Looking back, 2023 was a year full of community driven programming and important milestones for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe ranging from cultural preservation and youth engagement to protection of natural resources. The Tribe made important steps towards language preservation and water resource management; tribal youth travelled to Halifax for NAIG, youth also experienced ice climbing and field dressing practices firsthand – where empowerment and inclusion were prioritized. Check out the highlights in the Southern Ute Drum’s “Year in Review” pages, 12-13.

WATER RESOURCES

Tribe’s Drought Task Force gives water projections for ‘24

By George Gavrielides, Water Resources Specialist
SU WATER RESOURCES DIVISION

Happy New Year to everyone. As part of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe’s Drought Management Plan, the Water Resources Division (WRD) periodically sends updates to the Tribe’s Drought Task Force. The last drought update was sent on March 6, 2023. However, 2023 was a good water year throughout the western United States and an even better year for Southwest Colorado, so there was not much to update on. Now that we’re in a new year, the WRD decided to provide a quick update for everyone. The update will start with a summary of 2023 and then describe current snowpack, drought conditions, and forecasts entering 2024. In the spring of 2023, many Colorado reservoirs, including Vallecito and Lemon, filled and even had to release water for flood prevention prior to irrigation season. The Southern Ute Indian Tribe had a full supply of water on the Pine and Florida rivers allowing Tribal irrigators to have a full irrigation season. The entire State of Colorado was even 100% drought-free in July 2023. Although drought conditions returned later in the year, the monsoons in late summer and fall supplemented the good runoff throughout 2023. Unfortunately, precipitation and snowpack were sparse throughout December 2023 leading to some drought conditions at the start of 2024. But there’s still time. SNOWPACK As of January 2, 2024, snowpack across the western United States is currently below average ranging from 40-90% of Normal Snow Water Equivalent (SWE). Southwest Colorado river basins currently have 62% of Normal SWE which is leading to some drought conditions. Although it has snowed very little this winter, we are following a similar trend to water years 2022 and 2023. In the last two water years, it also snowed very little throughout December and it started to snow a lot right before New Years. We are expected to get some weather soon. In fact, the current seven-day forecast shows significant precipitation events for Southwest Colorado. So, hopefully snow is just delayed this year and a pattern change will create significant snowstorms very soon. This would help snowpack greatly, so we will see what happens and hope for a boost in snowpack with the upcoming series of storms. DROUGHT With the current lack of snowpack throughout the western United States, there

Snow Water Equivalent (SWE) % of Normal trends for southwest Colorado in the last 2 years. Note: Water Years are different than Calendar Years. Water Years run from November- October.

are regional drought conditions. The southwest United States has moderate to extreme drought conditions and the northwest United States has abnormal to severe drought conditions. Southwest Colorado currently has moderate to extreme drought conditions. We are currently in worse drought conditions compared to this time last year, but hopefully the upcoming storms will change drought conditions soon. Fortunately, the drought forecast ending March 31, 2024, shows Southwest Colorado drought conditions improving and likely being removed over the next few months. FORECASTS The current forecasts are promising. The one-month and three-month precipitation forecasts show Colorado, especially Southwest Colorado, receiving above average precipitation. Furthermore, the one-month and three-month temperature forecasts show Colorado, especially Southwest Colorado, receiving below average temperatures. In other words, the forecasts show cold and wet months ahead and that typically means snow. No need to worry now, let's just hope the forecasts are correct and it snows a lot soon. The WRD will keep track of snowpack, drought conditions, and forecasts and update the Task Force when major changes occur. Updates on runoff and irrigation season forecasts will be released later in the spring. Things can change and the WRD nor the Task Force need to take further actions regarding drought at this time. If you'd like more information on snowpack, drought, and forecasting resources, feel free to reach out to George Gavrielides, Water Resources Specialist, at 970-563-2932.

BEHAVIORAL HEALTH

BEE HEARD: Supporting total wellness with the sun!

By James Wilson
SOUTHERN UTE BEHAVIORAL HEALTH

Light from the sun is perhaps the single greatest gift for sustaining life on Earth. It is no coincidence that our bodies are incredibly sensitive and attuned to function in response to light exposure. However, with the introduction of artificial and electronic lights, and the increase in the amount of time spent indoors, many people are spending significantly less time soaking in natural light. There are even concerns that light from the sun is damaging to our eyes and skin when we are exposed to it for too long. However, that wisdom must be put into perspective: we still benefit from the light of the sun. So here I'd like to share some information on the benefits of sunlight exposure.

First of all, direct sunlight exposure, and specifically UVB light, reacts in our skin to produce vitamin D. Vitamin D is an extremely important nutrient needed for daily processes in our bodies: it plays a role in insulin secretion, it helps our bodies absorb calcium, and is needed for bone growth and repair. Vitamin D is also essential for reducing inflammation and increasing immune function and neuromuscular connectivity!

Although there are some foods that provide Vitamin D like fish, fish oil, and white button mushrooms, the next best source comes from the sun. Our skin, our liver, and kidneys can synthesize usable vitamin D from sunlight, from Ultraviolet B (UVB) rays specifically. Five to thirty minutes of sunlight during the day is associated with sufficient Vitamin D levels. You can probably still get Vitamin D even when applying sunscreen, but the higher the SPF rating, the less UVB light is getting to your skin. Light coming in from a window will reduce the UVB in the light as it comes in, so direct exposure is needed.

Beyond the benefits of sunlight on our skin, exposure to light in our eyes is also a major contributor to our overall wellness, including our rest and mental health functioning. Light exposure in the morning contributes to the setting of our circadian rhythm. That rhythm is our internal clock which tracks the 24-hour cycle of day and night, wakefulness and sleepiness. There are many structures within our body responsible for keeping this rhythm, but the "central clock" is located in our brain called the SCN (Suprachiasmatic Nucleus), which is most directly impacted by our exposure to light.

Sunlight, early in the morning, triggers the release of cortisol, a neurochemical essential for focus and attention. This triggers the brain to clear out adenosine which you can think of as the grogginess chemicals leftover from sleep. Early morning light exposure also sets the circadian rhythm on a path to release natural melatonin in our bodies about 16 hours later: the time we would naturally be going to sleep.

Of course, it's important not to stare at the sun directly or to overly expose our skin to the sun which can lead to skin damage. However, being outside for just ten to twenty minutes at the start of the day helps your body attune its rhythm to the earth and sun. That process persists as one of the most enduring blessings humans have ever received and still benefit from today.

Here's to your good health! It's okay not to feel okay. If you or someone you know has been struggling with their emotions, behaviors, or substance use please reach out to us. We can help you find appropriate tools and services that could help you overcome obstacles in your life. We are here for you. Please contact the Southern Ute Behavioral Health Division at 970-563-5700 for more information or to set up an appointment to see a counselor or therapist.

Reminder: If you need to talk to someone, please reach out. And for those interested in opioid use education, harm reduction, and support, please contact us for quick Naloxone (Narcan) training and fentanyl test strips. We can schedule individual, family, or friends training times at our Southern Ute Behavioral Health Building, or we can come to you, and the training is around 30 minutes. POSITIVE INDIAN PARENTING

Honoring our Tradition by Honoring our Children

Positive Indian Parenting (PIP) has been used for over 35 years and remains popular today because the teachings are timeless. Historically, we had rich teachings that helped children grow up safe with strong families. Colonization threatened those teachings – our Native families were being separated and traditional practices were at risk of being lost. PIP was developed in the 1980s to fill this void and was designed to help parents and families remember our traditional teachings and apply them in the modern world.

In part one of each session we will discuss examples of traditional practices and teachings from several different tribes. Instructors also share teachings from local areas and communities. Part two of each session discusses how to apply those teachings and values today. Complete all 8 sessions to receive a certificate.

Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy history

By Mari Jo Owens,
Principal
SO. UTE INDIAN MONTESSORI
ACADEMY

Starting with this article, I’ve chosen to write some history of the Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy based on written records, oral information, and my knowledge of being with the school since the beginning. I will be as accurate in my articles as possible, or at least fairly close.

The Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy opened its doors to students on Sept. 5, 2000. A lot of preparation had to take place before this could happen. The first thing had to be the idea of the Tribe creating their own school, and once that was approved, then the building site, the architects, the staff, the curriculum, and the name of the school had to be chosen. The first name of the school was ‘The Family Center’ but that changed as the school was being built.

The targeted age was early childhood, which encompasses birth to eight years old with an awareness that upper elementary levels would be added on as the years went by. As the design of the school became a reality, a groundbreaking ceremony took place on Oct. 25, 1999, with their sights set on five buildings.

As the Southern Ute language was to be the cornerstone of the school, those five buildings were named: Atukach (grasshopper-in-fants and toddler building); Tuk (mountain lion – administration building); Pawaa (bald eagle - primary building); Kuch (buffalo – elementary building); Paa’at (raven – dining hall).

When the school first opened, we used the Charney system for our Ute language writing and lessons,

courtesy SUIMA

As this pole shows, the names of the SUIMA buildings are represented by animals that have characteristics of the students and staff who work in those respective buildings.

we currently use the Tribal Council approved Ute Dictionary. Stay tuned for more tidbits of history about the Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy.

January’s Character Counts color is Blue!

Blue stands for trustworthiness – True Blue and Resolutions (making and keeping them) In 2013 the district adopted Character Counts as a way to reinforce positive behavior, attitude, and growth in the school district. Since that time we have used the pillars of character to recognize multitudes of students, staff, and community members. The Multi-cultural committee represents all stakeholders who work with youth in the community helps guide the process. We ask staff to incorporate ideas as they see fit within their classroom. One of the staff’s favorite activities is to dress in the color of the month recognizing each pillar. Those days are weekly on Wednesdays and/or one day a month predesignated by each building principal

$2.1 M for Colorado wildlife research and hunting heritage projects

Staff Report
Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation

From research focused on the cause of declining juvenile elk numbers to projects aimed at enhancing wildlife habitat and supporting hunting heritage, the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation and its conservation partners supplied $2,176,597 to Colorado. The grant funding benefits elk, mule deer, pronghorn antelope, black bears, mountain lions and many other wildlife species.

“The more verified, scientific information we can gather about elk and habitat usage, the better management decisions will be made for all wildlife going forward,” said Blake Henning, RMEF chief conservation officer. “This funding bolsters five research efforts, helps improve wildlife habitat and both defends and supports hunting.”

The 23 different projects received $491,808 in RMEF funding that helped leverage $1,684,789 in partner dollars.

“We recognize and thank our passionate volunteers for planning and hosting banquets and other events across the state that raised this funding,” said Kyle Weaver, RMEF president and CEO.

Colorado is home to nearly 15,000 RMEF members and 29 chapters. Dating back to 1987, RMEF and its partners completed 870 conservation and hunting heritage outreach projects in Colorado with a combined value of more than $206.4 million. These projects conserved and enhanced 507,384 acres of habitat and opened or improved public access to 119,612 acres.

Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation

Founded more than 39 years ago and fueled by hunters, RMEF maintains more than 225,000 members and has conserved more than 8.8 million acres for elk and other wildlife. RMEF also works to open and improve public access, fund and advocate for science-based resource management, and ensure the future of America’s hunting heritage. High levels of cancer-causing radon gas detected in 46.1% of Colorado homes

Staff report
AMERICAN LUNG ASSOCIATION

Radon is the second leading cause of lung cancer and the “State of Lung Cancer” report reveals that it is detected at high levels in about 46.1% of homes in Colorado. During January for National Radon Action Month, the American Lung Association in Colorado is urging everyone to help save lives by testing their home for radon and mitigating if high levels are detected.

Radon is a naturally occurring radioactive gas emitted from the ground. Radon is odorless, tasteless and colorless, and can enter a home through cracks in floors, basement walls, foundations and other openings. Radon can be present at high levels inside homes, schools and other buildings. It is responsible for an estimated 21,000 lung cancer deaths every year and is the leading cause of lung cancer in people who have never smoked.

Here in Colorado, about 46.1% of radon test results equal or exceed the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) action level of 4 pCi/L, according to the Lung Association’s “State of Lung Cancer” report.

“Radon in homes is more common than you think. In fact, high levels of radioactive radon gas have been found in every state but most places in the country remain undertested, so this isn’t something that should be taken lightly. Exposure to radon is the second leading cause of lung cancer in the United States,” said Nick Torres, Advocacy Director for the Lung Association. “Testing for radon is the only way to know if the air in your home is safe. The good news is that it is easy to test. Do-it-yourself test kits are simple to use and inexpensive.”

In Colorado, a limited number of no-cost professional radon testings are available with the American Lung Association’s partner, Protect Environmental. Learn more and sign up at Lung.org/Protect-Environmental.

After high levels are detected, a radon professional should install a radon mitigation system, which is easy and relatively affordable. A typical radon mitigation system consists of a vent pipe, fan and properly sealing cracks and other openings. This system collects radon gas from underneath the foundation and vents it to the outside. Contact your state radon program for a list of certified professionals in your state. Some state health departments offer financial assistance or low interest loans for radon mitigation.

Learn more about radon testing and mitigation at Lung.org/radon and take the Lung Association’s free Radon Basics course at Lung.org/Radon-Basics.

MPF adds youth programming

photos courtesy SU Multi-Purpose Facility

A Youth Healthy Cooking class was held with Lisa Smith on Thursday, Dec. 28, there were 12 students, all came with a parent, grandparent, or guardian. They made turkey tacos, and salsa; many of the elders attended to help with the preparations and cooking. This was the first time the MPF held classes specifically for the youth, all the events were well received, and participants requested more classes.

As well as Cooking classes, the Southern Ute Multi-Purpose Facility held a jerky making class for youth, Wednesday, Dec. 27. There were 12 youth and their parents or grandparents and elders; Councilwoman Marge Barry attended and shared a cultural story. It was good to see the elders, parents and grandparents working together on their projects.

Youth Crafting was held Thursday, Jan. 4 – there were 18 youths, grandparents, parents, and elders – about 40 people in total who attended. Participants made breastplate and started to learn the peyote stitch. MPF plans to hold youth events monthly; the events are open to all community members. Theoden Greany displays his bone breastplate.

Tribes respond to attempt to overturn Bears Ears boundaries

Staff report
NATIVE AMERICAN RIGHTS FUND

On Tuesday, Jan. 9, the Hopi Tribe, Navajo Nation, Pueblo of Zuni, and Ute Mountain Ute Tribe filed their response in Garfield County et al. v. Biden et al. in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit. The consolidated case was appealed to the court in October 2023 as part of an ongoing attempt to undermine the boundaries of the Bears Ears and Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monuments.

In 2021, President Biden reaffirmed the boundaries of the Bears Ears National Monument with a presidential proclamation. More than a year later, the state of Utah along with Garfield and Kane Counties, individual recreationalists, and mining interests filed two lawsuits to overturn the proclamation. The cases were consolidated. The Native American Rights Fund (NARF) represents the Hopi Tribe, Ute Mountain Ute Tribe, and the Pueblo of Zuni as they, along with the Navajo Nation, intervened in the consolidated case.

The U.S. District Court of the District of Utah dismissed the consolidated cases in August 2023 for lack of jurisdiction. The judge found (among other things) that the proclamation was not judicially reviewable because the Antiquities Act allows presidents to create national monuments at their discretion.

“Unfortunately, the state and counties are determined to use taxpayer money to pursue a case that is based on a list of grievances and political theater rather than on legal standing,” explained NARF Deputy Direct Matthew Campbell. “As we detailed in this brief, the plaintiffs lack standing to bring suit, and the courts have held for over a century that presidents can create national monuments. They may believe in their cause with vigor, but so do the Tribal Nations who have generations of connections to the region. And, the Tribes have the law on their side.”

Each of the five Tribal Nations has cultural, religious, and historic connections to the Bears Ears region. Whether those ties are to the sacred towering spires in the Valley of the Gods, the ancient migration routes throughout the region, the ceremonial sites that are still used to this day, or the many historic and cultural items that have been left behind by their ancestors, Bears Ears is a traditional and historic homeland for each of the Tribal Nations.

Read more about Bears Ears and the long fight by the region’s Tribal Nations to protect it from looting, vandalism, and exploitation at <https://narf.org/cases/bears-ears/>.

Native American Rights Fund (NARF)

NARF is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization focused on applying existing laws and treaties to guarantee that federal and state governments live up to their legal obligations to Native Americans. Since 1970, the Native American Rights Fund (NARF) has provided specialized legal assistance to Native American Tribal Nations, organizations, and individuals nationwide to assert and defend the most important Native rights. In hundreds of major cases, NARF has achieved significant results in critical areas such as tribal sovereignty, treaty rights, natural resource protection, voting rights, and Indian education. Marvin Pinnecoose/Special to the Drum

Many farmers will take a few years to install a pivot system. I chose to rip off the bandage and do it within one year.

AGRICULTURE PRACTICES

That Farm Life: Shared experiences to benefit the beginning farmer

2023 Learning Experiences

By Marvin Pinnecoose
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

What doesn't break you makes you stronger

Best practices are elements of doing the job over time and discovering ways to improve. Some people might say that this is the means of establishing experience. The more you go through, the more you learn.

Best practices are a little more in depth. It is an accumulated knowledge that can be passed along to children, helpers, or apprentices. It can also be learned, valued, and kept to oneself. The reason for this is that learned beneficial experience can be seen as a competitive advantage in doing business. People doing similar work are always looking for ways to differentiate themselves from their neighbors. Sometimes best practices lower the costs of doing business. A person can do more with less. All of this will either save money in the course of providing services and selling products, or it can reflect a selling price to be more competitive against people who offer similar services or products.

To bring this concept back to the farm, farmers can either keep their learned knowledge to themselves or share this to help others become stronger and not have to go through the pains to gain that wisdom.

"There is no pain. There is no pain," — Apollo Creed

The knowledge learned over the year is extremely valuable because it helps to steer the way things are done in the upcoming year. As I get older, the reality is that I may not be able to move around the farm the way I would hope. I don't want this to limit my ability to farm. This is why I found value in moving to build pivot irrigation systems on the property.

Marvin Pinnecoose/Special to the Drum

My biggest lesson of this past year should have been to take my subcontractors words with a grain of salt. 'We can have it done by April' is a hope, not a promise. Keep flood ditches until the work is done.

Was it expensive to do? Absolutely, yes it was. Whether I would do it again ... that's a whole different article.

The point is that I want to avoid pitfalls before they show up right before me. Some can be planned. Others are discovered and dealt with when they show up. My point is that this year was not good for growing hay on the farm because most of the season was spent in construction while watching water pass by. My big learning opportunity is that I never should have plowed up my flood irrigation ditches until the pivot was installed and running. That alone would have saved a whole year of production.

I also learned that it is very motivating to keep my ditch lines clear and eradicate the willows, thistles, and unwanted weeds. The idea is to have nothing but harvestable vegetation in the fields. It also helps keep critters and unwanted animals to a minimum. Being able to see the entire property helps to find problem areas and to identify quick fixes in the fields or along the fence lines.

My last learning opportunity was that I need to make sure that if I am going to do a fall seeding, to make sure to do it earlier in the fall. I was hesitant to do this, but I was curious to know and so I seeded beyond a reasonable germination time. Now I know.

Experience is the point of life

The purpose of life might be to build a life full of experiences, make mistakes, and break eggs. Each year that we survive, rewards us with wisdom and confidence. I would like to think that most of us will all be doing better next year and will heal from any wounds incurred during 2023. The things we cannot control are beyond our means and thus we should minimize the amount of stress that we apply toward that. Let us focus on the things that we can control.

Our attitude is a big one. I like to think that farming isn't as hard as people say. You simply move from one task to the next, while keeping an eye on the calendar. Find the time within a given day that allows you to be productive and choose to enjoy those challenges. Look forward to great results, but be prepared for issues with weather, water, and gauge whether or not you can have more this year than next. It's always nice to hope, but sometimes staying in the game is just as important.

Marvin Pinnecoose/Special to the Drum

These buddies of mine sometimes come to visit while I am out in the field.

Rima, deKay runners-up for Ignacio

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

If one has to lose a wrestling bout, one may as well do so against a competitor whose level one aspires to reach. That was the case Saturday, Jan. 6, for Ignacio's Aven Bourriague.

Dealt just his second defeat this winter at Pagosa Springs' 2024 Rocky Mountain Invitational, the sophomore 106-pounder lost only to Bloomfield, N.M., junior Gunner Samora – last season's New Mexico Activities Association Class 4A State Champion at 107 – in the semifinals, but lasted the full six minutes before dropping a 13-5 major decision. Otherwise, Bourriague (18-2 overall) was title-caliber; three of his four wins at the meet came via pin, and he concluded the event beating Center freshman Michael Archuleta – ranked No. 2 at the weight in On The Mat's updated Class 2A rankings going in – by a 6-2 margin in the third-place clash.

And with senior Kyle Rima finishing second at heavyweight, and sophomore Lincoln deKay doing likewise at 150 pounds, head coach Jordan Larsen's gents amassed 99 points and placed ninth overall. Bringing the RMI

Also finishing ahead of IHS, 4A Durango and 1A Monticello, Utah, tied for seventh with 114 points each. Rima (12-3) went 2-1 on the day, losing 2-1 in the finals to Pagosa Springs junior Antonio Quesada. Rima's semifinal win, however, over RFHS sophomore Omar Ocana was impressive; Rima pinned the Meloneer 1:22 into the third and last two-minute period, and Ocana then fought back to save third place with back-to-back pins – improving his season record to 21-4 already.

deKay (17-1) went 3-1 with a pin, a major decision, and a conventional decision, but then lost – for the first time in the 2023-24 season – in the finals to 2A Monte Vista junior Kevin Cisneros, 5 to 1.

Lady Bobcats resume wrestling in Junction

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

The only Lady Bobcat to post a winning record (3-2) Saturday, Jan. 6, in Grand Junction, Ignacio senior Kacey Brown started the individual-style session of G.J. Central's 2024 Border Battle with a pin of Olathe's Taylor Armstead, and ended it with a second-period stick of Mead's Shiloh Smith – earning Brown fifth at 130 pounds and helping IHS earn top-ten status.

Forced to fight through the consolation side of the weight's bracket after losing by pin in the quarterfinals to Moffat County's Kayla Deaton, Brown also notched a pin against Central's Addison Fox as Ignacio managed to total 41 points and finish tenth out of 14 teams represented.

GJCHS won the event with a fierce score of 279, with Mead (181.5) a distant second and OHS (144) third.

Gunnison placed fourth with 118 points, and MCHS returned to Craig with a fifth-place score of 116.

Matching Brown's 15 accumulated team points, sophomore Marlene Martinez-Perez posted a 2-2 record at 135 pounds and ended up in fourth place after losing by pin against Central's Rya Burke. Also placing fourth was sophomore Larissa Espinosa, who went 2-3 at 235 with one win, unluckily, coming at teammate Soriah Perez's expense. Finishing 1-4 at the weight, the senior Perez ended up placing fifth via a medical-forfeit victory over Basalt's Saniyah Culcleasure.

Junior 125-pounder Audrey Roderick unluckily went two-and-out after losing by first-period pin to Moffat County teammates HayLee Staker and Miriam Jimenez.

During the previous day's dual-style action, IHS lost 48-6 to Olathe (Brown's pin of Azure Wallace the Lady Bobcats' only points), then 60-15 to Mead (Brown pinned Smith; Roderick edged Addyson Mooradian 5-4). At a disadvantage due to sheer personnel numbers, the Lady 'Cats then fell 78-0 to G.J. Central and 48-12 to Durango (Martinez-Perez earned a first-period pin against Quincy Ellis; Espinosa won by forfeit).

Ignacio then lost the seventh-place dual to Rifle, but by a more competitive 42-24 margin. Brown pinned Annika Liedke 1:13 in the second period, Roderick and Martinez-Perez each won by forfeit, and Espinosa was credited with a win over Perez – willing to stand in for the Lady Bears, if only to gain another bout – before RHS earned 30 forfeit points in the five lowest weights.

Aimee Larsen's Lady 'Cats will next see action Saturday, January 13, at Kirtland (N.M.) Central's Bronco Invite/Duals.

OBITUARY

FROST – Kenneth “Kenny” Frost made his journey to the spirit world on December 29, 2023, in Durango, Colorado. He was born November 12, 1954, in Ignacio, Colorado, to Kathleen Frost.

Kenny grew up on the Southern Ute Reservation and attended Ignacio High School, graduating at age 15. He was a star athlete in fastpitch softball, and in basketball he played center. He led both teams to numerous undefeated championships.

Kenny had a passion for his Ute culture. He participated as a catman for the Bear Dance. He became a Sundance Chief and traveled to many powwows.

After graduating high school, Kenny attended Mesa College in Grand Junction, Colorado. Later he became a dispatcher for the Southern Ute Police Department. He also worked as a director for the resource department. Kenny later attended the police academy in Glenwood Springs, Colorado. He took the required written test and passed it on his first try, later conducting the class and teaching other students.

He became a police officer for the Southern Ute Tribe and for the Town of Ignacio. Kenny also served as an EMT and an ambulance driver alongside his mother, Kathleen Frost. He instructed CPR classes.

Kenny moved to Craig, Colorado with his daughter Maretta for a time. He loved the Denver Broncos, Denver Nuggets, Colorado Rockies and the Colorado Avalanche. He enjoyed attending games with his grandboys and traveling all over Colorado with them.

Kenny began consulting and working with all four of the United States Forest Service (USFS) supervisors’ offices on Colorado’s Western Slope in the 1990s.

His contributions made a lasting impact on the Native history, policy and governance of the Gunnison-Uncompahgre, San Juan, Routt and White River national forests. His work resulted in three major accomplishments.

First, Kenny helped to organize the United Ute Powwow in Glenwood Springs, Colorado, bringing the three sovereign Ute Nations together for the first time in 118 years. This resulted in quarterly Tri-Ute meetings that still take place today with the Uintah-Ouray Ute Indian Tribe, Southern Ute and Ute Mountain Ute tribes of Colorado and Utah.

Second was the discovery, study and reburial of the Indigenous 8,000-year-old man in the White River National Forest, in which Kenny ensured the remains were handled appropriately and with ceremony, decorum and respect.

Third, Kenny was instrumental in helping the Southern Ute Tribe’s contribution to USFS forest planning. Those contributions resulted in the first Native American interest section in the Land and Resource Management Plan for the White River National Forest.

Kenny was a devoted believer and steward of his Ute culture and respected other tribal beliefs. He encouraged his family to carry on their traditional ways. Kenny traveled to various states to help with consultation on Native American rights. His last trip was to Hawaii in summer 2023, to express his solidarity with the efforts to free Hawaii from the United States and its unlawful occupation of the islands. He was very eager to support those fighting for Indigenous rights and he loved seeing progress.

Kenny was very positive and encouraging. He carried his sense of humor with him wherever he went and shared it with everyone he talked to. Kenny stands tall among his ancestors.

His daughter, grandchildren and great grandchildren were paramount in his life; there was nothing he wouldn’t do for them. Kenny is survived by his only daughter Maretta Frost, his grandchildren Darien Neskahi, Seranden Frost, Jamarr Lang, Katerie Lang, Tatum Lang and Riley Lang, great grandchildren Yizeth Frost, Zayden Frost and his favorite, Justin Bear Lang.

Kenny was preceded in death by his mother Kathleen Frost, grandmother Bertha Frost and great-grandparents George Norris Frost (Nanece Subchief, Medicine Man and War Chief of the Southern Ute Tribe) and Mary Norris.

fourth and final frame. Having struck from straight away, Garcia’s next try from that location was unsuccessful, and junior Ismael Medina clutched the rebound – somehow beyond Cox’s wingspan – then passed ahead to Hurtado. Fouled with 13.8 ticks left on the clock, Hurtado hit one of two free throws, solidifying MVHS’ two-score advantage.

Refusing to concede, Ignacio then managed to inbound and whip the ball forward to Garcia in the near corner. Spinning away from a defender and directly into a shooting stance, Garcia’s three-pointer was good ... but waved off due to a traveling violation as he attempted to maintain balance while pivoting.

Monte Vista then inbounded to Marquez, and immediately fouled the junior guard with 0:06.8 still remaining. Having made his previous two FTs, rebuilding the Pirates’ lead to 49-41 with 45.8 left, Marquez made sure to seal up a 52-44 win with two more makes – leaving him 4-of-8 from the charity stripe and increasing his point total to a team-high 18.

Doing his best work when driving to the basket and drawing contact, Hurtado went 10-of-15 from the foul line and ended up with 16 points. Madrid finished with six points, all during the first half (which ended with MVHS up 31-20), and sophomore reserve Alex Gonzales logged five points, including a key three-ball during the second quarter keeping the ‘Cats – who’d closed the aforementioned early gap to 13-10 by the end of the first – at bay, 20-12.

Senior guard Phillip Quintana, who’d foul out with 2:52 left in the game, concluded the first half with a steal and end-to-end take for a buzzer-beating layup, giving Ignacio (4-4 overall, 0-0 3A/4A Intermountain) momentum which carried into the third quarter and helped cut – via a three by senior guard Devante Montoya, assisted by Cox – MVHS’ lead down to 31-25.

The Pirates (5-3, 0-0 2A/3A Southern Peaks)

Joel Priest/Special to the Drum

Ignacio’s Devante Montoya (11) and Ambrose Valdez (22) try trapping Monte Vista’s Azariah Hurtado (24) far from the basket during the teams’ mutual 2024 restart Saturday afternoon, Jan. 6, at MVHS. The Pirates defeated the Bobcats 52-44.

managed to again generate enough offense to rebuild their lead to 37-28 going into the fourth quarter, but the ‘Cats kept clawing and crept back to 42-37 after Quintana, catching junior Coty Webb’s deflected cross-court pass, drained a trey from the left wing and freshman Cayson Burcham made one of two FTs.

Making seven of IHS’ nine shots from the field while scoring all ten of IHS’ first-quarter points and 16 of the Bobcats’ first-half 20, Cox (3-7 FT) racked up a game-high 25 points in defeat, while collecting (unofficially) 15 rebounds. Garcia ended up booking six points, Quintana five and Montoya three. Sophomore Trace Crane and Webb chipped in two points apiece.

Ignacio will next begin IML work, welcoming 4A Alamosa on Friday night, January 12, then 4A Pagosa Springs on the 13th. AHS (7-2 overall, 0-0 league) will enter IHS Gymnasium first on a five-game win streak, including a 32-31 home win over 2A Sanford on the 5th and a 78-76 triumph on the 6th at non-league Delta (2-6, 0-0 4A Western Slope).

LADY ‘CATS STOPPED SHORT

Despite getting support offensively in the paint from junior forward DaLaney Wesner, senior center/forward Solymar Cosio managed to net only two of her game-high nine points after halftime as Ignacio lost a close 37-31 contest to Monte Vista in the teams’ first 2024 outing.

Having led 5-4 after one quarter, the visiting Lady Bobcats (4-4, 0-0 3A/4A Intermountain) went back into their locker room dead-even with the Lady Pirates (6-1, 0-0 2A/3A Southern Peaks) at 15-15. Consistency ultimately paid off for MVHS, however; after scoring 11 points during the second quarter, Monte Vista then posted 11 in the third and 11 in the fourth – winning the second half 22-16.

Juniors Allesah Archuleta and Sasha Dupont each scored seven points for the Lady Pirates, and each sank one of the Lady Pirates’ two three-pointers. Particularly well-timed, Dupont’s make came during the fourth quarter and helped the home team maintain just enough separation on the scoreboard. Sophomore Hey-senny Beltran scored six points, while seniors Zariah Archuleta and Stephanie Lopez each contributed five.

Wesner managed eight points in defeat, and senior Maci Barnes scored six. “Junior Marissa Olguin was held to just three points and senior Darlyn Mendoza-Lechuga three while making only one of her five free throws (IHS went 8-of-18 overall; MVHS finished 7-of-14).”

IHS will next host 4A Alamosa Friday evening, January 12, with 4A Pagosa Springs coming to town on the 13th. AHS stood 6-3 overall (0-0 IML) prior to hosting 5A Pueblo County (5-3 overall) on the 9th, but results were unavailable at press time.

nior Aaron Valadez (by a 7-3 decision) in the semis, then to Viking junior Andre Meraz (by an 11-2 major) in the third-place bout – after Pontine had stayed alive in the consolation round with a third-period pin of Bloomfield junior Eli Snell-Martinez.

165-pounder Kendrick Nossaman (12-9) went 3-2 and placed seventh by pinning PSHS senior Derek Carter 49 ticks into the second period. It was the junior’s third stick of the tourney, alternating with a 7-0 loss to MVHS junior Jacob Pacheco and a first-period pin loss to 2A Nucla junior David Quigley.

rigan also went 3-2 and saved seventh place, his own see-saw tournament at 120 pounds also fortunately ending on the up – in the form of a 7-4 win over Dolores’ Kenji Edwards. At 126, freshman Judah Ashley went 0-2 while sophomore Dillon Brann did likewise at 132 and freshman Brandon Blevins at 157.

Up next, IHS will travel to Kirtland, N.M., on Saturday, January 13, for Kirtland Central’s 2024 Bronco Invite/Duals.

GREAT WAY TO GET UNDERWAY

Competing in Dolores Friday evening, Jan. 5, the Bobcat boys resumed post-holiday action at a quadrangular hosted by the 2A San Juan Basin League rival Bears and went 2-1 at the dual style gathering.

Ignacio lost 24-20 to Monticello but then defeated 3A Montezuma-Cortez 19-15 and DHS 24-6, according to information supplied by Ben Bradley of The Cortez Journal.

Rima and Pontine each notched pins against MHS, and Bourriague did so against M-CHS. He then recorded another against Dolores, as did Kerrigan, Pontine and Blevins. Sophomore Nathan Hill’s pin at 132 earned the Bears their only points.

did you know?!

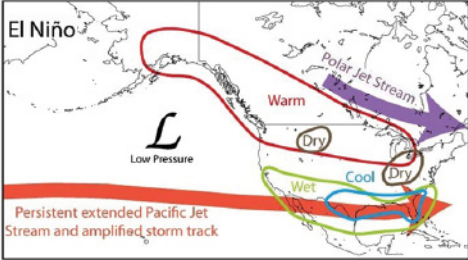

El Niño and La Niña are the warm and cool phases of a recurring climate pattern across the tropical Pacific—the El Niño-Southern Oscillation, or “ENSO” for short. The pattern shifts back and forth irregularly every two to seven years, bringing predictable shifts in ocean surface temperature and disrupting the wind and rainfall patterns across the tropics. These changes have a cascade of global side effects.

We are currently in an El Niño pattern, which could bring wetter than average winter weather to the four corners area.
