we’re just throwing our hands at it. And I just kept running!”

Said running soon became the Bobcats’ eighth run. After gaining third base via a botched Temple pick-off, Olguin calmly trotted across the plate when Temple (L; 4 IP, 8 H, 9 R, 7 ER, 7 BB, 6 K) balked to IHS leadoff hitter Devante Montoya – who’d earn a base-on-balls, but then be picked off 1-3-6 to unexpectedly end the inning.

The damage was done, however; after SHS catcher Wyatt Cross (1-1, HBP) singled off junior Phillip Quintana (W, CG; 5 IP, H, BB, HB, 8 K) beginning the top of the fourth, then took second via a throwing error with one out, the visitors’ last five hitters were retired consecutively. Bobcat Eppie Quintana, meanwhile, led off the home half of the fourth tripling to right, and scored on Phillip Quintana’s subsequent groundout to Sargent third baseman Liam Ellithorpe.

And in the bottom of the fifth, Ignacio polished off a 10-0, 10-0 sweep. Marcus Maez walked leading off against SHS reliever Trenton Lovelace (0+ IP, R, BB, HB), and took second when pinch-hitter Lane Johnson – saluted prior to Game 1 along with fellow seniors Eppie Quintana, Olguin and McCaw (for whom he was batting) – was hit by a pitch while looking to bunt.

Which in turn brought up, as fortune would have it, Olguin.

And given the chance to end the game via the 10-run mercy rule, Olguin did not fail. With Maez now leading off the hot corner, Olguin hit a sharp ground-er down the third-base line which should have trapped Maez in a rundown. Ellithorpe, however, forgot the game situation and rushed a wild throw across the diamond which not only allowed Olguin (1-3, R, 2 RBI) to reach via error, but Maez (0-0, 3 BB, 3 R) to score easily.

"We didn't want to go in with balloon heads ... then come out flat and not do anything," said Eppie Quintana (3-3, 2B, 3B, 2 R, RBI). "We wanted to come in humble, thinking these guys could beat us ... and then we put up ten, got to go home early."

Phillip Quintana went 2-3 with a double, run and RBI in his own support, and White Thunder ended up 1-2 with a walk, run and two RBI – via a first-inning single into right. Montoya and Rylan Maez each went 0-1 with two walks and a run as Ignacio, remaining 3-1 in 2A/1A San Juan Basin League play, improved to 9-6 overall.

Cross and Trenton Paskett (0-1, BB) were the only players reaching base for SHS (5-7, 4-4 2A Southern Peaks).

In Game 1, Ellithorpe led off against Eppie Quintana doubling into left, but would be stranded at third when Quintana (W, CG; 5 IP, 4 H, 0 BB, 0 HB, 10 K) got counterpart Burke Temple to ground out to short-stop Montoya.

The 'Cats then took full advantage in the bottom half of the inning. Temple promptly plunked both Montoya and Eppie Quintana, walked Phillip Quintana, and tagged Rylan Maez – all in succession, with Montoya scoring via a passed ball during the younger Quintana's at-bat.

Sargent head coach Terry

Van Bibber had seen enough and called third baseman Fernando Venzor to the mound, but White Thunder greeted him with a sacrifice fly to center scoring the Quintanas. Ambrose Valdez then singled home Maez, closing the book on Temple (L; 0+ IP, 0 H, 4 R, 3 ER, BB, 3 HB), and would score two 'Cats later via a McCaw single to center.

Highlighted by a Phillip Quintana ground-rule double to center, Ignacio then scored four runs in the bottom of the second and added another in the third (Eppie Quintana, via a Rylan Maez sacrifice fly). And though Venzor (4 IP, 5 H, 6 R, 2 ER, BB, 2 HB, K) actually retired the last six 'Cats he'd face, the outcome was never in doubt.

Driving home that point, Eppie Quintana then struck out pinch-hitters Kaleb Watson and Kayden Wright leading off the Farmers' fifth, then ended the game fanning Ellithorpe with an unnerving knuckleball. He finished 1-for-3 in defeat, while Cross, Burke Temple and Lovelace each went 1-2.

"I just wanted to go up there and not let any of the nerves, emotions get to me. Just throw my heart out and do the best I can for everybody," Quintana said, regarding his starting assignment on the special day. "Thank goodness for Phillip working his ass off for me back there, my defense doing their job, and Coach calling pitches when it's time to call them."

"And it hit home really close – like, 'Here it is, my last home game,'" he added. "I just wanted to leave it all out there."

Hit twice by pitch and also able to reach via error, he finished 0-1 offensively but scored three runs. Phillip Quintana ended up 2-2 with a walk, two runs and one batted in, and Rylan Maez 1-1 with two runs and a ribbie.

McCaw went 1-2 and was hit by a pitch, Olguin went 0-2 but drew an RBI-walk, and Valdez finished 1-2 with a run and two batted in. White Thunder ended up 0-2, but reached via error and scored via Olguin's walk.

"We're playing more like a family and less like a 'team,'" declared Olguin.

"Phillip pitched great, Eppie pitched great, and our batting was there again," Baker said. "Defense was – when (Sargent) put the ball in play – on point; the boys came out and had fun, played great all the way around."

Looking ahead at the schedule, Ignacio will see action Saturday, May 6, on the road at SPL member Center. First pitch of the doubleheader is set for 11 a.m. Results from IHS' 5/2 two-fer at Nucla (7-8, 0-4 SJB�) were unavailable at press time.

"Coach Randy (Gabriel) up there's going to have his boys ready to play, for sure. And that's for the league championship so we've got to get it," said Baker. "We're going to go up, play Ignacio Bobcat ball ... and have fun doing it."

Chipeta, Ouray’s wife

When Chipeta was an older girl, she learned how to butcher and dress the game that her father gave her like deer, elk, and buffalo. All the while preserving the hides, kneeling on the ground to scape fur and flesh from the hide made her back ache and her fingers grew stiff from clutching the sharp bone used as a scraper. The heavy work followed after the deer hide was soaked in a pit of water. The hide of the deer weighed thirty to forty pounds even before it was soaked. A wet buffalo hide weighed more than a hundred pounds and it was a struggle to drag the buffalo hide while wet and spread it flat to dry.

Notice Of Proposed Revisions To The Southern Ute Indian Tribe/State Of Colorado Environmental Commission's Reservation Air Code And Request For Comments

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe/State of Colorado Environmental Commission is seeking comments from interested persons on certain proposed changes to the Commission's Reservation Air Code (RAC).

Statement of time, place and nature of rulemaking proceeding. In addition to receiving written comments, the Environmental Commission will hold a public hearing at Southern Ute Indian Tribe – Justice & Regulatory building-Large Conference Room at 71 Mike Frost Way, Ignacio, CO 81137 on Wednesday, May 24th, 2023 beginning at 1:00 p.m. to receive public comment on the proposed changes to the RAC. The meeting will also be hosted virtually. For more information about attending the meeting virtually, please visit: <https://www.southernute-nsn.gov/justice-and-regulatory/epd/air-quality/env-commission/>.

Authority under which the changes are proposed. Authority is vested in the Southern Ute Indian Tribe/State of Colorado Environmental Commission by the Intergovernmental Agreement Between the Southern Ute Indian Tribe and the State of Colorado Concerning Air Quality Control on the Southern Ute Indian Reservation dated December 13, 1999 ("IGA"), tribal law (Resolution of the Council of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe # 00-09), State law (C.R.S. § 24-62-101), and federal law (Act of October 18, 2004, Pub. L. No. 108-336, 118 Stat.1354) to adopt rules and regulations for air quality programs applicable to all lands within the exterior boundaries of the Southern Ute Indian Reservation. The Commission's rulemaking procedures can be found in section IV of the Commission's Procedural Rules.

Submission of comments. Please provide any comments no later than 5:00 p.m. on June 4, 2023. Please submit your comments to Danny Powers, Air Quality Program Manager for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe, by one of the following methods: E-mail: dpowers@southernute-nsn.gov; Mail: Southern Ute Indian Tribe/State of Colorado Environmental Commission, c/o Danny Powers, Air Quality Program Manager, Southern Ute Environmental Programs Division, P.O. Box 737 MS# 84, Ignacio, Colorado, 81137

Supplementary information and summary description of RAC changes. The Commission previously proposed these revisions as a direct final rule making and posted public notice of the proposed revisions. The Commission has further revised the RAC, taking into consideration of the comments received. A summary of both the original proposed revisions and the comments received at listed below. The Commission is proposing to revise RAC Article I and Article II Part 1, as described below.

First, the Commission is updating the "major source" definition in RAC § 1-103 (38) to align the definition with EPA's updated "major source" definition in 40 CFR 70.2 of the federal Part 70 operating permit program. The updated definition at 40 CFR 70.2 better aligns the definition with the June 3, 2016, oil and gas source aggregation rule published at 81 Fed. Reg. 35622.

Second, the Commission is removing language relating to the three-year permit transition plan for the transition of federally issued Part 71 permits to tribally issued Part 70 permits. These revisions remove obsolete RAC provisions. All EPA-issued Part 71 permits were transitioned to Tribe-issued Part 70 permits pursuant to a three-year permit transition plan approved concurrently by EPA at the time of EPA's approval of the Tribe's Part 70 operating permit program on March 2, 2012. Since that time, all initial Part 70 operating permits have undergone five-year permit renewal issuances. Therefore, the transition plan-related permit provisions are no longer needed in the RAC.

Third, the Commission is revising language in RAC §§ 2-106 and 2-110 to require permittees submitting forms to the Tribe for permitting or compliance purposes to use the most current forms provided by the Tribe. The Tribe's permitting and compliance forms have been developed to encompass the requirements of the RAC and applicable regulations, and to be compatible with the Tribe's compliance database.

Fourth, the Commission is updating the permit application completeness determination and permit issuance timeline language in RAC § 2-107. These revisions have been made to clarify the Tribe's permit application completeness deadline of 60 days for initial applications, renewal applications, and significant permit revisions. The revisions also clarify the 30-day completeness deadline for minor permit revisions.

Fifth, the Commission is revising the timelines for the Tribe to take final action on complete permit applications for clarity and consistency with the analogous language in 40 CFR Part 70. The Commission is making no changes to the timelines for the Tribe to take action on final permit issuances. Sixth, the Commission is adding a requirement to RAC § 2-106(d) for Part 70 sources operators to submit a notice of a new or revised New Source Review (NSR) permit to the Tribe within 30 calendar days of the NSR permit becoming effective. The Commission also included additional language to this provision to provide clarification that permit revision applications for the incorporation of an initial or revised NSR permit and any associated permit revisions necessary as a result of operations authorized by the NSR permit, are to be submitted according to the timelines established in RAC § 2-106(2). The Commission received a comment on its previous proposed revisions to this RAC section. The revisions were included in the Commission's direct final rulemaking that was approved at the Commission's meeting on November 9, 2022. To address the comment received, the Commission has further revised this RAC section and is proposing the new revised language. Seventh, the Commission is clarifying in RAC § 2-111 that a permittee's filing of a minor permit revision application is not authorization to construct or modify a source. The permittee is responsible for determining and receiving the appropriate New Source Review preconstruction permitting authorizations for construction or modification of a source. In response to the direct final rulemaking that was approved at the Commission's November 9, 2022, meeting, the Commission received comment of this proposed revision. In response to the comment, the Commission has added additional clarification. The proposed revision above takes into account the comment received. Finally, the Commission is correcting numerous typos and making certain revisions to promote administrative clarity. Additionally, the Commission is correcting several incorrect incorporations by reference citations to correctly align the RAC with the federal standards at 40 CFR Part 70 or to correctly cross reference other RAC citations. The Commission considers these revisions to be administrative in nature.

Response to Comments on Previous Direct Final Rulemaking. Previously, the Commission published a notice of direct final rulemaking on the same substantive RAC provisions as this rulemaking. The Commission received two adverse comments. A copy of the Commission's responses to comments document can be found at the following website: <https://www.southernute-nsn.gov/justice-and-regulatory/epd/public-comments/>

Where a complete copy of the RAC and RAC changes can be obtained. A copy of the RAC and a redlined version showing the changes is available upon request from the Tribe's Air Quality Program Manager who can be contacted by e-mail, mail, or in person at the addresses noted above. The RAC and the exhibit showing the changes also is available at the following website: www.southernute-nsn.gov/justice-and-regulatory/epd/air-quality/env-commission/

The Tribal Wills Clinic is a group of volunteers including law students and licensed attorneys, who donate their time to help Tribal Members write wills. Celebrate a well-lived life by making sure that your wishes are carried out by the next generation. To make sure that your wishes are respected after you pass, please consider drafting a will, either through our program or with a local attorney.

What does it cost? Our services are entirely free. At a law firm in Denver, the cost for a will would be about $2,500 and the process would take about two weeks.

Notice of Proposed Amendments to Title 5
Criminal Code & Request for Comments

The Southern Ute Indian Tribal Council is seeking comments on proposed amendments to the Criminal Code. A copy of the amended Criminal Code can be found at this link: . Please use the contact numbers at the end of this notice to obtain a hard copy of the proposed Criminal Code amendments or to submit comments. The Criminal Code amendments were developed by a committee including the Justice & Regulatory and Legal Departments and the Tribal Court. The Criminal Code is Title 5 in the Southern Ute Indian Tribe Law and Order Code.2140

Summary of the proposed amendments:

1. History of Amendments - In 1980, Tribal Council codified the current Criminal Code. Since then, various amendments have been adopted to particular sections, but Council identified this Code as needing complete revision. In 2018, a complete revised Criminal Code was provided for public comments. In 2019, the BIA recommended disapproval of the marijuana provisions. Following BIA’s comments, the revision process was delayed due to the COVID pandemic and resumed in 2021. Because this version incorporates additional substantive revisions, the fully revised Code is now being re-issued for additional public comment.

2. Criminal Penalty Schedule – Offenses have been classified 1 through 6, with 1 being the most serious, and respective fine and jail penalties assigned to those classes. The Criminal Penalty Schedule is a separate document that will be published online with the Criminal Code.

3. New Provisions – New provisions to address marijuana possession amounts consistent with Colorado amounts, shoplifting, retaliation against witness or victim, unlawful sexual contact, trespass, among others have been added.

Public Comments: The Tribal Council requests that all Tribal Members review the entire code and provide comments no later than June 5, 2023 to the Legal Department at: Email: lbarnhart@southernute-nsn.gov or jwash@southernute-nsn.gov. Mail: Leslie Barnhart, Legal Department, Southern Ute Indian Tribe, P.O. Box 737, Ignacio, Colorado, 81137. Hand delivery: Legal Department, Leonard C. LEGAL NOTICE

IF YOU, A CHILD IN YOUR CARE, OR ANOTHER LOVED ONE WERE HARMED BY ENDO OR A RELATED COMPANY, INCLUDING PAR OR AMS, OR THEIR PRODUCTS INCLUDING OPIOIDS, RANITIDINE, OR TRANSVAGINAL MESH, YOUR RIGHTS MAY BE AFFECTED BY DEADLINES IN THE ENDO BANKRUPTCY.

The deadline to file a claim in the bankruptcy is July 7, 2023, at 5:00 p.m. (prevailing Eastern Time).
The deadline to object to Endo’s sale is July 7, 2023, at 4:00 p.m. (prevailing Eastern Time).

WHAT IS THIS ABOUT?

On August 16, 2022, Endo International plc and certain of its affiliates filed for chapter 11 bankruptcy in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York. Certain Endo affiliates manufactured and/or sold, among other things, branded opioid medications (including but not limited to OPANA® (oxymorphone hydrochloride), OPANA® ER (oxymorphone hydrochloride extended release), and PERCOCET® (oxycodone and acetaminophen tablets)), generic opioid medications, generic ranitidine medications, and transvaginal mesh. This notice is intended to inform you of your rights in this bankruptcy regarding the bar date and proof of claim process and Endo’s proposed sale of substantially all of its assets.

WHAT IS A CLAIM?

A “claim” means a right to seek payment or other compensation. If you, a child in your care, or another loved one were harmed by Endo or a related company, including Par or American Medical Systems (AMS), or their products, including opioids, ranitidine, or transvaginal mesh, you may have a claim against one or more of these entities. To make a claim, you will need to submit a proof of claim in the bankruptcy case. You may file a claim on behalf of yourself, a child in your care (including a child exposed to opioids in the womb), or a deceased or disabled relative. Examples of claims that may be filed in the Endo bankruptcy include but are not limited to:

- > Opioid Claims: Claims for death, addiction or dependence, lost wages, loss of consortium, or neonatal abstinence syndrome (sometimes referred to as “NAS”), among others.
- > Ranitidine claims: Claims for cancer, including bladder, esophageal, pancreatic, stomach, and liver cancer, among others.
- > Transvaginal mesh claims: Claims for pelvic pain, infection, bleeding, among others.

WHAT DO YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE BAR DATE AND PROOF OF CLAIM PROCESS?

The deadline to submit your proof of claim is called a bar date. The bar date, or the deadline to submit your proof of claim, is July 7, 2023, at 5:00 p.m. (prevailing Eastern Time). If you do not submit a proof of claim by the deadline, you will lose any rights you may have had to seek payment or compensation. You must file a proof of claim form so that it is actually received by the bar date. A proof of claim form can be filed by you, a legal guardian, survivors, or relatives of people who have died or are disabled. You do not need an attorney to file a proof of claim for you.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

Southern Ute Indian Tribe announces historic settlement to protect air quality on Reservation

Staff report
SOUTHERN UTE INDIAN TRIBE

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe recently announced its settlement with Williams Companies, Inc. (Williams Companies) and Harvest Four Corners, LLC (Harvest) pursuant to the Clean Air Act (CAA) in connection with unlawful air emissions from the Ignacio natural gas processing plant (Ignacio Facility) on the Southern Ute Indian Reservation within the exterior boundaries of La Plata County, Colo. This settlement is in conjunction with three separate settlements with natural gas processors pursued by the Department of Justice and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that will require the companies to pay a combined $9.25 million in civil penalties and make improvements at 25 gas processing plants and 91 compressor stations, reducing harmful air pollution and improving air quality in 12 states and Indian Country.

The EPA has delegated to the Southern Ute Indian Tribe authority under the CAA to regulate air quality on all lands within the Reservation boundaries, including to administer and enforce a Title V operating permit program at 40 C.F.R. Part 70 and certain New Source Performance Standards and National Emission Standards for Hazardous Air Pollutants under CAA sections 111 and 112. It is the only federally recognized Tribe with full delegation of the Title V operating permit program.

Since 2019, the Southern Ute Indian Tribe has been a co-plaintiff, along with the United States of America and the states of Alabama, Colorado, Louisiana, West Virginia, and Wyoming, in global settlement discussions with the Williams Companies and Harvest regarding alleged violations of the CAA at certain facilities across the United States. One of the fifteen facilities involved in the discussions is Harvest's Ignacio Gas Plant, located on County Road 307 in La Plata County, within the exterior boundaries of the Reservation. The Ignacio Gas Plant was formerly operated by the Williams Companies and is currently operated by Harvest. If operated incorrectly, the facility's process flare has the potential to be the largest single source of air pollutant emissions on the Reservation. Additionally, potential emissions at the facility from leaking valves, pipes, compressors and other process equipment can contribute significant volatile organic compounds to the atmosphere when not properly monitored and maintained. The Tribe's Air Quality Program and U.S. EPA Region 8 representatives had concerns about the performance of the process flare and the applicability of and compliance with certain CAA Leak Detection and Repair ("LDAR") requirements for onshore natural gas processing facilities.

The Williams companies agreed, in a federal consent decree filed in the United States District Court for Colorado, on certain mitigation projects, compliance requirements, and payment of a civil penalty to resolve the alleged CAA violations at the fifteen facilities. Importantly, Harvest agreed to the requirements of a mitigation project, known as the Ignacio Flare Monitoring Project, set forth in an appendix to the consent decree for the flare at Harvest's Ignacio Gas Plant.

Under the terms of the Ignacio Flare Monitoring Project, to verify the process flare at the Ignacio Gas Plant is working properly, Harvest must install and use a calorimeter to monitor the combustion of the gas at the flare tip for a one-year test period. During the test period, Harvest must compare the calorimeter monitoring results with the facility's current ultrasonic flow meter monitoring and operating system. If the calorimeter monitoring does not validate that Harvest's flare is operating within required standards, Harvest must use the calorimeter not only to monitor the flare but to control operation of the flare in perpetuity and to memorialize that requirement in a federal CAA permit.

Southern Ute Tribal Council Chairman Melvin J. Baker hailed the consent decree, "The Southern Ute Indian Tribe has been diligently working to resolve performance concerns about the flare at the Ignacio Gas Plant. Harvest is now taking steps to address the Tribe's concerns and these steps will help maintain good air quality on the Southern Ute Indian Reservation and in Southwest Colorado."

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe continues to be a leader in protecting environmental quality in Indian Country and in the Southwest.

FLY FISHING

Sometimes ya just gotta laugh

By Don Oliver
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Terri and I, along with our friends John and Kim, wanted to trade cold white snow for warm white sand. We did, with a fly fishing trip to Belize. Our trip was arranged by our friends at Yellow Dog Travel, and they did their usual stellar job. We stayed at Thatcher Caye Resort. The accommodations were great, the food five-star, the staff second-to-none, and there was plenty to do for those not fly fishing. While John and I did partake in some of the non-fishing activities, our mission was to fly fish – and we did.

For the six days of fly fishing our guide, Marton, who was a really good guide, put us on lots of fish. He guided us to, and helped us land, bonefish, snapper, jacks, triggerfish, permit, tarpon, and a really large barracuda. The barracuda was caught on a spinning rod, but still counts. If I stopped here, you'd have a thumbnail overview of a successful trip. However, there is more to the story, the laughing part.

On the second day of fishing, Marton took us to the dock area of another lodge. As we pulled into the dock area we saw a huge school of bonefish swimming around and under the dock. John and I thought our arms were going to get tired from reeling in large numbers of bones. It didn't happen.

John was first on the casting deck. After many casts and fly changes, John finally hooked into a bonefish. Here things begin to take a turn towards humor. The fish started to run towards John, so he was scrambling to get the slack in and put the fish on the reel. The fish was faster than John and made a turn towards a piling. All three of us were yelling no, no, no, but it didn't do any good. The bonefish wrapped the line around the piling which led to the leader breaking. My turn.

I had a similar scenario. I made lots of casts, and Marton changed my fly several times. I then made a picture perfect, side arm cast, under the dock to a waiting bonefish. He took the fly and began a speedy run staying under the dock. I couldn't get my rod and line higher than the dock and tried to muscle the fish out. He broke my leader. Fish-2, Fishermen-0. I'm actually quietly chuckling to myself.

As we contemplated our next move two permit fish swam past the boat. John got on the dock to cast at them while Marton poled me around to the other side of the dock to cast at bonefish. Just as I got on the platform, Marton quickly handed me another rod, and pointed at the dozen or so tarpon moving in. I wish I could say John caught one of the permit and I caught one of the tarpon, but truthfully, I can't.

The two permit John was casting at seemed to be in a conversation with each other. I think they were saying, "See that guy up there, let's move out a little farther and see how far he can cast." After several good casts they say, "Now let's swim in close, real fast, and see how much line he steps on and gets tangled around his feet. Now, when he casts, let's move over towards his fly, get real close to it, then slowly back off and swim under the dock."

My tarpon experience was similar. Only, instead of talking amongst themselves, they just enjoyed the day. The swam deep and shallow with me casting several different flies at them. They would jump and roll right in front of the boat as if to say, "We see you." Marton looked at me, shrugged his shoulders, and headed to the dock to retrieve John.

It's here I started laughing, quietly at first, then a little louder, then a deep belly laugh. A good guide, two good fly fishermen, lots of equipment, and the fish won hands down. I love fly fishing.
